GOVERNMENT TO SPUR COAL PRODUCTION; WILL PROTECT ALL WORKERS WHO RETURN AND SEIZE MINES IF OPERATORS BALK

UNION TO FIGHT INJUNCTION

Lewis Confers with Gompers on Legal Action—Operators Order New Scale Posted at Mines.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The Government officially warned bituminous coal miners and operators tonight that it would not tolerate any interference with the production of coal. Instructions have been sent to all United States Attorneys in the coal districts, Judge Ames announced for the Department of Justice, to prosecute any conspirators on either side.

Ample protection will be afforded to all persons desiring to work in the mines, Judge Ames said, and he pointed out that instructions issued heretofore by the War Department were still in force, and that department commanders will act in proper cases when requested to do so by the State authorities.

The Government counts on the operators granting the 14 per cent. wage increase and opening the mines to permit the men to return to work. The position taken by the Department of Justice is that there shall be no favorites played, and that if any of the operators fail to give whole-hearted support to the program of the Government they also will be proceeded against. It is the decree of the Government that the operators must accept the Garfield offer and be ready to carry it out wherever the miners are prepared to accept, without passing on the increase to the consuming public.

There may be some operators who will stand out against this decree. In that event the Government may take over these mines under the authority given by the Lever act. But for the present the Government is opposed to taking over the coal mines, and will endeavor to effect an ending of the strike without resorting to such a method.

Prepare for Court Action.

The Department of Justice, it is understood, will next go into the courts and ask that injunctions be granted in all cases where it has evidence that district and local leaders of the coal miners are guilty of working to keep the men on strike, thus cutting down the production of coal. Agents of the department have been at work on this phase of the situation for several days and the next definite move may be made Monday, or at any rate early next week.

In the meantime the War Department has given instructions that protection shall be given to all men who wish to work in the coal mines, and that troops for this work shall be put at the disposal of the executive officers of the coal mining States. It is said that the War Department is prepared to furnish as many as 100,000 men, if the situation becomes serious.

The leaders of the miners have said that they will not attempt to interfere with any who wish to go back to work, but it is their opinion that the men now on strike will not go back, and that as soon as further injunction proceedings are started, the strike will spread. Further employment of the injunction, some feel, will arouse more enmity among the workers.

Just how this will come out, neither operators nor miners are making definite statements, however. It is probable that next week will show whether the majority of the miners will continue in their defiance to the Government, Operators announce that they will post the facts in regard to the Government's offer conspicuously and ask the men to return to work. The developments of Monday and Tuesday will be of momentous importance.

Acting President Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America spent several hours today in conference with Secretary Wilson and Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor. Mr. Lewis said that the position of the miners in regard to the Government's offer of a 1 4per cent. wage increase was unchanged.

Federation Backs Miners.

The American Federation of Labor is sympathetic to the miners and will put its influence back of the fight against the use of injunctions by the Government. After his conference with Acting President Lewis and Secretary Green of the United Mine Workers of America, Mr. Gompers made the following statement:

"Mr. Lewis and Mr. Greene came to see me this afternoon. It was the first

Oklahoma Asks for Regulars to Protect Miners; Missouri Governor Wants States to Take Action

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov 28.—Governor Robertson today wired Secretary Baker, asking that Federal troops be sent into Oklahoma to protect against interference coal miners willing to return to work.

The Governor today ended negotiations with representatives of the coal operators and announced that another attempt to operate the mines with volunteers would be made. He declared that the operators had shown no disposition to give material assistance in keeping up the supply of coal in the present crisis.

Governor Robertson has asked the Council of Defense to call for volunteers. Units of ten will be obtained from each town in the State, and larger quotas from the larger cities.

"Transportation and good wages will be guaranteed by the State to all men who answer the call," the Governor said. "The operators and coal miners are both to blame for the present situation. Now they both can go to the devil."

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 28.—Governor Gardner of Missouri has not received a reply from Fuel Administrator Garfield to his inquiry as to what action the Government intended to take in the coal situation, and so will not call a conference of Governors and Attorneys General of the coal-producing States to consider the situation until he hears from Washington.

"We have got to play ball with this thing," said the Governor. "The situation is such that we must have coal in large enough quantities to supply all needs, and we must have it soon."

The conference, if held, would meet in Chicago, probably Monday or Tuesday, in case the Fuel Administrator's reply indicated the necessity of such a meeting.

KANSAS GETS 3,700 VOLUNTEER MINERS

START OPERATIONS TODAY

Hope for a Daily Output of 50 Carloads in Three Days and 100 Within a Week.

Special to The New York Times.

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 28.—More than 3,700 citizens of the State of Kansas had responded up till noon today to Governor Allen's appeal for volunteers to work in the coal mines to relieve the fuel shortage. Meanwhile more applications continue to come in.

The majority of the volunteers are students. Governor Allen was informed today by Chancellor Strong of the University of Kansas that credits will be granted students who volunteer to dig coal.

The Governor's call was for 1,000 men. In addition to the force in the Governor's office, John Crawford, Labor Commissioner, who is mobilizing the workmen, had an extra force at work listing the applications as they came in.

In Governor Allen's private office the long distance telephone is working overtime. Governor Allen is devoting himself particularly to helping General Martin in the work of preparation for the men when they arrive at Pittsburg, Kan. Nothing is to be lacking for the comfort and care of the men who volunteer.

Offers of help and equipment continue to come in from grading outfits, and from men who have had experience in the work. Only one class of labor needed appears this evening to be lacking, and that is experts to man the big strip shovels.

The first detail of men to prepare for the army of volunteer workers in the Kansas coal mines will reach the Crawford-Cherokee coal field today, and it is expected they will have everything in readiness to receive the workers by tomorrow night.

"The receivers are going to operate the mines with the greatest possible efficiency," the Governor said, "and we hope that within three days we will be getting out coal from the strip pits at the rate of fifty carloads a day and that within a week we will be mining at the rate of 100 cars a day."

Allen Confers with General Wood.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 28.—Plans for manning the strip pit mines of the Kansas coal fields with volunteer workers next week were discussed at a conference tonight between Governor Allen of Kansas and Major General Leonard Wood, Commander of the Central Department of the Army.

Governor Allen said that the principal matter taken up at the conference was that of getting supplies to the coal fields for the volunteer workers. He said he could not discuss other features of the conference.

The first contingent of volunteer miners will be sent to the coal fields Monday, Governor Allen said. As rapidly as they can be taken care of others will be rushed to the fields until several thousand men are at work. The Governor said he expected the number of volunteers would reach 5,000.

"We have enough men to put into the fields at once to operate fifteen steam shovels," he asserted. "By the middle of next week we expect to be turning out 10,000 tons of coal a day."

It has been announced that troops would be used to protect the volunteer miners.

LADY ASTOR WINS SEAT IN COMMONS

Led Her Nearest Opponent, the Labor Candidate, by 5,203 Votes.

CALLS ON NATION TO UNITE

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PLYMOUTH, Nov. 28.—Lady Astor was elected member for the Sutton Division of Plymouth in the balloting held on Nov. 15, the vote standing as follows:

Lady Astor, Unionist	14,495
W. T. Gay, Labor	9,292
Isaac Foot, Liberal	4,139

There were tense moments before the result was made known. The people admitted to the Guildhall realised long before the final count that Lady Astor had brought her vivacious campaign to a successful conclusion. All three candidates were present some little time before the Town Clerk announced that Lady Astor had been elected.

A recount, necessitated by the totals differing by twenty-five, made the new member impatient.

"It's a shame to keep everyone waiting over twenty-five votes," she said, shaking a big bouquet of Autumn flowers which had been given to her by members of the Primrose League. "I'll willingly give them to Mr. Gay. That shows how considerate women are going to be in public life."

It was Lord Astor who announced to his wife and successor that she had beaten by 5,203 votes the Labor candidate, who menaced her chances of success most seriously, and had a majority over the combined votes of her rivals of 1,064.

Next to greet the candidate was her 12-year-old son, the Hon. William Astor, who had been taking the keenest interest in the proceedings and who, fortified by a packet of sandwiches, visited all the counting tables in turn.

"Well done, mum," he said, as he kissed his mother warmly.

"There are not many fellows who have seen both father and mother elected to Parliament," he proudly told his mother's friends who congratulated him.

"Plymouth Mother" Shows Emotion.

The Plymouth Mother, as Lord Astor charmingly named his wife in double reference to her descent from a Plymouth father and her present interest in the town, looked rather pale for a moment or two, when it became certain that she would be the first woman to go to the British Parliament. The high spirits which carried her so buoyantly through the trials of her particularly strenuous election fight soon reassured themselves, however.

"I cannot pretend to represent those who did not vote for me, but I hope to serve all those who did and those who didn't," were her first gently spoken words after she had received her husband's congratulations. The next moment the spirit of raillery in which this most unconventional of politicians delivers her serious convictions took the lead again. "I didn't do as well as you, anyhow, Waldorf," Lady Astor called to her husband, who looked well pleasedw ith the result.

"I'm slightly disappointed," she added for the benefit of a group of women who were congratulating her, and who recognized that one of the quips they had

Victory Claimed For Underwood as Leader; Senators Swinging to Treaty Compromise

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Supporters of Senator Underwood for minority leader of the Senate announced tonight that they had twenty-four of the forty-seven Democratic Senators pledged to vote for him against Senator Hitchcock.

It is the intention of those opposing Mr. Hitchcock to call the meeting to elect a successor to the late Senator Martin as leader early next week and if their claims are verified Mr. Underwood will be named as minority leader in the early days of the struggle to effect a compromise on the Peace Treaty.

Some Democratic leaders are saying that Senator Underwood, in the event of his election as minority leader, will take charge of the treaty fight, although it is not believed that the President would agree to displace Mr. Hitchcock, who handled the fight at the last session.

President Wilson and Senator Hitchcock are expected to formulate their program for resuming the battle for the treaty at a conference tomorrow morning at the White House.

It is believed by many that Senator Hitchcock will urge President Wilson to compromise on the Lodge reservations with slight changes in their text. Republican leaders are waiting to see what the President's attitude will be.

Indications tonight were that each side is holding to the determination not to yield anything that would take away credit for a victory in the final settlement. Party pride is likely to play a large part in the contest from now on.

Senators, returning from their home States, are expected to be more anxious than ever for quick disposition of the treaty. The pressure from the country is believed to be growing and Senators on both sides want a prompt settlement.

Despite the emphatic statements from Republican Senators that the time for compromise has passed, it is believed here tonight that the door to a settlement is not closed nearly so tightly as the statements of some Senators would indicate.

President Wilson probably will submit a draft of his proposed message to Senator Hitchcock. Whether he will send a separate treaty message to the Senate was not known.

LARKIN PLEDGES 500 TO COMMUNISM

HEARING IS REFUSED HOWE

Committee Will Lay Case of Weinberger, Reds' Counsel, Before Bar Association.

"Jim" Larkin and ex-Assemblyman Benjamin Gitlow, both of whom are at liberty in $15,000 bail under an indictment for criminal anarchy, addressed a mass meeting last night at which more than 500 men and women rose to their feet and took the Communist oath to fight for and remain true to the party's tenets repeated by Larkin. The meeting, which was held in the Manhattan Lyceum, 66 East Fourth Street, under the auspices of the Communist Labor Party of America, was presided over by Dr. Morris Zucker, a Brownsville dentist, who was sentenced to fifteen years in the Federal prison for violation of the Espionage act and is now out on $15,000 bail pending appeal. It was called to raise funds to defend Larkin and Gitlow. About $300 was raised.

Every reference to Soviet Russia, "the coming revolution in America," Trotsky, Lenin, and Eugene Debs was vigorously cheered and applauded by the audience. And with equal vigor did the radicals show their hostility by hissing to Senator Lusk, Archibald Stevenson, Assistant District Attorney Alexander I. Rorke, Samuel Gompers, the King of Belgium, the Prince of Wales, and the King of Italy.

Stenographers from the Police Department took down the speeches which were made by Larkin, Gitlow, and Dr. Zucker. Representatives from the Police Department and the Department of Justice were present in the hall during the meeting.

Dr. Zucker, who assumed the duties of a chairman after he had made a speech, struck a responsive note when he declared that perhaps the time would come when the workers would have to take up guns and pistols to protect themselves against the masters of capitalism. He said he had been subpoenaed to appear before the Extraordinary Grand Jury, and asserted that when he did go before that body they would not get a word out of him. The Communists wanted to act in a lawful manner in attaining their aims, he maintained, but were prevented by those who tried to disrupt their organization.

"This meeting is a conclusive answer to the Lusk Committee and Mr. Rorke (interrupted by plenty of hisses) that Communism can't be destroyed by putting Communists in jail," he said. "Every time you put one of us in prison a thousand others spring up to take our places. Some day we will overthrow this damnable capitalistic system and establish a Soviet republic in America."

Gitlow related his recent experiences with the Lusk Committee and the authorities. The acts of the Lusk Committee in the past three weeks had clarified the evolutionary movement in the United States, and "no scissor bill like Archibald Stevenson can stop its progress," he declared. He spoke of the progress he said the workers had made in Italy, and remarked that the King of Italy was looking for a home in the United States as the day approached when the Italian Parliament would meet to hear the royal message.

"Recently King Albert visited the United States, and maybe he will have to come here to live," Gitlow continued. "The Prince of Wales also came over, and all the Irish politicians in New York took their hats off while he kept his hat on. And now the King of Italy is determining what part of this country will be best suited for his home."

Gitlow served notice on the Lusk Committee that the next ruling class in this country would be the working class and the Government would be patterned after the Soviet form, which, he added, was best suited for the workers.

"And for the benefit of the Lusk Committee let me say that I am a Bolshevist," Gitlow said.

Larkin prefaced his lengthy speech with a characterization of Senator Lusk and the latter's associations. Some of

BERLIN SEEKS GAIN IF SENATE REJECTS

Foreign Office Declares Status of Obligations Altered Without America's Part.

SIGNED ON DIFFERENT BASIS

Announces Refusal of Scapa Flow Reparation — Allies Allot German Warships.

BERLIN, Nov. 28, (Associated Press).—The German Government will be confronted by an altered situation in respect to its obligations under the Versailles Peace Treaty in the event that the United States fails to ratify it, was a declaration made at the Foreign Office today.

It was declared that the absence of active American participation under the treaty in the adjustment of numerous post-war issues would constitute a condition which Germany had not contemplated when she affixed her signature to the treaty.

Concerning the extradition of German officers and officials for trial, it was said that the German Cabinet is unanimous that if extradition actually is insisted upon it will produce an internal reaction which the Government will be in duty bound at all hazards to prevent.

The Foreign Office view is that the absence of American delegates on the commission charged with the problems of reparation, occupation and supervis of plebiscites will give the French a majority voice by reason of their possession of the chairmanships of the commissions.

Wants Concession on War Trials.

"It will make a great difference to us," said one official, "whether German interests are supervised by French or American troops in occupied zones or disputed territories. In view of the fact that France is attempting to enforce the treaty under pressure without America's final disposition and thereby urging alterations in its favor, we assert the new situation also justifies us in demanding modification of the clause concerning the extradition of officers and officials to the extent of giving the initial by a German tribunal in which the entente will have a seat and a voice."

In conclusion, the official indicated that Germany was ready to stand by the treaty, provided the United States joined the general ratification.

It is stated in authoritative quarters here that Germany will not comply with the demand of the Entente for 400,000 tons of docks, dredges, and tugs as an offset to the German warships sunk at Scapa Flow.

It was indicated that Germany would stand pat on her proposition to refer the dispute to The Hague Tribunal. Germany, it was contended, should not be held responsible for the acts of the marine forces at Scapa Flow.

The Government's determination to refuse to yield to the demand of the Entente was due to heavy pressure exerted in the last few days by representatives of the Bremen and Hamburg shipping interests, who have been in active consultation in official quarters in Berlin. They charge that the physical possession of the dredges, cranes and floating docks would give France and Great Britain control of the Weser and Elbe ports, that the United States and neutrals, therefore, would be wholly dependent upon the good will of both these powers in the matter of using Bremen and Hamburg, and that possession of technical equipment in other than German hands would be bound to result in injuring the efficiency of these ports in regard to the docking of vessels and discharging of cargoes and in keeping the waterways navigable.

The Hamburg shipping interests declare that the Elbe at two points is continually silting up, and tht unless this condition is remedied yearly the river would not be usable. The Bremen and Hamburg leaders assert that the issue is one of vital importance to American interests, which eventually will be desirous of availing themselves of the comprehensive technical organization of both ports, which was kept intact during the war.

German shipping men are said to see in the demand for the river and dock tonnage the shifting of the mercantile shipping balance of power elsewhere

LANSING WARNS MEXICO THROUGH ENVOY; ANOTHER AMERICAN SLAIN IN OIL FIELDS; OUTBREAK IN MEXICO CITY NOW DENIED

Lansing Warns the Mexican Ambassador of the Grave Aspect of Pending Questions

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The Mexican Ambassador, Ignacio Bonillas, called on Secretary Lansing at the State Department today, and they not only went over the Jenkins case, but Mr. Lansing also laid before the Mexican envoy the report on the killing of the American, Wallace, which had just been received.

Their conference was, of course, confidential, but it is understood that the Secretary conveyed to President Carranza's representative a message more forceful and direct than any yet transmitted in any diplomatic note.

Mr. Bonillas was informed that the department placed no credence in the charges on which Jenkins is held in jail in Puebla, in which the Mexican Government declines to intervene, and it is understood that Mr. Lansing further outlined to the Ambassador the inevitable consequences of continued murders and molestations of Americans, probably more pointedly than was done in the Government's official note of last July.

Madina Says Jenkins Can Transfer His Case

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 28 (Associated Press).—Several Americans, having formally requested that William O. Jenkins, who is under arrest at Puebla be allowed to transfer his case to the Federal Court, Hilario Madina, Under Secretary of Foreign Relations, said tonight that if Jenkins believed that his individual rights were being attacked, he was free to use the writ of Amparo, a Mexican legal process similar to the writ of habeas corpus in the United States. In this instance, Sénor Madina said, the case of Jenkins would be brought to the attention of the General Court with the privilege of invoking a Supreme Court ruling.

Mr. Jenkins remains in the Pentitentiary at Puebla.

His friends say that he is being treated with every consideration, receiving dozens of visitors daily and conducting his business affairs from an office set up in the prison.

MEXICAN SOLDIER KILLS AMERICAN

State Department Hears That Attack on Oil Man Was Unwarranted.

SLAYER WAS NOT ARRESTED

Death of Naturalized Citizen from Injuries Inflicted by Bandits, Also Reported

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—News of the murder of another American in Mexico reached Secretary Lansing late this afternoon, when he was notified from Tampico that James Wallace, an American employe of one of the oil companies in the field near that east-coast port of Mexico, had been murdered on Wednesday. More particulars are being awaited.

While all the details have not been supplied, enough has been communicated to Secretary Lansing to indicate that the murder of Wallace was unwarranted and that he was shot down in cold blood by a Carranza soldier.

Here is the official announcement by the State Department on this newest addition to the already long list of Americans killed in Mexico:

"James Wallace, an American employe of an oil company near Tampico, was murdered by a Mexican Federal soldier at Potrero del Llano on Wednesday, Nov. 26.

"The department's information is that the murder was unwarranted.

"The murderer was not taken into custody. According to the department's advices, the officer in charge of the troops camped in the vicinity claimed that Wallace provoked the murder.

"The department has been informed, as the result of investigation, that a mule on which Wallace was riding to his place of employment shied at a machine gun which it was passing, overturning the gun. The soldier immediately shot Wallace, the bullet striking him in the neck and killing him instantly."

TWIN FALLS, Idaho, Nov. 28.—The man reported killed by Mexicans at Tampico is believed by Mrs. R. S. Lewis to be her brother-in-law, William T. Wallace, a Vice President and general manager of the foreign department of the Gulf Oil Company. William T. Wallace formerly was general manager of the Idaho Power Company at Boise, and previous to that he was manager of the Twin Falls office of the same concern. He became associated with the Gulf Company a year ago.

Mrs. Lewis said that her brother-in-law recently returned to New York from Colombia and from there he departed for Tampico. She received this information recently from her mother, who had been living at the home of Mr. Wallace in New York.

Harry W. Donovan, son-in-law of William T. Wallace, who lived in this city, had received no official confirmation late last night that the American murdered at Tampico was his relative.

He said that William T. Wallace recently left New York for Tampico and should have arrived there about two weeks ago. He was to have returned

NO FIGHTING ON IN MEXICO CITY

Dispatch from Capital Says Reports Current on the Border Are Untrue.

SONORA ALSO DENIES THEM

Obregon and Gonzales Were Said to be Fighting in Capital, While Carranza Had Fled.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 28 (Associated Press.)—There is no foundation for the rumors in circulation in the United States that there has been fighting in Mexico City between the factions of President Carranza and General Alvaro Obregon.

NOGALES, Sonora, Mexico, Nov. 28.—Governor Adolfo de la Huerta in a message received here tonight said he had received a telegram filed at Mexico City at 3 P. M. today asking him to give complete denial to reports of clashes between troops of President Carranza and adherents of General Obregon.

Governor de la Huerta addressed the message to the Associated Press from his capital, Hermosillo. It said:

"Please give energetic and flat denial to the report of a clash between troops under President Carranza and adherents of General Obregon. I have received a telegram sent at 3 P. M. today from Mexico City stating order has not been altered in the least.

"Please wire Consuls at San Antonio, El Paso, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and Tucson to rectify false reports spread by several foreign newspapers."

General Obregon's wife received a message from her husband this afternoon. It said:

"Reports of disturbances between Carranza forces and my adherents are false. Everything is tranquil here."

Reports from Hermosillo indicate that quiet reigns there. Governor de la Huerta telegraphed that he expected no trouble in the State.

Ramon Iturbide, Governor of Sinaloa, arrived at Mazatlan from Mexico City last night after an official visit of several weeks and wired that all was quiet in his State.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Nov. 28.—The Mexican Consul at Laredo wired here this evening that he was in touch with Mexico City at 6:30 P. M. and that there had been no clashes in the city between followers of Generals Alvaro Obregon and Pablo Gonzales. President Carranza was still in the city, the message said.

Telegrams asserting that fighting was going on in Mexico City between adherents of Generals Obregon and Gonzales, candidates for the Mexican Presidency, were received today in private messages from various sources in the southern republic.

The messages described what was declared to be a general revolt planned throughout Mexico to overthrow President Carranza and eliminate General Gonzales as a political opponent to General Obregon. President Carranza was said to have fled to Queretaro.

One message from Mexico City to a prominent Mexican refugee here said fighting was going on in the streets. General Benjamin Hill, said to be an Obregon leader, was described as aiding in the fight to overthrow Carranza and defeat Gonzales.

ASKS FOR JENKINS PAPERS

State Department Surprised by New Charge of Perjury.

WILL STAND BY DEMAND

Time Allowed for Mexico to Present Any Proof She Has to Support Charges.

ANOTHER AMERICAN SLAIN

Killing of Wallace Near Tampico Adds to the Tension Over Jenkins.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The State Department regards the Carranza reply to the American demand for the immediate release of Consular Agent Jenkins, aside from other aspects, as having raised a new issue by the allegation by the Mexican Foreign Office that Jenkins resorted to falsification in statements made to the court at Puebla.

As a result of this charge on the part of the Carranza Government, it was considered necessary to clear up the facts before further action was taken. Therefore the department instructed George T. Summerlin, American Chargé d'Affaires in Mexico City, to request the Mexican Government to furnish this Government a copy of the indictment and of the evidence against Jenkins.

The request for this information amounts to a period of grace that may extend over several days so far as the Jenkins case is concerned.

It was stated at the State Department early this evening that this Government had not yet made its reply to the Carranza note.

While the Jenkins case was being considered by the State Department the news of the murder of another American in Mexico was received, with the effect of adding to the gravity with which the Mexican question is viewed.

The new issue injected into the Jenkins case by the Carranza Government was contained in this part of the Carranza reply:

"Mr. Jenkins himself has signed contradictory statements regarding the kidnapping of which he was a victim. The judge has had ample foundation to suppose that he was guilty of the crime of falsifying judicial declaration, and this has caused his imprisonment."

Surprised at Perjury Charge.

The question of perjury raised by the Mexican Foreign Office took the State Department by surprise. The department has received detailed accounts of the kidnapping from Consular Agent Jenkins himself, and it was remarked that there was a natural desire to ascertain whether Jenkins had, in fact, falsified reports, as alleged. The American Embassy in Mexico City has also conducted, on instructions from the State Department, a careful inquiry into the abduction, and its findings have been before the department for more than a week.

It was thought that the Mexican Government was perhaps playing for time in advancing the new charge and the belief is general that if the allegation was made in good faith the Mexican Government would heretofore have acquainted the American Embassy in Mexico City with it. The Mexican Foreign Office, it was learned officially, never before has alleged that Jenkins had committed perjury.

Any impression that President Wilson was intervening to prevent an actual break with the Carranza Government was quickly dispelled by an authoritative statement that Mexico would not be permitted to quibble or to resort to subterfuges, but must meet the issue raised by the original American demand. It is not expected that any undue delay will be allowed to Mexico in supplying the State Department with the indictment and evidence against Jenkins. If it furnishes proof which establishes, or appears to establish its case, the American inquiry might be prolonged, barring other developments, but it was made plain that proof must be conclusive if it is to change the American position and demand.

The semi-ultimatum addressed to Mexico laid the blame for the kidnapping of Jenkins upon the Mexican Government by charging it with failure to give Jenkins due protection. If Jenkins has made conflicting declarations over his own signature, which must be proved by the Mexican Government, the conflict in his testimony, which would have to be under oath or to a competent judicial authority to warrant allegation of the crime of perjury, must be of the nature and character to reach the vital elements of the American charges against the Mexican Government.

However, there is now no doubt that the Jenkins case is only one of many against Mexico, and only a part of the whole Mexican question, consideration of which by this Government is comprehensive and covers every phase of the problem. There is excellent warrant for the statement that the United States Government was prepared to sever diplomatic relations with the Mexican Government upon receipt of the refusal to free Jenkins, and that if Mexico cannot justify the imprisonment of Jenkins and still refuses to release him this step will be taken.

This Government has considered the consequences of such an eventuality, and also the possibility of intervention on a large scale in Mexico. It has also been made known that such mediation as was profered by the Governments of Argentine, Brazil, and Chile in 1912, and accepted by the United States and Mexico, cannot apply to the present issues between Mexico and the United States. The Mexican Government, it is known, would resort to the Treaty of Hidalgo, between the United States and Mexico, one of the articles of which provides for arbitration as a recourse to avert hostilities between the two countries, but it is understood that the conduct of the Mexican Government has vitiated that provision, and that the United States would not necessarily be bound to submit the case to arbitration, as in addition to the complaints of the United States, those of Great Britain, France, and Holland are not satisfied, and the Paris Peace Conference has tacitly declared Mexico, under present regime, not entitled to the benefits of means for the settlement of disputes provided by the proposed League of Nations.

At the conclusion of the investigation immediately to be undertaken by the American Embassy in Mexico City into the new charges made by the Mexican Government against Jenkins, the State Department will send another note to the Mexican Government, giving it a last and final opportunity of averting further measures by the United States by freeing Jenkins. If diplomatic relations are severed, the State Department will probably request the Brazilian Government to look after American interests in Mexico. It is also expected that President Wilson will transmit to Congress a special message on the Mexican situation, defining a policy for America, asking Congress to sanction it.

The attitude of the rest of Latin America toward the Mexican problem is receiving the close study of officials, who are allowing no phase of the situation to escape their attention. Just how far the United States is likely to be guided in its final decision by what the other American republics think of the question is difficult to say, according to one in close touch with the situation. The United States Government, it was pointed out, is anxious to do nothing which might interfere with the strengthening of Pan American relations.

Latin American diplomats here are hourly watching developments and are keeping their Governments informed as to the official attitude and the public feeling on the subject. Some of them, especially those who have been in Washington only a short time, are likely, it was said by one who has discussed the subject freely with a number of them, to send exaggerated or overdrawn reports to the Governments, based largely on articles published here which play up strongly the intervention idea.

Intervention is the one thing which the Latin American diplomats and their Governments desire to see avoided, if any other possible solution can be found to settle the difficulties. The opinion was expressed today in well-informed circles that, as a last resort, Latin American mediation would be offered similar to that which led to the Niagara Falls mediation conference which was held a few years ago. This is believed to be the principal reason why the diplomats here are keeping such a close eye on the situation.

While there was no official verification of the fact, it was understood that the United States Government already has been sounded out in a semi-official way as to whether it would be willing to accept such mediation in case it might prove available as a last resort before intervention became necessary.

Latin Americans Against War.

How strongly many of them feel on the subject was made plain today by the declaration of a prominent Latin-American, a good friend of the United States, who has worked actively to strengthen friendly relations between the United States and other American nations, that war between this country and Mexico would be a disaster whose unfortunate results could scarcely be exaggerated, that it would create ill feeling which would not be wiped out for generations.

Seasoned Latin American diplomats here realize that the United States has had ample cause for provocation, and that the United States, like European nations to see peaceful conditions restored in Mexico undoubtedly must have some influence on the United States, but at the same time they feel that actual war would be a mistake. One of them asserted that he doubt Mexico was "exasperating," to say the least, but in the same breath he added that perhaps Mr. Jenkins had been "a little exasperating" to Mexico. He did not attempt to hide the seriousness of the situation, but expressed the hope that some satisfactory solution might be found soon to avoid any step which might lead to permanent injury to the friendly Pan Americanism for which, he said, President Wilson had spoken so eloquently.

Senator Ashurst of Arizona said tonight that Mexico should get twenty-four hours in which to release Jenkins, and in case of refusal an American army ought to start for Puebla at once to obtain the release of the imprisoned American official.

REPLY IS PRAISED BY MEXICAN PRESS

Comment Without Heat Backing Up the Stand of the Government.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 28 (Associated Press).—That American diplomacy has acted hastily and without complete knowledge of the facts is the consensus of the editorial opinion of the newspapers in Mexico City today in dealing with the situation existing between the United States and Mexico as a result of the arrest of William O. Jenkins, the American Consular Agent at Puebla.

The Mexican Government's reply to the demand of the United States for the release of Mr. Jenkins is characterized as a prudent and energetic expression of public sentiment.

The Excelsior affects to see in the American note something akin to Austria's demand on Serbia, and lays great stress on the part it expects the Mexican question to play in the next United States Presidential campaign. This journal does not see the possibility of immediate intervention in Mexico by the United States.

El Universal criticises what it terms the sharpness of the American note and says: "Diplomacy must never be irritated." This newspaper expressed hope that the Jenkins case will be "adjudged with a clear mind."

El Democrata, which is always pro-Government, finds in the Mexican note "able defense of our sovereignty," and argues that the United States is without legal right to demand the release of Mr. Jenkins.

El Monitor Republicano, organ of the followers of General Obregon, says American diplomacy "has fallen down lamentably in the Jenkins case" and finds in the demands of the United States a direct contradiction of President Wilson's statement that strong nations should not impose on weak nations. It declares that "despite our faults and imperfections, Mexico has constitutional and judicial order within the republic."

The organ of General Pablo Gonzales, former Commander of the Carranza forces in the capital, Mexico Nuevo, says of the Jenkins case that it is a delicate matter, but easy of solution when the true facts are known by the United States.

El Heraldo de Mexico voices the sentiment, which is expressed by all the newspapers, that, although the Mexican Government has answered the United States "energetically but without petulance, it is hoped there will be no further complications."

All the editorial articles today are free from rancor. In them there is much speculation as to what the United States will do next.

Hilario Medina, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, told the newspapers that he considered the situation "serious, but not grave."

El Heraldo today publishes a dispatch from Puebla which says that the rebels Juan Ubera and Fortino Ayaquica, members of the band which abducted Mr. Jenkins, have voluntarily surrendered in order that they may tell the truth of the affair.

MEXICAN GUNMAKER TOLD ARMY SECRETS

American Authorities Hold Letter Sent by German to Fatherland.

FACTS FOR HOME WAR OFFICE

Gave Workers' Number and Guns Completed—Murderer of American Soldier at Juarez Not Punished.

Special to The New York Times.

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 28.—As evidence of German influence in the Government of Mexico the American authorities here are in possession of a letter showing that all munition and ordnance factories in Mexico during the war were under the control of a German named Maximilian Klos, who holds a Carranza commission as "General of Artillery" and "Director General of Military Industrial Establishments."

In the letter intercepted in a German diplomatic packet addressed to F. Gersdorf in Copenhagen in 1916, General Klos wrote that he then had 25,000 workers under his direction and that up to that time he had completed sixteen 240-MM. guns, which he added were to be placed in the defenses of Vera and Salina Cruz.

The letter, which was dated March 15, 1916, and addressed to "F. Gersdorf, Matensaille 3, Copennagen, Denmark," was in the same mail packet with several reports from the German Consulate General in Mexico City as well as diplomatic correspondence from the German legations in China and Siam, which were addressed to the Foreign Office in Berlin. The packet was postmarked New York, and an indorsement on the back bore the inscription "G. Scnadt, 11 Broadway, New York, U. S. A."

The letter was ostensibly for General Klos's father, Hermann Klos of Berlin, but the information regarding ordnance activities in Mexico was intended, it is understood, for the German War Office. At that time the Germans were busy in all parts of Mexico, creating a pro-German atmosphere and stirring up hatred of the United States and the Allies.

The text of the Klos letter follows:

Private Correspondence of the Director General of Military Industrial Establishments.

Mexico, March 15, '16.

My Dear Father: I received your kind card of 10th, together with the two photographs of Rudi enclosed, which gave me very great pleasure. I have just been appointed Engineer General of the War Office, and now have all military factories under my control, with 25,000 workers, and full responsibility to the nation. At the end of this month I am going to New York, U. S. A., to purchase various war materials, the choice of which depends entirely on my will and judgment. I am well, but suffer from time to time from my old wounds, which will probably be the death of me soon. However, this is a detail.

I am on very friendly terms with the German Minister, and my wife and I have spent several evenings at his villa. I am the first honorary member of the powerful German colony and held in high esteem by all. Herman is nearly 13 months old now, and is fat and chubby. I am sending you some photographs of the cartridge factory and of the gun factory. I am not enclosing any photographs of the other factories, as they are not so interesting. I have now been promoted to the rank of General, and possess 9 decorations and 3 high orders to wear in my buttonhole, and the cross of honor (verdienstehrenkreuz) round my neck, which is somewhat more than our dear Rudi has got, though it is to be hoped that he too will rise higher.

As soon as the European war comes to an end I shall be sent on a mission to Germany, and will look forward to a happy meeting then. I have not received your letters, as postal communication is only just being reestablished. I will not refer to politics, and for this reason am not writing to Rudi, but you can certainly tell him that I will look him up at once on my journey after the war, with Elsie and the children. Please give my best greetings to Rudi, Willi, Elsie, and the two girls, with heartiest greetings and a kiss. Your devoted son, MAXIMILIAN.

General of Artillery and Engineers.

The photographs mentioned in the letter are enclosed. The following is written in pencil on the back of the largest one:

My model of the 240 MM. guns for harbor and coast defense in Vera Cruz and Salina Cruz, Mexico, set up in the National Artillery Museum.

P. S.—Up to the present 16 guns have been constructed.

Whether Klos did, as he said he would, proceed to Germany on an official mission, after the war ended, is not known here.

Another item of information that came into the possession of THE TIMES correspondent relates to the murder of Private David Troib of the 19th U. S. Infantry, by Lieutenant Juan Azpietia of the Carranza military forces in Chihuahua. Troib was a nephew of Joseph Shapiro of 141 Orchard Street, New York, and was murdered by Azpietia on Dec. 27, 1918. To date, so far as can be learned, officially or otherwise, nothing has been done in the way of punishing Azpietia, who when last heard of was in Chihuahua.

The Mexicans claim that Troib violated the law by going to Juarez in uniform. He was unarmed, and being a non-drinking soldier was sober. In Juarez the soldier was confronted by Lieutenant Azpietia, who, according to the evidence of witnesses, placed the muzzle of his pistol against the temple of the soldier, over the left eye, and fired a bullet into his brain, killing him instantly. Azpietia then stole ninety cents the soldier had and his wrist watch, while his companions stole the dead soldier's clothing.

Immediately after the murder the American authorities made an investigation, located the witnesses to the murder, and reported the facts to the Carranza authorities in Juarez, who were requested to take action to bring the murderer to justice. The body of the soldier was recovered, and not one, but three autopsies performed, all of them at the request of the Mexican authorities in Juarez. The body was then shipped to New York, where it was buried.

A few weeks ago the Mexicans announced that they were ready to dispose of the case. A trial was announced, with Judge Leandro Diaz de Leon, the prosecutor of Felipe Angeles, in charge. Nothing came of the trial, as the Judge announced that he was not satisfied with the autopsies performed on the border. Thereupon the body was exhumed in New York and a fourth autopsy, which confirmed the findings in the three previous autopsies, was made.

In the meantime Azpietia disappeared from Juarez. The report of the New York autopsy has been furnished to Carranza officials in Chihuahua. So far as can be ascertained, no action by the Mexican Government has been taken to make reparation for the murder of Troib. When the military authorities were asked to act they replied that it was a civil case and that they had no authority in the matter. The complete record of all the facts in the case from the murder to date are in the files of the War Department at Washington.

MAY RETURN ROADS JAN. 1, NOT BEFORE

Railroad Administration Denies Report Which Sent Stocks Tumbling.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Denial was made late this afternoon at the Railroad Administration office of the report that President Wilson intended to return the railroads to private ownership next Monday, Dec. 1. Dispatches reaching here from New York stated that the railroad stocks had fallen heavily in value owing to such a rumor.

It has already been stated that the roads would probably be turned back on Jan. 1. In the meantime both Houses of Congress have been working on railroad legislation with an eye to protecting railroad stocks after the roads shall have been turned back. The House has already passed a bill which the Senate is yet to take up.

WILL LET I. W. W. STARVE IF THEY INSIST ON IT

Tacoma Council Will Not Be Responsible for Hunger Strikers' Death.

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 28.—The City Council today agreed to let the twenty-two alleged I. W. W., who are on hunger strike in the city jail, starve if they desire, following a report from Assistant City Attorney Frank Carnahan that the city could not be held responsible.

The prisoners have not eaten for forty-two hours. They also have refused to talk with their jailers. While the strikers have refused to state the cause of their refusal to eat, it was understood that they were protesting against being detained in the city jail. They had asked to be transferred to the county jail, where alleged I. W. W. were held, but this was refused because the cells there were full.

here at Christmas. Ms. Wallace was 50 years old and a widower.

Naturalized American Dies of Injury.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Word was received today of the death of a naturalized American in Mexico as the result of brutal treatment by bandits who held him for ransom. He was Otto Lund, of Swedish birth, who died of blood poisoning after being held for ransom five months.

His captors chopped off one of his fingers with a foul weapon and wrapped it within their written demand for ransom money, which they sent to his friends in Tepic. Blood poisoning and gangrene killed the man, while his wife, an American woman, and their child are reported in want in Tepic.

AMES WARNS BOTH FACTIONS

time they had seen me since the last few days in October. They related to me the situation as it had developed in the coal miners' strike, the conditions leading up thereto, the injunction proceedings, the conferences held with representatives of the Government and the conferences with the operators.

"They stated that, notwithstanding the stand of the miners for a 60 per cent. increase, they were willing to assume responsibility for recommending acceptance of the offer made by Secretary of Labor Wilson for a 31 per cent. increase. They were fully impressed with the thought that Secretary Wilson was empowered by the Government to make this award, and accepted it with that understanding.

"They believed that the miners would have accepted it and have returned to work. They were then confronted with the fact that Secretary Wilson had been overturned and, instead of the 31 per cent., Dr. Garfield's offer of 14 per cent. was made. This they could not of themselves accept and they expressed the belief that the miners would not be satisfied and would not return to work on such a basis.

"A discussion arose regarding the appeal to the higher courts which the miners were preparing in the injunction case. It was decided that attorneys would come to Washington at an early date to consult with Attorney Jackson H. Ralston and me on this subject."

There were some officials today who still hoped that the strike may be settled without a finish fight, but those in charge for the Government, like Attorney General Palmer and Fuel Administrator Garfield, are not proceeding on any such premise. They are going ahead on the presumption that the Government must make the fight, or at least that it must make preparations for such an emergency.

Fuel Administrator Garfield refrained from any detailed statement today when pressed for some expression of his views.

"You would naturally go, I should say," he stated, "to the Attorney General and to the Secretary of War for detailed information about the steps the Government will take immediately to deal with the coal situation.

"Of course, the Government cannot of itself produce coal. But it can give others the opportunity to produce it, and will do so. I hope the press will give emphasis to the fact that the Government is going to do its utmost to supply at least the minimum needs of the country."

Explains Government Stand.

Judge Ames, in announcing the Government policy, said:

"All United States attorneys in the bituminous coal fields have been officially advised of the result of the negotiations at Washington and have been given instructions relative to the situation. It is, of course, obvious that the time has come when ample protection will be furnished all persons desiring to work in mines. All persons, whether miners or operators, making any agreement or arrangement with each other to restrict the supply of coal will be proceeded against as the law provides, and it should be understood that any person who aids or abets in restricting the supply of coal is likewise guilty by the terms of the Lever act. Instructions heretofore issued by the War Department are still in force, and under these instructions department commanders will act in proper cases when requested to do so by the State authorities."

The question of using strikebreakers to take the places of the miners of the central competitive field, if the miners themselves refuse to work, has not been decided upon definitely. For the present, it is understood, there will be no effort to use non-union labor in the mines, in the hope that within the next week or ten days a sufficient number of the union miners will return to work to assure the nation from a coal famine which would cause widespread suffering.

In the event, however, that the strike spreads, and the miners now away from their posts stand together, it is considered as obvious that the operators must look elsewhere for labor.

The operators contend that if present production is maintained outside the central competitive district that an acute famine may be avoided by producing but 15 per cent. of the normal output of the country from the central competitive field. This would not involve maintaining output in the central district at a high level. It is now the hope that at least a sufficient number of men will return to work in the central competitive district to make this possible.

Both operators and miners are frank enough to say that they cannot predict definitely what will happen next week when the drive is started to bring the men back to the mines. The leaders of the miners apparently believe that there will be no serious break in the ranks, particularly if the Government continues to follow out the injunction policy.

If this proves true it is generally accepted here that industries not on the Government priority list as essential to the nation's life will have to reduce production, and perhaps close entirely after the coal they now have in storage is exhausted. It also is probable that no coal would be available for export, that train service would have to be curtailed and very severe measures of conservation put into effect in all directions.

Could Do on 60 Per Cent. Coal Output.

It is believed that the nation can be safely carried through the Winter on a production approximating 60 per cent. normal, and this, it is felt from the results now being obtained from the districts outside the central competitive field, where production has been as high as 50 per cent. of normal for the whole nation, can be maintained.

The decision made by the Government to back up the 14 per cent. wage increase suggested by Fuel Administrator Garfield is generally accepted as a very distinct announcement that wage increases which add to the cost of living to the general public must not be permitted to continue under the present unusual conditions.

A formal announcement of the acceptance of the Garfield offer prepared by the committee of coal operators remaining in Washington to represent the central competitive field has been sent to all coal operators in that field and information of their action has been communicated to the operators of all other fields. The announcement follows:

"Your committee recommends and considers it important that all mines post notice at once of the advance in wages. Your committee advises that details of scale will be figured out and agreed to at a meeting of the scale committee here next Wednesday, in order to preserve proper differentials. For that reason details should not be included in notices. Understandings between employers and employes at mines which have been working will govern date on which increase is effective at those mines. Following is form of notice to be used at mines now on strike:

The Government of the United States having decided that mine workers are entitled to a 14 per cent. average increase to bring wages up to the increased cost of living, this company gives notice that a 14 per cent. average increase in wages is hereby granted, effective at once. This average per cent will be so divided as to preserve present differentials. No change will be made in conditions of employment. The new scale of wages will be posted as soon as possible.

"T. W. GUTHRIE,
"A. M. OGLE,
"THOS. K. MAHER,
"E. C. SEARLES."

Lewis Leaves Washington.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (Associated Press).—Dr. Garfield explained today that he regarded the 14 per cent. offer a just and sufficient wage advance for mine workers and that mine owners who did not pay it would find their properties taken over and operated by the Fuel Administration.

John L. Lewis, Acting President of the United Mine Workers of America, who bore the brunt of the wage negotiations, went home tonight, worn out by the long wrangle.

Before leaving for Indianapolis Lewis saw Secretary of Labor Wilson and Samuel Gompers. Lewis did not have much to say about the situation and explained that he had arranged with Gompers to have the federation's lawyers assist counsel for the miners in perfecting their appeal from the ruling of Federal Judge Anderson, ordering the coal strike order cancelled.

In labor and official circles the meeting of Lewis and Gompers was regarded as significant.

After leaving Secretary Wilson's office Lewis said:

"Dr. Garfield represents the Government. Mr. Wilson told me that today."

This was taken by Lewis to mean that the 14 per cent. wage offer was, definitely and finally, the Government's offer, and that Mr. Wilson's proposal for a 31 per cent. advance had been rejected by the Cabinet.

The Operators' Wage Scale Committee will meet here again next Wednesday to agree upon the details necessary to preserve existing differentials in putting a 14 per cent. wage advance into effect.

NO FIGHTING ON IN MEXICO CITY

ico City said that Obregon reached there on Tuesday night and that there was a great demonstration in his honor. The demonstration included a parade, reports said, and much enthusiasm was said to have been shown for Obregon's candidacy for President.

The arrival of Obregon caused display of much partisan feeling, it was said. Newspapers admittedly favorable to Obregon made the charge that the train on which he was journeying to the capital was purposely delayed by the Carranza officials so that Obregon could not reach there in time for the celebration. Obregon partisans, it was said, made up a special train and sent it for Obregon, thus getting him to Mexico City in time for the fete.

Carranza newspapers were bitter in their comments on the incident and on the demonstration for Obregon, and the capital was said to have been seething with excitement since Tuesday.

Washington Investigating Reports.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The reports of fighting in Mexico City and the reported flight of Carranza, should they be verified, are expected to have a material bearing upon the strained Mexican situation. So far as revealed no news was received directly from Mexico City. The State and War Departments and the Department of Justice, all of which had been receiving information recently tending to forecast such a development, set about seeking further information and verification of the day's reports which came to the border.

There was just a suspicion that the trouble in the Mexican capital was a reaction from the execution of General Felipe Angeles at Chihuahua City against which many Mexicans, including Carranza supporters, protested vigorously.

It has been known here for some time that the preliminaries of the Mexican Presidential campaign were waxing warm with Carranza and Obregon as the chief figures. Obregon has been touring the country. Although the report of an outbreak seemed to be the logical consequence of an accumulation of information at hand there was a disposition to await further news before considering it a real factor in the situation.

RATIONING OF COAL ORDERED IN CHICAGO

Illinois Faces Industrial Curtailment—To Cut Preference Trains One-third.

KANSAS FACES SHUTDOWN

Central West Has Been in the Grip of a Severe Snowstorm Since Wednesday.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Rationing of coal to Chicago householders was ordered today by the Regional Coal Committee. Other developments were:

The issuance by the State Public Utilities Commission to all public utilities companies of a request that all electric advertising signs and window display lighting be discontinued.

The statement by G. W. Reed of the Fuel Committee that industry faces suspension soon unless production is resumed within a few days.

The admission by officials of the Fuel Administration that orders for drastic curtailment were expected hourly from Washington.

Plans now under way to cut down on all railroads the number of "preference trains," carrying perishable freight and other articles which are ordinarily used to fill in the unused portions of fast freight cars. One-third of these "preference trains" will be canceled from the regular schedule on Monday, according to information received here by railroad representatives.

F. E. Clarity, assistant to Hale Holden, director of the central Western region, said the situation was critical in some of the Western territories, particularly in small towns, but said relief was being afforded by shipments from the East.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 28.—Nebraska is short of coal, and in an effort to stretch the small amount of fuel on hand the local Fuel Committee today ordered drastic curtailment in every possible direction. A similar condition exists in many other cities in the State. At North Platte today one hundred families are without a pound of coal and there are only twenty-five tons in the entire city.

To make matters worse, zero weather prevails between the Missouri River and the mountains and from six to eight inches of snow covers the entire region. Snow is falling tonight over the prairie States.

All schools in Omaha, private and parochial, as well as public, were today ordered closed. The street car company was ordered to curtail service tomorrow 25 per cent., with a still greater cut in prospect for next week. All electric signs are banned and all power and lights to non-essential industries were ordered cut off.

Office buildings and retail stores will be permitted but six hours of heat. Among the non-essential industries are rated the packing houses and thousands of men will be thrown out of employment when these close.

Many railroads are without coal and are using old crossties and timbers in their locomotives.

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 28.—Tuesday will see a shut down of many Kansas City industries and suffering in many families unless unforeseen relief arrives to relieve the coal situation.

C. H. Markham, representative of the Fuel Administrator, told representatives of many industries, theatres, hotels, restaurants, civic and social organizations today that there was less than four days' supply of coal for domestic use and only enough slack coal for industrial use for two days.

A complaint was voiced by theatre men.

"It is only question of a few days until every industry must close," Mr. Markham replied to that complaint. "We regard theatres as least essential to actual comfort and we must protect the people as a whole."

DENVER, Col., Nov. 28.—The Rocky Mountain States, which since early Wednesday have been in the grip of the most severe storm of the Winter, were promised relief in the shape of rising temperatures on Saturday. The storm was moving slowly eastward tonight, snowfall apparently was at an end, and warm weather was the forecast for tonight and tomorrow.

The lowest temperature recorded in Denver today was 5 degrees below zero. At Cheyenne and Sheridan, Wyo., the mercury had stood at 12 degrees below zero for two days.

The snowfall extended as far south as New Mexico, five inches being recorded at Albuquerque.

Flagstaff, Ariz., had a fall of seven inches, and south of that point heavy rains served to swell streams in the vicinity of Phoenix so that some property loss resulted.

In New Mexico, Santa Fé trains from Chicago were reported twenty-four hours late.

Snow was reported falling tonight at Phoenix, Ariz., the earliest in twenty-four years.

In western Colorado the precipitation of snow was heavy. Aspen holds the record with five feet. So deep was the snow in some localities that residents were compelled to shovel it from the roofs of houses to prevent possible collapse.

Train service into Denver from Chicago and other Eastern points was reported tonight to be much improved. Union Pacific trains from the Pacific Coast points were running several hours late because of the snow in Utah and Wyoming.

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 28.—On account of the critical coal situation, it was announced by the local office of the Grand Trunk tonight that, beginning Sunday night and until further notice, night train service between this city and Montreal would be canceled. On account of the short notice, however, one special train will run from this city to Montreal on Sunday night.

BLAMES EXCESS MINING FOR COAL SITUATION

Editor Says Even Distribution of Operation and Buying Would Solve Problem.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 28.—It was asserted here tonight that a radical change in the coal mining industry, with a probable breaking up of its system of collective bargaining, is extremely likely if the Administration stands on its decision.

Ellis Searles, editor of the United Mine Workers' Journal, in discussing the economic side of mining today, said the public was paying high prices for coal, not through miners' wages but because of the difference between production cost in low-cost and high-cost mines. "There are more mines in the country than should be operated under normal conditions," he said. "Hundreds of new operations were opened during the war to take advantage of prices."

It might cost $1 a ton to produce coal in some mines and $1.50 or more in others. Under present conditions the high-cost mine could go on, and this made for excess operations.

The remedy for the uneconomic situation was the distribution of mine operation and of purchasing by the public over the entire year. Fewer mines than have been operated to produce the coal needed for normal times if steady work were given to miners and the buying of coal were more evenly distributed throughout the year.

Reports reaching here tonight from the heart of the bituminous fields were that the miners were more determined than ever not to return to work.

TO SEIZE COAL IN NEBRASKA.

Citizens Form Committee to Help 100 Poor Families.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 28.—Organization of a citizens' committee at North Platte, Neb., to commandeer coal for 100 families that were without fuel, was reported by the Nebraska State Railway Commission here today.

The committee was parceling the coal out to the needy families, it was stated.

LADY ASTOR WINS SEAT IN COMMONS

learned to love during the campaign was coming. "I thought my majority would be 8,000. I'm a little greedy, but not jealous of any one else's result."

In the interval between the announcement and the declaration of the result outside the Guildhall Lady Astor received congratulations from all parties. An ardent supporter of the Labor candidate shook her hand vigorously and said: "Anyhow, I am glad to see the first woman in Parliament."

Jokes with Rival Candidate.

Mr. Foot, the Liberal candidate, who had been on the best of terms with Lady Astor throughout, added good wishes.

"You scallywag!" was her playful greeting to her friendly opponent.

"I'll beat you next time," he replied.

"You said that last time," retorted Lady Astor, laughing. "I take it as a good omen for the next time."

A roar of welcome went up from thousands of people waiting for the result when the figures were read. Enthusiasts took the horses from the carriage waiting to take the new member to her home in the Hoe, and relays of willing people dragged the carriage through the town. Lady Astor must have shaken hands with thousands of her constituents before she reached home to rest a while in preparation for a dozen meetings arranged for tomorrow.

Later she gave out this statement:

"Although I cannot say the best man won, I say the best policy won. We must not divide, but unite the right in all parties. We, who have seen 900,000 men give up their all, should be willing to give up whatever is keeping us and the nation from reconstructing in a new spirit.

"I believe the great bulk of the people are willing and want to do what is right, but I also believe that the spirit of the war profiteer and Bolshevist, if they had their way, would make the country not a home for heroes, but a den of thieves. The profiteer took advantage of the patriot during the war. Bolshevist revolutionaries are trying to take advantage of the broken and unsettled patriot now the war is over.

"Neither is right, neither represents the heart and desire of the British nation, and both must be fought and defeated."

Navy Helped Her to Win.

Viscountess Astor asked me today to tell THE NEW YORK TIMES that she did not stand as a sex candidate, but found a pretty general feeling that there ought to be at least one woman in Parliament. She had wonderful and touching support from the navy, which steadied waverers and overcame doubters.

She does not intend making a speech in Commons for the present, but will not be a stay-away member, attending regularly. She will content herself with the prospect of doing useful work by asking questions.

Her choice of attire in the Commons will be dictated solely with the view to making it possible for the hamliest woman, who may be elected in future and have only her salary, to follow her precedent. She will wear a plain black coat and skirt, small black hat and simple white shirtwaist. She will never appear in full evening dress. When she feels like wearing her hat she will, but will not make a hard and fast rule.

Lady Astor will be introduced in the Commons on Monday by Premier Lloyd George, supported by Mr. Balfour.

Lady Astor will find that accommodations for women members in the House of Commons are by no means so unsatisfactory as some gossipy newspaper paragraphs have indicated. The speaker's department provided last year for the incursion of quite a large number of women members, and Lady Astor will find herself for the time being sole mistress of the suite of rooms, including a beautiful boudoir, and if she should want a change it is only a step to the House of Lords, where there are several rooms into which her husband may introduce her.

PLYMOUTH, Nov. 28. (Associated Press).—When the guarded doors of the Guildhall were thrown open after the announcement of the result of the Plymouth election had been made inside, Lady Astor, followed by the election officials, appeared. Lady Astor's smile seemingly betrayed the result, for immediately ringing cheers rose from the thousands of men and women who had been waiting three hours for the announcement. Lady Astor made a brief speech from her carriage, thanking her supporters and declaring: "It is your victory, not mine."

Lady Astor then drove to Princess Square, two blocks away, trailed by hundreds, whose numbers enlarged until the whole square was jammed. The cheering continued all the way. Accompanied by Lord Astor, she entered the Unionist Club and was escorted upstairs to the reception room, where she was helped on to a table. Some one shouted: "Three cheers for our new Commoner," and the walls reverberated with the answering hurrahs.

"This is a victory for Plymouth," said Lady Astor. "It was due largely to my husband's labor in Parliament in your behalf. I know he would like very much to be in my place, but, poor old Viscount, I feel sorry for him. He will be back with you some day."

With reference to the Government, Lady Astor said: "Plymouth knew what was best for the country and voted that way. The Government is not perfect; we do not deserve a perfect Government, for we are not perfect ourselves.

"Poor old Lloyd George, with all his faults, is not such a bad fellow, after all. I am going to do all I can to help him, but I shall support him only up to the point where I think him right, for I have told you all the time I won't be under the lash of the whip of any party."

Lady Astor also said she was "sorry for poor old Ike," referring to her defeated Liberal opponent, Foot.

LONDON PRESS LAUDATORY.

Suffrage Union Official Gratified at Lady Astor's Success.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The newspapers this afternoon displayed remarkable interest in the election to Parliament of Lady Astor. Previously there had been in the newspapers some adverse comment, based on nationality, sex and money, but altogether a flattering reception was given to the new member of Parliament. Her portrait, her history, her unique campaigning methods and her trite sayings were exploited to the utmost.

Two reports are current concerning who will be her sponsors when Lady Astor takes the oath Monday. One rumor, heard in the house of Commons, is that she is to have the unusual honor of being introduced by former Premier Balfour, while a Plymouth report asserts that Lieut. Col. Herbert H. Spender-Clay, her brother-in-law, and Lord Edmund Talbot, will officiate in this capacity.

Premier Lloyd George received a dispatch giving the result of the election while attending a luncheon in Woolwich Arsenal, and read it amid the cheers of those seated at the table.

The Star, in commenting on the election, says that, while the use of money supposedly is unknown in English elections, there is a system known as "nursing a constituency," which means generous donations to religious, charitable, and other public purposes, and to clubs, sports, and societies, coupled with personal activities in them.

"There is a disinclination in the poorer parts of a constituency to see millions going away to any other constituency, so the coalition holds the seats as every one expected it would," concludes the star.

Miss Ferguson, Secretary of the Union of Woman Suffrage Societies, said:

"It is a great triumph for woman and represents the happy consummation of many years of hard work. We greeted Lady Astor questions which we put to all candidates on feminist points, and she answered them to our complete satisfaction. We think it an excellent thing that there is a woman in Parliament to represent our point of view, and from that standpoint all women should be delighted."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Saturday, Nov. 29.—The Daily Chronicle's parliamentary correspondent says:

"Viscount Astor's victory had been anticipated in the lobby of the House, but her actual figures were higher than most prophets placed them. The addition of a lady member to their numbers was discussed with piquant interest and it is difficult to say whether members generally will welcome the pioneer lady member with that enthusiasm that so chivalrous an assembly should display.

"At the outset there is certain to be active competition to show politeness to the newcomer, but grayheads wagged in solemn unison when the possibility was suggested of the invasion of the House in force by women. The opinion was general that, although many members will be only too willing to help Lady Astor, she will find her position a rather onely one.

"Poignant questions discussed were whether the new member will appear in the House with a hat or without one, and whether when she takes her seat she will bow to the Speaker or courtesy to him. These are understood to be engaging the anxious deliberations of the authorities of the House.

"Sir Newton Moore, who has been Premier of Western Australia, said he had been surprised that a lady member had been elected so soon after the conferring of the right to vote on women had had the same right in Australia for twenty years, but no woman had been returned. He thought that the value of women in Parliament could hardly be demonstrated until others had been elected."

ROTHERMERE'S SON ELECTED.

Esmonde Harmsworth Will Be the Youngest Member of Parliament.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Esmonde Harmsworth, son of Lord Rothermere and nephew of Lord Northcliffe, has been elected Unionist M. P. for Thanet by a majority of 2,713 votes over his Liberal opponent, Captain A. J. West, the vote standing 9,771 to 7,058.

He has equaled the record of Earl Winterton, who entered the House of Commons a few months after completing his twenty-first year. Esmonde Harmsworth celebrated his majority this year and he thus becomes the "baby" of the Commons.

MAY RELEASE 62 REDS ARRESTED IN WYOMING

Delegation of Miners Pledge to Have Them Return to Work and to Stop Agitating.

Special to The New York Times.

SHERIDAN, Wyo., Nov. 28.—What disposition is to be made with the sixty-two foreign miners confined to guard houses at Fort Mackenzie since their arrest at Carneyville Wednesday by Federal troops, acting at the request of Sheriff Dolph Thomas, still remains undecided tonight. The probability that all will be released and permitted to return to the mines seemed certain following an investigation of individuals by Sheriff Thomas this afternoon.

"The majority of the miners under arrest will be released," the Sheriff said. He declined to state if all would be liberated, but dropped information to a delegation of union miners who visited him earlier in the day that this was likely.

No information has been filed in any court so far and it was ascertained tonight that Department of Justice agents had washed their hands of the affair. This places responsibility for any further actions squarely on the shoulders of the Sheriff. Major Warren Dean, who headed the soldiers on the raid into the camp on the day which the wholesale arrests were made, declared today that the prisoners belonged to the Sheriff.

"My troops acted entirely at the request of the Sheriff," he said.

The prosecuting attorney, M. L. Blake, said tonight that the only State law which might be made to apply to any of the miners under arrest was a law pertaining to "incitement" to crime.

The delegation of union miners who saw the Sheriff today pledged themselves to see to it that, if released, all prisoners returned to work and refrained from agitating. This pledge seems to satisfy the Sheriff.

Every mine in the northern Wyoming field was operating full force today.

LABOR CANDIDATE LOSES.

Indorser of General Strike Defeated in Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 28.—Returns from nearly one-half of the voting precincts of Winnipeg, compiled late tonight, forecast the re-election of Mayor Charles F. Gray over S. U. Farmer, candidate of the Labor Party.

Gray's vote in sixty-one out of 125 precints was 8,061, while Farmer polled 5,407 votes. Farmer was supported by the labor element which indorsed the general strike last Spring.

$40,000 HOLDUP IN WEST END AV.

PART OF LOOT IS RECOVERED

$19,000 in Notes and Certified Checks Found in West 96th Street Flat.

When George Alexander left his poultry stall in Washington Market late on Wednesday night, after a record week's sale of fowls for Thanksgiving, he thought it would be wiser to carry $40,000 with him than to leave it in the market, which safe blowers might enter at any time. That sum represented his cash reserve and the income for part of the week.

As he alighted from his automobile at the apartment house at 680 West End Avenue, near Ninety-third Street, Alexander said to his chauffeur, whom he regarded as a confidential man:

"Thomas, come around a little before the usual time on Friday morning so I can take the money to the bank. We had a big week, you know."

It was fifteen minutes earlier than the time for his usual morning call when Thomas Rochfort, the chauffeur, telephoned up from the corridor of the apartment house that he was waiting. As he threw a robe over the feet of his employer and the black bag on the floor of the big maroon-colored touring car Rochfort murmured that it was a fine turkey which his employer had sent as a Thanksgiving present to the Rochfort flat at 752 Columbus Avenue, and that "all the family enjoyed it."

Alexander smiled, said a word or two about his pleasure that the gift was appreciated, and then turned his head to watch a negro hall porter who apparently was dancing a jig in front of the apartment house on the other side of the street, but who was really shouting a warning to the poultry merchant. As Alexander turned his head back he started, for he was looking into the barrel of a pistol and a cold voice was saying:

"Kick that bag out on the walk, and don't say a word or I'll kill you."

Wild Chase for Bandits.

How the rest of this crowded incident progressed Alexander was quite unable to tell in his conferences later with Inspectors John J. Cray and Joseph Faurot and the detectives of the West 100th Street Station. He doesn't know how he and the bag were rolled out of the car or how he and the chauffeur, Rochfort, were chased back into the corridor of the apartment house and warned that if they came out they would be killed. He does remember seeing four men pile into the automobile and one of them, apparently an expert chauffeur, throw in the clutch and wheel the car around.

A few minutes later a chauffeur of a small blue roadster turned his head in wonderment when he heard a man shout to him:

"See that big maroon car down the avenue. Reward of $5,000 for you if you catch it. They stole my $40,000!"

With a gasp the chauffeur looked over his employer's $2,000 roadster, kicked out the exhaust and, thundering like a racer, leaped into pursuit. Trimming close to the curb, the big maroon car, loaded with armed men and $40,000 in cash, swung into Ninety-second Street and gathered speed. The little blue car drew up and the driver tried to swing close to drive the big machine into a fire hydrant. Failing in this, he stepped harder on the throttle and jockeyed for position in front.

A policeman at Amsterdam Avenue and Ninety-second Street leisurely held up his hand to halt the onrushing cars and then executed a flip-flop to get out of the way.

Seeing that the determined chauffeur in the little roadster was trying to get into the path of the big maroon car so that he could cause a smashup and a capture, the robber at the wheel kicked out his exhaust and together the two cars roared through Ninety-second Street to Central Park West, with the bandit car in advance. The bandit swung a neat curve on two wheels and started north. The little roadster swung wide, and then its driver heard a loud pop above the roar of his motor. It was the rear tire, and the driver was still thinking of what his boss would say about that tire when the police came up.

Police Visit Flat.

Meantime, Alexander, incensed that the blue car had not stopped for him, was breathlessly telling his story in the West 100th Street Station. He gave the number of the license plate on the car, and while he was still telling about his record sale of Thanksgiving turkeys a report was flashed from Police Headquarters that the big maroon car was wrecked at Fifth Avenue and 105th Street, with a rear tire ripped off in her mad race, her mudguards bent, and a jagged hole in her side. The four men and the black bag of turkey money had disappeared.

Hearing of the crime, Inspectors Cray and Faurot asked Alexander and his chauffeur to come to Police Headquarters to look over the Rogues' Gallery. Noticing that Rochfort took only slight interest in the pictures of criminals, the Inspectors invited him into an inner office. There he told a story yesterday afternoon that caused Inspector Thomas W. Ish, in command of detectives at the West 100th Street Station, to send a squad of his men running to a flat at 129 West Ninety-sixth Street. John Handy, a chauffeur, was standing in front of the house.

"What, aren't you working today, Handy?" the detectives asked.

"Nothing to do," replied Handy. "How did you fellows know me?"

"We didn't until just now," said Detective Sherry. "Come on in the house. Let's have a talk."

Handy demurred, but the detectives were five and he was only one.

Inside the flat was William Cunningham, who lives in a hotel at 125th Street and Eighth Avenue and describes himself as a clerk.

"Mr. Doherty, some friends of mine who wish to talk to me," said Handy, addressing Cunningham.

"We're glad to know you, Mr. Cunningham," said Sherry. "We're detectives. Now, come on, where's that money?"

Tied up in a neat little brown paper package in a cupboard the detectives found two little brown paper packages. Inside each of the little packages was $8,000 in notes and certified checks.

"Where did you get this money?" asked Sherry.

"Earned it," said Handy. "Found it," said Cunningham.

"I'll keep it for you," replied Sherry.

Both Handy and Cunningham were held last night at the West 100th Street Station, and Rochfort, whose story had caused the trip to the Ninety-sixth Street flat was in another cell on a charge of complicity in grand larceny. Alexander visited the station house and said he could identify Handy and Cunningham as two members of the gang who had visited him in the morning. He looked at the money and said it was his.

Alexander told Inspector Faurot that he had hired Rochfort five months ago and had considered him as a "sort of confidential man." It had been the custom of the poultry merchant, during the so-called "crime wave," to take his money home with him frequently, and the chauffeur knew about this, Alexander said, and had warned him against the practice.

the terms he applied to the committee were "microbes of society," "men with the minds of an amoeba," and "a body with the vile odor of the skunk in and about them."

Larkin told of his recent "honor" of being arrested in his home by a detective, "a being of a low mental type," who, he asserted, was masquerading as a newspaperman in order to reach him. The officer told him, he said, that the Lusk Committee wanted to see him.

"We had in Russia the Black Hundreu, the Dusk Committee of Russia," Larkin went on to say. "The people of Russia rose in their might and took them and they went out of history."

Larkin discredited the discovery of TNT chemicals used in bomb manufacture in a secret room of the Union of Russian Workers at 133 East Fifteenth Street last Tuesday. He wondered if the police thought the American people were so stupid as to believe the combustibles were really there as claimed.

"We don't use such weapons," Larkin declared. "We use mental bombs to blow a new idea, a new ideal, into life."

Just as he was closing, Larkin, in urging the workers to spread the tidings of communism and of the oath which they were about to take, walked to the edge of the platform and said:

"We've got to organize a Soviet army here"—he paused for a moment while his audience was breathless for his next words. Then he added, ironically: Of course, I mean that we have got to meet together in a drilled manner, come early, stay throughout the meeting and then be dismissed by the Chairman. Such a proceeding will cause fear in the minds of the capitalists."

Before and during the meeting copies of such radical publications as The Communist World, The Communist, The Revolutionary Age, The Rebel Worker, and The Hobo News were sold among the audience.

REFUSE HEARING TO HOWE.

Evidence on His Conduct to be Sent to Department of Justice.

Evidence that Frederic C. Howe, ex-Immigration Commissioner, had interceded for the I. W. W. members and others, who were carried across the country last February in the famous "Red Special," and that he had directed Superintendent Percy A. Baker not to deport them, whether ordered to do so by the Department of Labor or not, was introduced at the hearing before the Congressional Committee on Immigration which met on Ellis Island yesterday.

The committee yesterday directed that Harry Weinberger, counsel for about twenty men charged with anarchy, should be asked to appear before the committee to explain the disappearance of a long list of men paroled in his custody. After a conference, this order was countermanded, because members of the committee were in favor of placing the record regarding the lawyer before the Grievance Committee of the Bar Association. The committee, it was stated, is also considering a recommendation to Secretary of Labor Wilson for the removal of his subordinate who is responsible for the order for the parole and release on bond of anarchists against whom a final order of deportation had been made.

List of Aliens at Large.

Representative Isaac Siegel read the following incomplete list, made up from the records so far canvassed by the committee, of persons for whom deportation warrants are on file, and who have been released on bond or parole, whose present whereabouts is unknown. All these persons were released in 1919.

Name.	Date.
Frank Maillik	Oct. 6
Ruderigo Baccini
Magnus T. Otterholme
Aaron Slitzkar	March 7
Arthur G. Smith	March 23
Joe Martin	March 17
James B. Petersen	March 17
Jalmar Holm	March 17
Christian L. Johnson
John Leibo	March 23
Gustav Libkin	March 23
Ephraim Liskoff	March 23
James Land	March 17
Edwin Florgaus	March 17
Alexander Hendrickson	March 17
William Longfors	April 22
John Morgan	April 22
Ross McGregor	March 17
Frank Ropes

Frank Maillik escaped. Ruderigo Baccini and Frank Ropes are out on bond. All the others were released on their own recognizance. In addition to these, the case of Robert Parsons is before the Department of Labor awaiting decision. Parsons was recommended for deportation July 2, 1919, and was released May 14. Alexander Kisil was released on bond July 23. He is reported to be in Seattle, Wash.

The committee declined yesterday to hear Mr. Howe, who appeared voluntarily and in an informal statement placed the responsibility for the release of anarchists on the Department of Labor. Some of the members of the committee are opposed to permitting the ex-Commissioner to appear as a witness. The testimony regarding the former Commissioner probably will be turned over to the Department of Justice. The Reds were referred to in an official order by Mr. Howe as "political deportees."

Howe Holds Up Deportations.

Mr. Howe's communication to Superintendent Baker regarding the Seattle group was as follows:

March 15, 1919.

Memorandum for Mr. Baker.

When Mr. Abercrombie was here the other day he said that the I. W. W. aliens were to be given every opportunity to exercise their legal rights and that no advantage should be taken of them.

In order that there should be no confusion of departmental instructions, you will stay all deportations until the attorneys for these men can be advised and until further consultation with me. FREDERIC C. HOWE.

After reading the letter Chairman Albert Johnson of Seattle asked Superintendent Baker:

"After the order of deportation was made by the Secretary of Labor, didn't that end the business?"

"That is what I understand."

"Well, what authority under the law or otherwise would the Commissioner have to stay or hold up the deportation of these men?"

"I know of none."

Mr. Baker said that in conversation Mr. Howe had instructed him not to deport any of the group without instructions from him, regardless of his instructions from the Department of Labor. Mr. Baker said that the men who came on the "Red Special" other than those charged with anarchy were nearly all promptly deported. Very few of the Reds, he said, were deported, and most of the others released by the Department of Labor or on habeas corpus proceedings.

"In your opinion, were some of these orders intended as a stay of proceedings to permit habeas corpus proceedings to be opened?"

"I am afraid that was the result."

Anarchist Papers Permitted.

Mr. Baker was asked if the Red colony had been allowed to receive anarchistic literature. He said that they formerly had an arrangement by which they could purchase such papers as they wanted.

"Such as the Rebel Worker?"

"Yes, the Rebel Worker and that sort of thing."

Acting Commissioner Byron S. Uhl, who was Assistant Commissioner, identified an order signed by Commissioner Howe dated April 24, 1919, which forbade the circulation of anarchist literature on the island. "Was that order enforced?" asked Congressman Johnson.

"It was, after it was issued. It was received by the Inspector on June 4, 1919."

Mr. Howe interrupted to deny the accuracy of this statement. He was rebuked by Congressman Raker.

Mr. Howe later explained informally that he had discovered that he was mistaken and that Mr. Uhl was right.

"I don't want the record to contain a slur on Mr. Uhl," he continued. "I have been associated with him here for years, and I have every confidence in his integrity."

Mr. Uhl testified that every employe on the island with whom he had conversed had been opposed to Commissioner Howe's methods of running Ellis Island.

"Mr. Uhl," said Chairman Johnson, "in your statement you referred to the conditions at Ellis Island when Mr. Howe was the Commissioner—the general conditions on the island in allowing a free hand to the people here to run the building, the attitude of these women, the circulation of paper, and in fact the general turning over of the institution to those who were held here on charges of anarchy, the destruction of property, and men ordered deported who were procurers and were living off the earnings of fallen women—now will you tell the committee what employers are here now who were here under the regime of Mr. Howe?"

"Practically all are now here who were here at that time."

Employes Opposed Howe.

"What was the attitude of the employes," asked Congressman Johnson, "with reference to conditions here under Mr. Howe?"

"So far as I received their individual opinions, they were all of the opinion that conditions were highly improper. Mr. McKee, the Inspector in charge of the deportation division, went on record in writing against the distribution of radical literature."

One of the orders identified by Mr. Uhl regarding the anarchists who are alleged to have enjoyed privileges superior to those accorded to others detained on the island, was dated March 15, 1919, and signed by Commissioner Howe. This directed that care should be taken to preclude drafts from reaching them after they had bathed, and also stated:

"Please supply men detained as political deportees with medicine balls and other means of amusement."

Some of the men, for whom medicine balls were ordered for amusement, are accused of having taken part in bomb plots in Ohio and Washington.

Congressman Siegel read into the record the facts in twelve cases of aliens arrested for anarchy in other sections of the country, convicted of anarchy in the immigration courts and ordered deported, but saved at Ellis Island on the eve of the departure of their ships for Europe and released on their own recognizance. All twelve have disappeared, according to the Ellis Island records, and efforts recently made to round them up and deport them have failed.

History of Deportations.

The files showed that Commissioner Howe had been in Washington at the time and had wired instructions to Ellis Island not to put the men on outbound ships. Mr. Uhl said that the release of persons held for deportation had begun in 1915, when the submarine war made it dangerous for them to cross the ocean, and it was not desired to keep them on the island. He said that he did not remember that any anarchist or highly dangerous aliens had been released under this order until 1917, and that they had not been released in large numbers until the present year, long after the submarine danger was over.

"Did the Commissioner General make the order directing the release of those men, or did the Department of Labor?" asked Congressman Johnson.

"The Secretary or Acting Secretary of the Department of Labor. The Commissioner General has not any authority."

The next case taken up was that of Andrea Ciafolo, an anarchist convicted of crime, for whom a written plea was made by Commissioner Howe on the ground that his anarchy was a mere political belief.

Ciafolo, the record showed, was arrested on May 23 of this year and ordered deported on his own confession that he was an anarchist. Nevertheless he was paroled in the custody of Weinberger. The files were found to contain an application by W. M. Offley, formerly the New York Superintendent of the Department of Justice, that Ciafolo should be turned over to him. Another letter on this man was from Mr. Uhl to the Department of Labor, saying that he had asked Weinberger on twenty different occasions to produce the man, and that Weinberger had several times promised that the man would be over to Ellis Island on the next boat. Ciafolo never reappeared.

Howe Defends an Anarchist.

The following letter from Commissioner Howe was put in evidence:

May 23, 1919.

Commissioner General of Immigration, Washington, D. C.:

The inclosed record of hearing relates to the case of Andrea Ciafolo, who has been given a hearing at Ellis Island by Inspector Strahle on Department Warrant 54379—400. This alien has been released on his own recognizance. Brief submitted by counsel is inclosed.

This is another of those cases in which it seems to me there ought to be more evidence to support the warrant. He has not advocated or taught anarchy, but has simply studied it for his own education. He does say that he doesn't believe in Government, because a nation does not need Government, and if all the people were of his intelligence and education they would not require a Government. Instead of organized Government he would substitute spontaneous Government. His definition of anarchy is unconditional liberty to criticise any form of government, whether political, economic or religious. He says the people have a right to change Government by any means they desire.

As I have stated before, the trying of a man about his opinions is so outside the experience of the criminal or civil law, and the immigration procedure is so without the protection with which the ordinary procedure attempts to safeguard the accused, that some new rules or directions ought to be formulated for guiding officials in cases of this kind.

FREDERIC C. HOWE.

After this was read Congressman Baker said:

"And this is an alien who had been convicted of sabotage."

A letter on this case written by Commissioner General Anthony J. Caminetti three days after Howe's communication was read, in which the Commissioner General pointed out that the man had admitted his anarchist record and his authorship of articles preaching anarchy printed in anarchist papers, and continued:

"If it were not for the fact that the Commissioner at New York submitting the case inferentially recommends that the warrant be cancelled and the alien released, the bureau would not deem it necessary to analyse the record further."

After discussing the case further, Commissioner General Caminetti said:

"The bureau has seldom seen a clearer case of being an anarchist and disbelieving in organized government, and it recommends that a warrant issue for his deportation."

The warrant did issue, but the man was saved from being sent to Italy forthwith by his earlier release, at the order of the Department of Labor, in parole of his counsel.

Commissioner Howe, against pressing forward against the protest of committeemen, said that the man was released because of the fact that there were on trial in Boston at that time a number of men charged with being anarchists whose fate would determine the legal right to hold Ciafolo.

"What happened to those men?"

"The court held that the order of deportation was legal."

Another letter concerning Ciafolo was read, this from a social worker inquiring as to his whereabouts.

"My reputation is of much more importance to me," said Commissioner Howe, "than the procedure of the committee."

A ruling against hearing him was made, but prefacing his remarks by "off the record," the former Commissioner asserted that the charges of immorality on the island were three years old, and were not well founded three years ago. Congressman Raker objected to hearing him further, and the objection was sustained.

asserted that he could not be held responsible for what happened on Ellis Island during the last three years, because the Government had successively placed there the sailors from the German liners, interned aliens, and army and navy hospitals.

"Yes," said Mr. Siegel, "and you will remember that, when I came down here in 1917, I took you downstairs and showed you how the enemy aliens knew how and when our ships were leaving the harbor, and you remember how our ships were being attacked, and how the question was whether the information was not coming from the aliens here?"

Mr. Howe said he did not remember.

COURT HOLDS ARREST OF WORKERS UNLAWFUL

Declares Cleveland Mayor's Order on Strikebreakers Entering City Is "Lawless" Action.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 28.—Action of Mayor Harry L. Davis and other city officials in ordering and bringing about the arrest on charges of being suspicious persons of men coming to Cleveland to work in steel mills, now closed by strike, was branded by Federal Judge Westenhaver today as "lawless and a high-handed disregard for the rights of American citizens."

His ruling came when he ordered the police to desist from their program of arresting and deporting as suspicious persons all who enter the city to work in the steel mills.

Judge Westenhaver's ruling that neither Mayor Davis nor any other city official had the right to enforce an order issued by the Mayor that no strikebreakers be permitted to enter Cleveland followed the granting of a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Ralph E. Ferguson, one of sixty men who came here last Saturday to work in a steel mill, and who were held for several hours by the police charged with being suspicious persons.

COLORADO TAKES STEPS TO STAMP OUT REDS

Governor Calls Legislature in Special Session to Enact the Necessary Laws.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, Nov. 28.—Colorado today officially threw down the gauntlet to all Red propagandists and anarchistic elements in the State when, through a special proclamation issued by Governor Oliver H. Shoup, it was made the explicit business of the State Legislature to enact in extraordinary session measures to stamp out all seditious influences and conspiracies against the laws of peace of the Commonwealth. The date for the special session is Dec. 8.

BOY-ED DENIES PLOTS HERE.

Expresses Regret at Being Unable to Testify Before Assembly Committee.

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—The Parliamentary Commission which is to investigate event, which took place between the time Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria was assassinated at Sarajevo, June 28, 1914, and the outbreak of the war has completed its organization. Official sessions will begin early in January.

It has not yet been decided whether the National Assembly Sub-Commission which has been investigating peace opportunities which were presented during the war will meet again, in view of the violent political activities displayed at the later sessions.

Captain Karl Boy-Ed, former German naval attache at Washington, is keenly disappointed he was not summoned to appear before the sub-commission after Count von Bernstorff testified. In a statement today he declared:

"The so-called German plotting existed only in imagination."

He said that he himself, who was "regarded the world over as the personification of murder and arson," was not guilty of a single criminal act.

SWANN CHALLENGES OPEN COURT INQUIRY

Urges Almirall to Bring "Overshadowing Crime" Before a Justice Sitting as a Magistrate.

JURY NOW BALKS AT BATTLE

Foreman Admits Asking Governor to Name Him, but Says Conditions Have Changed.

A statement issued yesterday by Raymond F. Almirall, foreman of the Extraordinary Grand Jury, to set forth the attitude of that body concerning its communications to Governor Alfred E. Smith in relation to the appointment of special counsel to assist in a proposed investigation of municipal departments and the office of the District Attorney, brought forth a sharp reply from District Attorney Edward Swann, who asserted that the mention by Mr. Almirall and others of the "overshadowing crime" was a "smoke-screen to obscure from the public the real issues in the traction situation."

Mr. Swann challenges the jury to come out "in the open and in full view of the public" to hear any and all charges which Mr. Almirall or any one else may wish to present against any public official. The District Attorney suggests this be done in court, and he names Justice Greenbaum as one having the entire public confidence for such an inquiry, who is independent politically, and is not affiliated with any of the political parties.

Although Mr. Almirall had announced in all of his communications and statements that the action of the jury in all cases matters under discussion had been the results of unanimous votes, Mr. Swann's challenge and criticism was directed to the foreman.

"Mr. Almirall has seen fit not to trust even the Governor with a statement of the nature of the 'over-shadowing crime,'" said the District Attorney. "Can he not trust any Judge of General Sessions or any Justice of the Supreme Court with the inspection of this paper bullet of his brain with which he has indiscriminately assaulted the character of the public officials of this County?"

Admits Asking for Battle.

The statement by Mr. Almirall contained a copy of the letter which the jury sent to Governor Smith on Oct. 15. The question had been raised as to whether or not the jury had requested Governor Smith to appoint George Gordon Battle to be their legal adviser. In reply to this question Governor Smith asserted that Mr. Battle's name had been suggested to him in a letter he had received from Foreman Almirall. The foreman thought that Mr. Battle's name had been mentioned only in the pronouncement made by the jury to the court.

When Mr. Almirall got possession of the original copy of the letter yesterday he found that Governor Smith had correctly stated the request for the appointment of Mr. Battle, on Oct. 15. The letter reads:

"The Extraordinary Grand Jury has voted unanimously that Your Honor cause to be appointed designated immediately a Special Assistant District Attorney in the person of George Gordon Battle, or he declining, such other like officer not connected with the staff of the District Attorney who may be acceptable to the foreman or committee of the Extraordinary Grand Jury."

In his statement accompanying the copy of the letter Mr. Almirall said that was the only occasion on which Mr. Battle's name was mentioned to the Governor, and he cites these reasons for the jury to conclude that Mr. Battle had been eliminated from further consideration as legal adviser:

"At the meeting with the Governor on the 17th inst. other names than that of Mr. Battle were discussed, but his name was unmentioned. His published letter to the District Attorney the day following the Grand Jury's pronouncement was thought to have eliminated him from consideration by the Grand Jury, which accounts for my entire forgetfulness of the fact that the Oct. 15 letter, in quoting the pronouncement, mentioned the name of Mr. Battle.

"However, at that time the 'investigation of the entire and complete transit situation' was alone being considered. The Grand Jury's letter dated Oct. 21 to the Governor was written as a consequence of the conference of Oct. 17, and the name of a legal adviser was unmentioned. During the interval between Oct. 21 and the date of the presentment, Nov. 20, circumstances had caused the Grand Jury to initiate an investigation of the municipal and the District Attorney's offices, an entirely different situation from that existing when the letters of Oct. 15 and 21 were written the Governor, and this view of the Grand Jury is expressed in its letter of Nov. 20 to the Governor, requesting that the Attorney General be designated.

"It is unquestionably the desire of the Governor, as well as the Grand Jury, that the investigations initiated shall be strictly non-partisan and absolutely free from political bias or prejudice. If such investigations lack in these essentials they will fail to inspire public confidence or to attain their purposes.

"I am personally unacquainted with Mr. Battle, and am therefore necessarily following the expressions of public opinion in the newspapers with interest, as is probably each Grand Juror, with the earnest hope that counsel may be properly associated or combined to dispose of the issue of suspicion in the public or Grand Jury's mind of bias or prejudice and as an unquestionable guarantee that the investigations will be thorough, impartial, non-partisan, and accomplish a constructive purpose."

Mr. Swann's Challenge.

Mr. Swann's comment on Mr. Almirall's statement follows:

"The statement of Mr. Almirall has just been read to me, and he seems to be calling the Governor to account to him for an exercise of Executive discretion. I note that Mr. Almirall says that he has been 'following the expressions of public opinion in the newspapers.'

"In one of the papers of yesterday, which purports to give an opinion of a 'friend of some of the Grand Jurors' (journalistic euphemy for a direct interview with some of the individual Grand Jurors) that Mr. Battle was objected to because he was a Democrat. This was in effect an admission that the proposed investigation was not non-partisan and free from preconceived political bias.

"This morning's edition of the same paper changed its position and put the objection to Mr. Battle on the ground that he had once represented persons charged with criminal anarchy. The answer to this last objection is that Mr. Battle will have nothing whatever to do with the presentation of the cases of criminal anarchy before this Grand Jury. Those matters will remain exclusively in the hands of Assistant District Attorney Rorke.

"Mr. Battle has been requested to use his utmost powers and professional skill to pursue the 'over-shadowing crime' and to make any investigation that credible evidence or information justifies into any public office in the County of New York. Mr. Battle will have all the aid and assistance that the District Attorney's office can give, and will not be interferred with by any one in his pursuit of the 'over-shadowing crime' of the investigation of any public officer in the County of New York.

Suggests Open Court.

"If Mr. Almirall really means what he says and if he 'desires the investigation initiated shall be strictly nonpartisan and absolutely free from political bias and prejudice,' I then call upon him to suggest the name of any Judge of the Court of General Sessions or of the Supreme Court of this county to sit as a Magistrate and hear in the open and in full view of the public any and all charges that Mr. Almirall, or any one else, may wish to present against any public official.

"Mr. Almirall has seen fit not to trust even the Governor with a statement of the nature of the 'overshadowing crime' or with the name of the individuals against whom he makes this nebulous charge.

"Can he not trust any Judge of the Court of General Sessions or any Justice of the Supreme Court in this county with the inspection of this paper bullet of his brain with which he has indiscriminately assaulted the character of the public officials of this county?

"The public has been long suffering and of great goodness in waiting for Mr. Almirall to trust some one besides himself with the care and custody of his mental concept of an 'overshadowing crime,' and the District Attorney has waited patiently in the hope that an expectant public will be relieved of suspense.

"The public is entitled to know why public officials, who have been performing their duties without regard to the powerful influence of wrongdoers, have been so grossly accused, and not a fact given upon which to base the charge.

"I call upon Mr. Almirall, who admits that he seeks 'the expressions of public opinion in the newspapers' to state any fact upon which has based his charge of 'overshadowing crime' against public officials. If Mr. Almirall declines to accept the offer of an open forum where all the evidence may be subjected to the searching light of day and not obscured by the darkness of a star chamber, I shall feel myself obliged to inform the public why he has not stated the facts upon which he bases his charge of so-called 'overshadowing crime.'

"It will eventually become apparent that Mr. Almirall's 'overshadowing crime' was 'aborted' by himself and others for use as a smoke-screen to obscure from the public the real issues in the traction situation and was conceived from the attitude of city officials in refusing to grant the Interborough an increas to 8 cents in car fares.

"The public mind must not be deflected from the fact that the city leased its subway to the Interborough upon condition that the Interborough would 'charge for a single fare the sum of 5 cents, but no more.' (Dual Contract, Chapter 3, Article 62."

Governor Smith Refuses Comment.

Governor Smith, who was at the home of his mother yesterday, in Brooklyn, made this comment:

"I have not as yet received any official communication from the Extraordinary Grand Jury indicating dissatisfaction with the appointment of George Gordon Battle to advise the jury in its investigation into various city departments, therefore I do not desire to comment on the matter now. The only information I have on hand is what I have read in the newspapers. Mr. Battle will have nothing to do with the anarchy matters under investigation."

Mr. Battle, at Atlantic City last night, said:

"I have no comment to make regarding the statement which I am told has been issued by Almirall, foreman of the Extraordinary Grand Jury, other than to say that my friendship with Judge Swann would not in the least interfere with any investigation of his office which would devolve upon me as a prosecuting officer. If I had felt that my relations with Judge Swann were such as to embarrass me in the conduct of the proposed investigation I would have declined the designation made by the District Attorney at the request of Governor Smith."

Mr. Battle will return tomorrow. He is to have a conference with Justice Weeks on Monday. Afterward, it is expected, he will meet the jury.

H. P. IDE, EX-BROKER, DIES.

Former Board of Trade Man, Saved from River, Expires in Bellevue.

It became known yesterday that Henry P. Ide, a retired broker, formerly a member of the Chicago Board of Trade, with offices in Boston, died in Bellevue Hospital of pneumonia on last Friday. He was taken to the hospital on Thursday after men working on a pier at East Ninth Street had rescued him from the river. It is not known whether he jumped into the river or fell from a pier.

The body was identified by his son, Leonard Ide, an actor, who lives in the Hotel Wellington. The funeral was held in Boston on Sunday. Mr. Ide's former home was at 65 Rutland Street, Boston.

Leonard Ide said last night that his father was not a relative of the manufacturer, as had been reported. He said his father had been an invalid for many years and that it was his habit to wander about the waterfront. Although his father dined with him each Sunday, he said, he did not know his address in this city. Henry P. Ide's last address on the Bellevue Hospital records was the Memorial Hotel, 22 Bowery. He was about 65 years old.

General O'Ryan to Aid N. Y. U.

Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan has accepted the chairmanship of the Alumni War Service Division in New York University's campaign for $6,000,000, which will be launched in January, according to an announcement yesterday by the Endowment Fund Committee. Plans for the campaign will be announced by General O'Ryan at a meeting of the division next Wednesday night at the Engineers' Club.

The aeroplanes came whirring through the air to Wonderland, which is the headquarters for toys. Not to be beaten by wings, Dobbin came rolling along, hoping to get into the race. Her mane and tail flying in her great fear of being left behind the times.

On the track

the trains came puffing along, switching this way and that, through tunnels and around curves. And they all got to Wonderland in time for the race.

The start to the finish

Great excitement was shown by all the Wonder-ful on-lookers as they lined up for the start. One of the bouncing balls delayed matters by falling off the shelf just as the whistle blew itself. The strangest thing about the end of the race was that every one was a winner. Not one was defeated in doing the thing he was meant to do.

Music notes

came floating through the air, and every one crowded to see the funniest, merriest thing; it wasn't the clown—you may see him and shake hands with him any day that you visit Wonderland—and it wasn't Santa Claus, he is in Wonderland, too. Wednesday we will tell you what it is.

HOLLAND ON GUARD TO SHUT OUT REDS

PROPAGANDA FUNDS SEIZED

Neutral Countries Fear Incursion If Bolsheviki Are Overthrown in Russia.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 27.—Still more severe measures are being taken against foreigners in Holland owing to the acute fear of Bolshevist propaganda. This fear is now blocking the Belgian-Dutch frontier and local intercourse with the Belgians, which was almost unhindered, is practically prohibited.

The sentries have received instructions not to allow even frontier inhabitants to pass without passports vised by the Belgian Consul. This is a serious misfortune for some inhabitants of Zeeland, who are accustomed to go to Ghent regularly for purchases.

New measures are being taken all along the frontier, and undesirable inhabitants living near the border will be forcibly removed. According to an official report, no fewer than 9,220 suspicious persons have been stopped at Heerenberg, on the German frontier, lately, among whom are many Bolshevist leaders and other Reds who carry regularly reports between various committees of international revolutionaries. The frontier troops have seized acids for making bombs, both in large and small quantities, also enormous quantities of money for revolutionary propaganda, revolvers, cartridges, and revolutionary literature.

It is known that there is considerable Bolshevist intrigue going on in an underground way here, but it is difficult for the Government to grapple with or lay hands on the principals. The Communists are in close touch with Russia, and it is greatly feared that if the Bolsheviki are ever overthrown in Russia their chiefs with many followers will fly to neutral countries, especially Holland.

By subtle methods the international Bolsheviki have succeeded in getting influence and sometimes control of part of the press without even the editors or owners being aware of this intriguing.

The Dutch East Indies have been so seriously affected by propaganda that the Government is extremely anxious.

WILL HEAD LABOR LEAGUE.

Thomas, French Leader, is Chosen to Direct Conference.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Five conventions brought before the International Labor Conference by the Drafting Committee were adopted today, and will be submitted to the Governments represented. There remains for approval only the draft convention providing for a leave of absence for women at the time of childbirth, which will be reported to-morrow.

Albert Thomas, the French labor leader, was chosen Director General of the International Labor Office by the governing body, and upon him will rest the responsibility of carrying out many of the recommendations made at this conference. His headquarters will be at the seat of the League of Nations and there he will organize the staff that will attempt to carry on the labor program begun here.

Allies Receive Scapa Flow Note.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 28.—It was announced tonight that there had been received at the office of the Secretary of the Peace Conference two long notes in German from Berlin, proffered as replies to the Supreme Council's note asking when Germany intended to sign the protocol of the Versailles treaty.

Neither note answers the question of the Supreme Council. One contains arguments against the Germans paying for the Scapa Flow fleet, and the other is an argument about German prisoners of war.

These notes will probably be placed before the council tomorrow. This is the first time the Germans have used their own language in notes to the Peace Conference.

The situation tends to support the view given in these dispatches several days ago that Germany is seeking to delay the putting into effect of the treaty, which the Allies have fixed for Dec. 1. Information coming from the German capital indicates that Germany has no fixed plan, but seeks to hold affairs in statu quo until the Versailles treaty comes before the American Senate again, thereby seeking to place herself in a position to influence the outcome in her favor.

The Berlin Government, it is believed here, is concealing its hand until it can learn whether the Senate will ratify the treaty or adopt a resolution declaring the war between the United States and Germany at an end. Germany would then know how to make use of the advantage achieved by being placed in a position where she could delay the plans of the Allies.

If it appears that the Senate will ratify the treaty a German refusal to allow the treaty to take effect without American participation might be used, for Germany does not wish the treaty to become operative without American membership on the commissions.

Hear of Pressure on Rumania.

In the meanwhile, in the closing days of the Peace Conference, Rumania continues to be a thorn in the side of the Allies. She now has until Dec. 2 to make her final reply. There was published in the Paris papers this morning a statement that the United States would hand passports to the Rumanian diplomats in America if Bucharest did not comply with the Supreme Council's conditions. A representative of the council, when asked about this report, said:

"The situation has not yet got that far."

Frank L. Polk, head of the American delegation, says that the conference will end so far as Americans are concerned Dec. 5, when the delegation will leave Paris for Washington. It is not yet definitely decided whether American Ambassador Wallace will sit on the Committee of Ambassadors which is to take over the unfinished business of the Supreme Council. Advice is awaited from Washington on this point.

Allies Divide German Warships.

PARIS, Nov. 28 (Associated Press).—The Supreme Council today adopted the British suggestion for the partition of the German war fleet.

Under the arrangement Great Britain will receive 70 per cent. of the total tonnage, France 10 per cent., Italy 10 per cent., Japan 3 per cent., and the United States 2 per cent.

TURKS TO APPEAL HERE FOR MANDATE

Preparing to Send a Mission to America—Urge Allies to Negotiate Terms.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 18 (Associated Press).—Appeals that early arrangements be made for negotiating a peace treaty sent by the Sublime Porte to the Peace Conference in Paris are said to have been inspired by the fear that Turkey may be plunged into anarchy, with no responsible Government left to treat with the Allies.

At the same time the Grand Vizier is urging country districts to hurry arrangements for elections so that a Parliament may meet here and be ready to discuss the terms of peace.

At present the interior of the country is not controlled by the Government, which cannot collect taxes and has no funds. This financial situation, it is pointed out, is liable to throw the country into the hands of any power which may make it a loan.

Nobody in this city appears to have any information as to how matters are to be settled, although the French, Italians, Greeks, and British are occupying zones agreed upon among themselves. The Turks are preparing to make an effort to arouse interest in America for a mandate over this country, and plan to send publicists to America for that purpose.

Delay in reaching a settlement, it is declared, is dangerous for the Allies as well as the Turks, as the former are held not to be co-operating to the fullest extent. Turkish agents are taking advantage of this situation, bringing to each ally information tending to arouse jealousy and ill feeling. Lack of concerted action among the Allies may mean success to the Nationalist movement, the leaders of which are now boldly threatening armed resistance if the country is partitioned.

LEAGUE CONFERENCE CALLED AT BRUSSELS

Allies and Neutrals to Meet Dec. 1 to Plan Establishment of New Organization.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 27, (Associated Press). — Representatives of France, Great Britain, Italy, Belgium, Switzerland, Holland, Sweden, Norway, Portugal, Greece, Poland, China, and Japan will meet here on Dec. 1 to discuss the adoption of measures and suggestions for the establishment and functioning of the League of Nations.

The conference which will be held under the patronage of the Belgian Government, was convoked upon the initiative of the French Association for the League of Nations, of which Leon Bourgeoise is President, and of the League of Nations Union of England.

NEUTRALS DEFERRING ENTRANCE TO LEAGUE

Affected by Our Senate's Delay, Several European Nations May Not Act for Months.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 28 (Associated Press)—Although no official views have yet been exchanged among the European neutrals on the situation, the correspondent of The Associated Press learned from an unquestionable Dutch source today that there is a general disposition among the neutrals to postpone action on the League of Nations until they learn of the final decision of the American Senate.

Both Norway and Sweden, according to the correspondent's informant, have postponed parliamentary discussion of the League until the middle of January, and Holland, which already has decided not to consider the matter until the Peace Treaty is officially in operation, is expected to prolong discussion until she has learned what will be the action of the United States and the South American countries.

"America's delay in ratification of the treaty," the correspondent's informant said, "puts the neutral states in a difficult position. By the terms of the draft of the league, the neutrals have two months after peace is effective to signify their intention of joining the league. After the lapse of two months it will naturally be impossible to enter it.

"At the present time there is no way of knowing whether the United States will act before the expiration of the two months, and the States which are awaiting her decision might possibly be left outside the League unless the time period for the entrance of neutrals were extended."

WILSON MUST RECEDE, DECLARES M'CUMBER

But North Dakota Senator Admits Senate's Stand Is Leading Other Nations to Mistrust Us.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 28.—Senator McCumber of North Dakota, in a statement tonight declared that, although an ardent supporter of the Peace Treaty and the covenant of the League of Nations, he was frank to admit that unless President Wilson was prepared to recede from the position he took at the close of the Peace Conference, "he will have no Peace Treaty."

"There is no question," said Senator McCumber, "but that our reluctance to enter into any agreement for preservation of the peace of the world unless we are accorded special advantages over other nations has created a sentiment of distrust toward us as well as a growing belief that our proclamations for world justice are just a trifle selfish and not wholly sincere."

The North Dakota Senator came here to visit relatives.

COMMONS SUSTAINS MINISTRY ON COAL

Motion Carrying Vote of Censure for Recent Price Reduction Beaten.

LABOR MEMBERS BEHIND IT

Geddes Asserts Committee of Inquiry Asked For Would Only Hinder Impartial Action.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The Government won a sweeping victory in the House of Commons today when the motion of William Brace, a Labor leader, calling for the appointment of a committee to inquire into the cost of production, the output and prices of coal, was rejected. The Government received 254 votes as against 50 for the measure.

The Brace motion was regarded as seeking a vote of censure, and had behind it the full strength of the Labor Party. There was a full attendance of the House.

In presenting the motion Mr. Brace declared the Labor Party had been trying to co-operate with the Government in a grave and difficult financial problem, but that the Government had declined to permit the party's co-operation. He asked why the Government was afraid of a committee of inquiry. The miners, he said, had been driven to despair over the blunders of the Coal Department and the trade was working into chaos. Development was retarded, he declared.

He maintained that the industry required reorganization because the shortage in the output was not attributable to the miners but to lack of development by the owners and to bad transportation. The miners, he said, were prepared to co-operate with anybody and everybody, on any system, in order to obtain larger production.

Sir Auckland Geddes, Minister of National Service and Reconstruction, replying to Mr. Brace, said the committee suggested was undesirable because inexpert. The Government had nothing to conceal, but objected to the committee because it wanted to proceed with the work. The reason for the obscure situation regarding coal was the existence of two parties, one fighting for nationalization and the other against a limitation of profits, and both bringing different figures. The Government, he said, had decided to refer the subject to impartial accountants.

The Government treated the motion as a matter of confidence, and had issued urgent instructions to its supporters informing them the adoption of the motion would be equivalent to a vote of censure. It was assumed the Government would resign if the motion was successful.

The motion was an outcome of the order of Nov. 24, that household coal would be reduced 10 shillings a ton in price. Many Government supporters, mine owners and their sympathizers oppose the Government reduction as much as the Labor Party, although from another angle. Consequently many pairs were arranged for the voting to enable Government adherents to escape an awkward situation.

All members of the Miners' Federation who held places on the Advisory Committee of the Coal Controller resigned yesterday.

HOLDS KAISER IS CRIMINAL.

Lloyd George Silent on Punishment —Dutch Not Alarmed.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—In a printed Parliamentary reply to questions asked him on the subject Premier Lloyd George declares that it is not expedient to say more regarding the proposed trial of former Emperor William of Germany "and other criminals" than that an enormous mass of evidence, including many thousands of depositions, has been examined, and that the final list of accused persons is under consideration.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 28.—The Nieuwe Courant, in a long article on the ex-Kaiser's status, declares that Holland is not afraid of an Entente army menacing her frontiers or a renewal of the blockade, as no Entente Government would consent to such measures.

The paper asserts that the question proceeds merely from a promise by Lloyd George given in an unguarded moment.

TELLS OF TISZA'S MURDER.

Hungarian Red on Trial Says Pogany Helped Shoot the Premier.

BUDAPEST, Nov. 28.—During the trial today of the terrorist group of the fallen Hungarian Communist Government, a man named Sztenykowski, one of the seventeen men charged with the murder of Count Stephen Tisza, in November, 1918, stated that Joseph Pogany, Minister of War in the Communist Government, said to Count Tisza: "You are the author of the World War, in which so many have bled to death."

According to the testimony of Sztenykowski, Pogany then fired a shot, whereupon the witness said he and others fired shots immediately.

Stories relating to the death of Count Tisza described the killing as having taken place in the home of the Count in the presence of his wife. Sztenykowski recently confessed to having fired the first shot in the course of an investigation into the assassination of the former Premier.

Early in the present month the Hungarian Government demanded from Austria the surrender of Pogany for trial as the instigator of the murder of Count Tisza.

NORTHWEST ARMY IS FIGHTING HARD

Mismanged by Yudenitch, Its Efficiency Is Being Restored by Esthonians.

RESISTING 15,000 REDS

Under Ex-Commander It Had No Reserves and Lacked Billets in Intense Cold.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

REVAL, Nov. 27. — Fifteen thousand Reds continue to hammer at the constricted front which follows the Esthonian boundary some twenty miles northward from Peipus Lake, runs eastward past Nisv, curves round Narva and extends northwest to the sea.

So far these attacks are being resolutely repulsed and stability, at any rate temporarily, enters into the defence. Efficiency has been restored to sections of the Russian army which have come under Esthonian command, while sections that retired from the line into Esthonia are now being rounded up.

For the recent retreat blame does not rest upon the army which Yudenitch has ceased to command. The advance is now seen to have been a brilliant instance of military mismanagement, ignoring the necessity for reserves. Yudenitch used his full force at the front. The men had no billets, and intense cold prevented sleeping in the open air. The Northwest Russian Government has melted away, but I am assured that the new army, on a temporarily reduced scale, now promises greater efficiency as a striking force than before. Thus Esthonia will be at no military disadvantage when conferring at Dorpat on Monday with the Bolshevist representative.

This interesting little Republican Democracy which longs to release its soldier-citizens for food production and other peaceful pursuits earnestly hopes the Dorpat deliberations may result in an armistice which with the concurrence of Western Europe may lead to peace. Litvinoff when at Reval the other day made it clear that Soviet Russia also longs for peace. If the Bolshevist pacific desires will carry them to the length of consenting to the essential principle of democracy, then peace will come.

The radical or Socialist Republic of Esthonia, like its neighbor States, is based on a new constitution under which every man or woman who has reached the age of 20 (lunatics and criminals alone excepted) has a vote.

The only Bolshevist state is based merely on soviets or committees, whose members are chosen at informal elections without ballot boxes, but with every opportunity for intimidation. The electors are not the people, but only the workers in factories, &c., who after being addressed by the ruling commissaries give a decision by a show of hands.

BREAK WITH BERLIN BY LETVIA REPORTED

Considers Herself in State of War with Germany and Recalls Her Envoy.

BERLIN, Nov. 28, (via London.)—The Lettish Government has recalled its diplomatic representative from Berlin, and in view of the attack of Colonel Bermondt's troops, Letvia regards herself in a state of war with Germany, according to semi-official sources here today.

The German representatives still at Riga and Libau, it is stated, will therefore be recalled.

TO LET GERMANS CLEAR OUT.

But Letvia and Lithuania Will Brook No Delay.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

RIGA, Nov. 26.—As far as the Lettish troops are concerned military operations are practically at a standstill, with the pursuit of the Germans arrested on the frontier in deference to General Nieszel's instructions. The Lithuanians, however, have advanced westward and occupied the town of Radziwilliski, with the object of cutting off the German retreat. Nieszel has instructed them to retire to permit the Germans to withdraw to their own frontier, which they appear only too anxious to do.

As is the case with the Letts, the Lithuanians are exceedingly suspicious of German intentions, and are extremely reluctant to give them anything like a breathing space, but in view of the almost complete demoralization of the German forces it is likely the Lithuanians will agree to permit evacuation as the Letts are doing. Should the Germans attempt to resist, or even to delay their departure, a combined attack by both small States is inevitable.

BRITISH TROOPS FOR POLAND.

16,000 to Occupy Masurian District During Plebiscite, It Is Said.

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—Advices to the Lokal-Anzeiger from Thorr, Poland, quote a Polish newspaper as saying the British Commission at Posen has received news that 16,000 British troops are ready to occupy the Masurian territory in Poland when the plebiscite is taken.

Transport of these troops, it is said, will be by way of Danzig.

LENIN BIDS FOR TRADE.

Agent Says Soviet Is Ready to Spend $200,000,000 Abroad.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Russia's gold reserves are unprecedented, and the Soviet Government is prepared to pay 400,000,000 rubles in gold (about $200,000,000) for food, machinery, and necessaries, according to a statement ascribed to colleagues of Maxim Litvinoff by the Copenhagen correspondent of The Daily Mail. Litvinoff is now in Denmark to negotiate with the allied nations relative to an exchange of prisoners, having been sent there by the Bolshevist Government of Russia.

"Members of Litvinoff's mission say an effort will be made to make peace and secure the raising of the blockade of Russia," the correspondent writes. "Great Britain alone is considered to be preventing peace between the Soviet Government and the Baltic States, as well as Finland, whose independence the Bolsheviki are prepared to recognize."

Though victorious militarily, the economic views of Nikolai Lenin, the Bolshevist Premier, are said to have been greatly modified through the influence of Herr Krassin, Bolshevist Minister of Trade and Commerce and formerly manager of the Siemens-Halska Electrical Company of Berlin. Lenin is said eagerly to desire peace and a resumption of foreign trade.

"Litvinoff implicitly denies the report of an impending National Assembly at Moscow," the correspondent says, "but his friends declare the Mensheviki (Moderates) and Social Revolutionists are preparing to join the Government preliminary to elections."

This $200,000,000 fund is perhaps the same that Martens, the self-styled Soviet Ambassador, promised as early as last July would be available to buy foreign goods.

ALLIES TO DISCUSS ADRIATIC QUESTION

Jugoslavia Said to Have Received Assurances of Britain's Aid for Just Settlement.

D'ANNUNZIO IS ASSAILED

Italian Socialist Deputies Call On the Government to Suppress the Poet.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Great Britain has given Jugoslavia assurances that the Adriatic question will soon be taken up by the Supreme Council and that Great Britain's influence will be used to secure a just and equitable settlement in accord with the life and interests of Jugoslavia, according to private dispatches.

These reported assurances are coincident with the presentation of the note sent by the Jugoslav delegation to the Supreme Council in Paris urging that the Adriatic matter be taken up immediately. The British note does not commit the Government to any definite line of action.

Meanwhile the official announcement of Premier Nitti's policy regarding the Adriatic is eagerly awaited.

GENEVA, Nov. 28.—Uncensored news concerning Italy was brought here today by travellers arriving from Domodossola and Lugano, saying that the anti-dynastic movement, fanned by the Socialists, is spreading in Northern Italy.

It is reported that the movement is a combined one of the Socialists against the Italian monarchy in favor of a republic, and that Gabriel d'Annunzio is being used as a pawn in the hope of creating disorder in the ranks of the future Government.

GENEVA, Nov. 28.—Jugoslav-Italian relations appear to be becoming more strained. A large procession was held at Laibach yesterday in which banners inscribed "d'Annunzia must be hanged" and "Down with Italians" were carried. Violent speeches were made denouncing the apathy of the Allies and the Supreme Council at Paris.

Confirmation of the serious situation is had from news from Belgrade, Laibach, and Zara. These advices say the Jugoslav Government is finding difficulty in controlling excited public opinion. Even the moderate Jugoslav papers are declaring that the Dalmatian project, unless curbed from Rome, will inevitably lead to war.

MILAN, Nov. 28.—At a meeting, in which all the Socialist Deputies of Italy participated, here last night resolutions were passed asking the Government to energetically suppress Captain Gabriele d'Annunzio's enterprises in Dalmatia and establish a blockade to prevent food from reaching his troops.

The meeting was called in order that the attitude of the Socialists will assume at the first sitting of the new Chamber of Deputies might be discussed. Signor Vella, one of the leaders of the party, but who has been elected to Parliament for the first time, said that neither the Government nor the public would know the intentions of the Socialists until the last moment.

ROME, Nov. 28.—The Directors of the Socialist Party today adopted a motion declaring that "the Socialist victory at the general elections is an act of complete solidarity with the Soviet republic of Russia, clearly expressing to the Italian Government an order to recognize the Soviet republic of Russia."

The resolution declares that the Socialist victory was won "for the Maximalist program of the party, the realization of that program being a pledge taken by the party before the electors."

If the extremists in the Chamber resort to excesses and insult the King, Premier Nitti says he is determined again to dissolve the Chamber, being sure the attitude of the disturbers would produce such reaction among the majority that the extremists certainly would not be re-elected.

The monarchical societies of Florence and other towns have issued a manifesto calling on Italians to rally around the King.

Vittorio Scialoia, Italian Minister of Foreign Affairs, has left Rome for Paris, whence he will go to London to see Premier Lloyd George. On his way to Paris Signor Scialoia will stop off at Turin to meet the Greek Premier, Eleutherios Venizelos, and Nicholas Politis, Greek Foreign Minister, who are on their way to Rome to confer with Premier Nitti.

SAYS ALLIES MUST ACT IF NITTI IS AFRAID

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The London Times in an editorial article on the situation in Italy, asserts that grave achivements and schemes are threatening the country, and points out that the chief Italian organs condemned the Zara raid in the strongest terms. The article continues:

"The Idea Nazionale was alone among the Roman newspapers in defending it. The fact that this organ of extreme nationalism adopted exactly the same argument which Vorwärts employed to cast doubts upon the binding character of the Peace Treaty may not be without significance. Vorwärts suggested that the adjournment of the American Senate without having ratified the treaty might be taken to impair the obligations of Germany. The Idea Nazionale suggested it might throw Italy back upon the Treaty of London—with Fiume, of course, granted to Italy.

"Opinion, however, in many quarters is now condemning the Government severely, not, indeed, for its weakness in the face of d'Annunzio's insolent rebellion, but for its still greater weakness in suffering his accomplice, Admiral Millo, to retain his command. It seems to be supposed in Rome that its neglect to cashier this mutinous sailor is being interpreted abroad as evidence that it is in collusion with d'Annunzio.

"That may all be very true. The situation may be as ominous as the Ministers suppose, but the alleged impotence of the Italian Government to coerce d'Annunzio, Millo, and their sympathizers does not advance the solution of the Adriatic problem. It has to be solved by some means and to be solved soon. An end must be put to the Fiume farce. If the Italian Government cannot end it the task must devolve upon others. * * * If d'Annunzio is allowed to go on with his foolhardy escapades we shall wake up some fine day to find the east coast of the Adriatic and the Balkan countries behind it in flames. Should the Italian Government be unable or unwilling or afraid to perform its plain duty to Europe by maintaining the peace of that sea, the Allies and associates, and in particular the Americans and British, will be bound in the general interest to take it over for them."

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Nov. 28.—The newspapers reproduce almost verbatim THE NEW YORK TIMES comment on the Nitti interview, emphasizing especially those passages referring to the advisability of accepting the Italian proposal. The comments of THE TIMES are received with great satisfaction in political and diplomatic circles, where the hope is expressed that it will be a turning point in Italo-American relations, each country showing willingness to come to a understanding with the other.

The arival of Avezzans, the new Italian Ambassador, will contribute further, it is hoped, to ameliorate the situation.

350 Men's and Young Men's Winter Suits Blue Unfinished Worsted

Regularly $60.00

You know how scarce Blue Unfinished Worsteds are this season

A fact which makes this sale the more remarkable

You know—everyone knows—that Blues rarely get into a clothing sale. Why? Because, as Clothiers will tell you, Blues are always worth their weight in gold. It's a case of where production never catches up with demand. And, of course, this year Blues are even scarcer than ever. Yet we can come forward to-day and not only announce that we have a stock of beautiful Blue Unfinished Worsteds (out of the tailors' hands hardly seventy-two hours) but that we have them at such favorable prices that you can get them at $15.00 less than their accredited value. This sale has only one drawback—there are but 350 of these suits. We wish for the public's sake there were 3500 of them. It should be stated also that the styles are about equally divided between Single Breasteds and Double Breasted sand like many of the higher-priced new suits. GUILTY CANDY MEN WILL BE PUNISHED

Attorney General Orders Inquiry Into Their Purchases and Stocks on Hand.

PAYING ILLEGAL PRICES

Few Christmas Cakes This Year, President of Master Bakers' Association Says.

An investigation is to be made by Arthur Williams, the Federal Food Administrator, to learn to just what extent, if any, candy manufacturers in this district have used sugar which should have gone into the retail trade. Mr. Williams said yesterday that he had received orders from United States Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer to examine the manufacturers' books and get from them a list of their purchases of sugar over the last month, how much they bought, how much they paid, and where they bought it.

The order for the investigation came following numerous complaints received at the Food Administrator's offices that manufacturers got all the sugar they wanted to the exclusion of wholesalers and retailers supplying individual consumers, by paying a price higher than allowed by Government regulation, and then raised the cost of their candy to the consumer to make up the difference between the present and the normal price of sugar.

"There was enough sugar refined last week to allow every citizen in the district a pound," Mr. Williams said, "and the fact that there is a serious shortage shows that somebody is hoarding."

Adam Metz, President of the Master Bakers' Association, said last night that owing to the shortage of sugar there probably would be none of the usual supply of Christmas cakes and cookies baked.

Mr. Metz went on to say that for the past few weeks, dealers hard put were able to buy sugar at prices above those fixed by the Government, but that even that underground supply had now stopped.

A fact that is bothering the authorities now is that the United States Sugar Equalization Board ceases to function after the first of the year. Then, unless Mr. Palmer is given some new powers, dealers will be able to sell sugar for any price they can get. This fact makes hoarding just now a profitable venture, if the hoarder can evade the law.

Mr. Williams said yesterday that coffee had declined in price 2 cents a pound the past week. He thought that now it would be possible to purchase it at 40 to 41 cents.

Jonathan C. Day, Commissioner of Markets, said yesterday that on Dec. 3, in City Hall, the Committee on Storage, Markets and Marketing would hold a public hearing in regard to the storage, stamping and marketing of eggs in New York.

CRUEL TO GEESE; FINED.

One Defendant Unsuccessfully Offers a Novel Plea.

Because they were found guilty of "locking" the wings of geese kept in their shop, Harry Nathanson of 179 Lewis Street, and Samuel Hoffman of 611 Sixth Street, were esterday fined $5 each by Chief Magistrate McAdoo in the Essex Market Court. The charge was preferred by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

"I don't think a goose is an animal, Your Honor," pleaded Nathanson. "It seems to me it should be classed as a duck."

"Sure, it's an animal," said the Magistrate.

Special Agent Martin McGovern of the Society explained that locking wings of geese sometimes resulted in breaking a cord in their necks.

URGES COMPETITION IN CLOTHING PRICES

Friedsam Thinks That Advertisements Are a Better Guide Than Fair Lists.

GIVES RANGE FOR A WEEK

Advises the Public to First Shop in the Press, and Then in the Stores.

Federal Food Administrator Arthur Williams yesterday made public a letter from Michael Friedsam, head of B. Altman & Co. and Chairman of the Fair Price Committee's Sub-Committee on Clothing, Shoes, and Hhats, in which the latter gave a list of clothing prices compiled from last week's advertisements in the newspapers.

The list follows:

Men's suits	$24.50 to $47.50
Men's overcoats	19.75 to 65.00
Men's shoes	5.95 to 10.00
Men's hosiery	22 to 75
Men's underwear	1.35 to 48.00
Women's suits	25.00 to 75.00
Women's dresses	15.25 to 48.00
Women's coats	18.90 to 39.50
Women's shoes	3.45 to 10.85
Women's hosiery	10 to 2.05
Women's underwear	1.25 to 7.75
Boys' suits	5.90 to 20.00
Boys' overcoats	8.50 to 15.00
Boys' shoes	5.25 to ....

The letter came in answer to one Mr. Williams sent Mr. Friedsam asking him to investigate the present prices on clothing and shoes with a view of getting an idea of their present range. The clothing merchants have been requested to make up a fair list of clothes on lines similar to the list of foodstuffs but this is not deemed practical by Mr. Friedsam and his committee. Instead they have urged that the newspaper advertisements of prices by reputable firms furnish enough of a fair price list with the added desirable element of competition to keep them down.

Mr. Friedsam's letter follows:

Dear Mr. Williams:

I have received your letter of Nov. 24. As you know, I have maintained that fixing arbitrary prices on certain types of merchandise, which must necessarily from their nature be somewhat elastic in price, is impracticable. I am quite in agreement in what I think is your theory that, if the public would only shop in the public press first and then come to the stores, provided with the knowledge which they derive from a perusal of the newspaper advertisements, much good would be accomplished. I think a great many buyers would be surprised at the economy they might effect if they used more discrimination in their purchases.

You may be interested in a compilation which I have made of merchandise in the nature of wearing apparel advertised from Nov. 17 to 22. The data is taken from the advertisements in one morning and one evening paper, ad, therefore, while not etirely comprehensive, is accurate and thoroughly complete. There are three divisions—men's, women's, and boys'—and I send you a summary which shows the items and the range of prices from the lowest to the highest during this period.

It visualizes in a compact fashion the merchandise advertised by New York stores during the week. These prices represent, of course, in great part sales, but it shows that if shoppers will read their newspapers carefully and study the advertisements they can secure merchandise at a comparatively reasonable rate advertised by houses of repute. I simply give in this list, of course, items advertised in the papers. There is a very wide range, for instance, in men's suits. Suits were advertised as seven prices, beginning at $21.70; overcoats at seven prices, beginning at $19.75; women's suits at eight prices, beginning at $25; women's shoes at seven prices, beginning at $3.45, and men's shoes at five prices, beginning at $5.95. The quality, of course, varies somewhat in accordance with the price.

This data may suggest something to you, somewhat in line with the thought which you have already conveyed, and which seems to be very interesting indeed.

MICHAEL FRIEDSAM.

Mr. Williams said that in the future he would try to issue a compilation from the advertisements of clothing prices once a week.

Gets Portraits of Allied Leaders.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Six oil paintings of the principal allied military leaders were presented today to the War Department by Irma Pond of New York, who painted them. Among the subjects were General Pershing and General Bliss, Marshal Petain, Admiral Benson, and Colonel E. M. House.

BIG FIRE SWEEPS HOPKINS BUILDINGS

Loss of $700,000 in the Heart of Baltimore Falls Chiefly on the University.

MYSTERY IN EXPLOSIONS

Flames Started in McCoy Hall—Old Eutaw Street Church Badly Damaged.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 28.—Revised estimates of the loss caused by a fire which early today wrecked three of the group of buildings in the block bounded by Monument, Ross, Howard and Eutaw Street, in the centre of the city, formerly occupied by the Johns Hopkins University, and damaged about a score of residences and stores in the vicinity, placed the amount at approximately $700,000. The loss to the university alone may reach $500,000, but President Frank J. Goodnow says it is covered by insurance.

An investigation is under way to determine the origin of the fire, which broke out in McCoy Hall, one of the units of the Johns Hopkins group. Several explosions were heard in the building a few minutes after the fire started, and as no explosives were stored there fire officials are at a loss to explain what caused them.

McCoy Hall, which since the removal of the university to Homewood, had been the home of virtually all the charitable organizations of the city, was destroyed together with records, manuscripts, and data of value that cannot be fixed in dollars. The Maryland Tuberculosis Association lost more than 12,000 000 Red Cross Christmas seals which cannot be replaced for the campaign about to begin.

A high wind drove big embers for many squares, starting several other fires. One fire broke out ten blocks away.

Eutaw Street Methodist Episcopal Church, two squares distant, was set on fire and badly damaged. The church is one of the city's oldest edifices, and has been prominently identified with the history of Methodism. Francis Asbury, first Methodist Episcopal Bishop in America, is buried beneath it.

Among the buildings wrecked or damaged were Levering Hall, the Johns Hopkins gymnasium, the biological laboratories, and the Baltimore City College annex.

A number of rescues were made by firemen, including a blind girl, who was taken from a thiry story, and several families.

Nine firemen were injured, but none severely.

TO POST EXCHANGE RATES.

Collector Newton to Furnish Daily Statements for Importers.

At the suggestion of the Merchants' Association Collector Newton announced yesterday that hereafter statements of the daily rates of exchange with foreign countries will be posted in the Custom House. In adopting the suggestion Collector Newton wrote:

"We expect to receive quotations from the New York Federal Reserve Bank before the close of business today covering the period from Sept. 1 to Nov. 24, inclusive. Copies will be immediately prepared and furnished to Custom House brokers and others interested. Rates of exchange will be posted weekly in the Custom House from the latter date until Dec. 31.

"We are glad to know that your suggestions agree with the plan initiated by this office and hope that its application will be a great convenience to the importing public and relieve the banks from issuing individual certificates of exchange value of foreign currency."

Ex-Bishop Kinsman Now a Catholic.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 28.—Cardinal Gibbons announced tonight that Bishop Frederick U. Kinsman, formed head of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Delaware, was received into the Catholic Church last Sunday at the Cathedral.

Then hear their Victor Records

Extraordinary interest attaches to the recitals of these great artists because of the double opportunity they afford the music-loving public.

It is a privilege in itself to hear these famous artists, and added importance is given to the events in that they enable you to compare their exquisite interpretations with their Victor Records.

Attend the concerts of these artists and note the individual qualities that distinguish their renditions. Then go to any Victor dealer's and hear the Victor Records by the same artists. Note how faithfully their interpretations are portrayed on the Victrola.

It is because of this absolute fidelity that these three artists make Victor Records; that the greatest artists of all the world are Victor artists.

For Christmas and for a Lifetime

The Book of Knowledge

The Children's Encyclopedia

10,000 Educational Pictures In Five Languages English French Spanish Italian Portuguese 350 Colored Plates

The child knows the right way to go about getting an education, if you will only let him. Just hear him! How eagerly he asks "Why can't I see in the dark?" "Why does the kettle steam?" "What is the use of my hair?" "Is the earth hollow inside?" "How high can men fly?" "What keeps the stars in place?" "What makes a ball bounce?" He wants to know the answers to these questions and hundreds of others as much as he wants his dinner. If you are not prepared to tell him off-hand, (are you?) THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE answers every question a child can ask in the plain and simple language a child can understand. It makes learning the delight it ought to be. Put THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE in your home today and give your child THE GREATEST OPPORTUNITY that a child can have.

The Greatest Educational Help of the Century

All the great principles which man has applied so successfully to his own life are found first in Nature. The idea of the circular saw is seen in the jaws of the Sawyer beetle. The woodpecker at work illustrates the principle of the small pickax. The fall of the apple taught Newton the law of gravitation. But more significant still is the fact that the Queen Bee is developed from the ordinary stock by the special food upon which it is fed. This great principle has been applied to the mind of the child with marvelous success in THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE, the Children's Encyclopaedia. It is just the right kind of nourishing food for the growing years. In over 700,000 homes the children of today are given a working knowledge of the world by means of this remarkable original work. IS YOUR CHILD STILL WAITING FOR THE GREATEST OF ALL CHRISTMAS GIFTS?

YOUR CHILD'S CHANCE

In round numbers, what is your child's chance to become successful? If uneducated, he has one chance out of 150,000; with a common school education, 4 chances; with a high school education, 87 chances; with a college education, 800 chances; WITH THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE in the home, every chance. It is not a luxury, it is an absolute necessity. It is an INVESTMENT in your child's future which will pay dividends as long as he lives. In over 700,000 homes today the children are being educated with THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE. Give your child his chance to compete with them.

THE MOST VALUABLE GIFT

The most valuable and most delightful gift for the children this Christmas is THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE, The Children's Encyclopedia, because it is everything rolled into one great, big, beautiful gift. It appeals with an almost equal fascination to every member of the family, with its 10,000 striking educational pictures, many in colors. The 16 GREAT DEPARTMENTS, NATURE, SCIENCE, HISTORY, BIOGRAPHY, ASTRONOMY, PHSIOLOGY ART, POETRY, LITERATURE, and EDUCATIONAL OCCUPATIONS, give the child or adult a working knowledge of the world—the earth, the air, the sea, and the works of men. The whole wonderful world is brought within reach of the mind of the child. Make this Christmas memorable by adding THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE to the life of the HOME.

RAIL UNION CHIEFS NAME 24 CONFEREES

Executive Committee Will Hear Details of Hines's Overtime Plan Tuesday.

HAS POWER OF DECISION

Shea Says Demand for Rise Will Await Settlement of the Overtime Question.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 28.—General Chairmen of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen held a meeting here today, following the ending yesterday of a conference of all General Chairmen of the four railroad brotherhoods, at which it was desided to send a committee representing the four organizations to Washington. They elected an "executive committee" of twenty-four members to represent the firemen in the conference with Director General of Railroads Hines next Tuesday, when more details will be given regarding his offer of time and one-half for overtime in slow freight service, provided all "arbitrarles" and special allowances are eliminated.

The committee, like the committees representing the trainment, conductors and engineers, has full power to accept or reject the offer.

Asked whether the committee would press for an answer to the firemen's demands for a general wage increase of approximately 60 per cent., Acting President Timothy Shea said that it would depend largely upon how the overtime question is settled and that the Director General's overtime offer would be disposed of first.

"The President's proclamation of Aug. 25," Mr. Shea said, "asked railroad workers to wait a reasonable time in order to see if the cost of living could be reduced, and promising that in the event the present level were found to be permanent, then the present rates of pay would be adjusted to meet the permanent level.

"Doesn't it seem as if the reasonable time is about up?" he asked.

PRINCE'S TICKET ON SALE.

Pasteboard Autographed by Wales Will Go to Highest Bidder.

The ticket for a box at the Empire Theatre on Dec. 5 autographed by the Prince of Wales on the day of his departure from New York was put up to the highest bidder yesterday by the managers of the drive for the Actors' Fund.

More than 15,000 invitations were mailed to persons living in all parts of the United States, but W. Ward Smith, Associate Chairman of the drive, said the bidding would not be limited to those invited in person, but would be open to everybody who cared to send in a bid to Room 703, Hotel Commodore, New York City. A fac-simile of the autographed ticket, framed in gold, with a photograph of the Prince, will be placed on exhibition in the lobbies of all the principal hotels here.

Mr. Smith left last night for a campaign tour as far as Indianapolis, where he is to deliver two addresses tomorrow morning on the present-day standards of the stage. The last leg of his trip will be made by airplane.

Miss Jordan's Song Recital.

Miss Mary Jordan gave a song recital last evening in Aeolian Hall that had a distinctively military character in the quality of the audience and the decoration of the hall, though not so much in the program nor in her style of singing it. There were interesting numbers on her program, a number of new ones; a group of French songs, a group of American, a folk song group of Little Russian, Japanese and negro songs; three songs by Zanella, heard for the first time, Nogere's "La Gitanina," and a group by American women composers.

Miss Jordan's voice is of good quality, except in its upper tones, which she generally avoids using. It is a little heavy and lacking in flexibility; its range of emotional color is not naturally great. While Miss Jordan evidently strove for variety and contrast of expression, she did not always arrive at it, and while sincerity and intelligence were not lacking in her style, there was a certain monotony of effect.

The audience was very large and overflowed upon the stage, and gave her unstinted applause.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The customary Sunday night vaudeville performance at the Century will be omitted this week to permit a dress rehearsal of "Aphrodite," which opens at the Century on Monday.

Kate Morgan has been secured for "The Mood of the Moon," by Cleves Kinkead.

The Frohman Amusement Corporation, motion picture producers, will enter the legitimate producing field with the presentation of "The Hope of the House," a comedy by William A. Page. Jack Sherrill will have the leading role.

"Piccadilly Jim," by Guy Bolton and P. G. Wodehouse, will have its premiere Monday night in Wilkes-Barre.

The annual benefit of the Theatrical Mechanical Association will take place at the Fulton Theatre tomorrow night. Frank Bacon will appear in a new sketch of his own writing.

The Actors' Equity Association will hold a meeting at the Hotel Astor tomorrow afternoon.

Alfred E. Henderson will talk on "The Play's the Thing" before the Women's Press Club at the Waldorf-Astoria this afternoon.

Julie Herne will appear with Robert Whitler in the special matinees to be given at the Longacre Theatre in the near future. The first production will be of Gorky's "The Night Refuge."

Secretary Daniels and members of his family occupied a box at the Hippodrome last night as the guests of Charles B. Dillingham.

A Sunday performance of "Friendly Enemies" will be given at the Broad Street Theatre in Newark tomorrow night in aid of the Actors' Fund.

"Fifty-Fifty, Ltd.," which leaves the Comedy Theatre tonight, will be continued on tour.

Many members of the "Monsieur Beaucaire" company, among them Lennox Pawle, John Clarke, and Spencer Trevor, will arrive on the Megantic, due at Portland, Me., today or tomorrow. "Monsieur Beaucaire" will open at the New Amsterdam Theatre on Dec. 11.

Sen. Wadsworth to Aid Red Cross.

Senator Wadsworth yesterday accepted an invitation to speak, with Governor Alfred E. Smith and others, at the Metropolitan Opera House, Sunday afternoon, to open the Greater New York Red Cross Christmas Seal Campaign to fight tuberculosis. Leslie M. Shaw, former Secretary of the Treasury; Dr. George E. Vincent, President of the Rockefeller Foundation, and Dr. David R. Lyman of New Haven, Conn., will also speak.

Curtail Advertisements

Because of the frequent omission of advertisements from The New York Times, due to preferable limitation of pages and to the scarcity of newsprint paper, advertisers are requested to curtail their orders for space. This applies particularly to those desiring full pages. The Times believes that in this way a difficult situation can be met with the smallest amount of hardship to all advertisers.

Today 6 columns of advertisements were omitted.

MUSIC

By RICHARD ALDRICH.

The Philharmonic Society.

New York has never been brought to accept the symphonies of Anton Bruckner, vast and pretentious works of ambitious purpose, with naything like patience; nor has it been for lack of opportunity in the course of a generation, during which time Thomas, Damrosch, Seidl, Fiedler, Muck, all tried them, the last named with considerable persistency and with the evident purpose of making propaganda for them.

Now Mr. Stransky tries it again, having put the eighth at the head of the program of the Philharmonic Society's afternoon concert in Carnegie Hall yesterday. It cannot be called familiar, but a performance of it was given by the Boston Symphony Orchestra some ten year ago under Mr. Fiedler, when it was played for the first time in New York, a few days after the performance in Boston, which was the first one in this country. Mr. Stransky used a version much reduced by excisions, which are invited by the great prolixity and diffuseness of the composition. But it was evident that, even when severely trimmed, Bruckner's music is not acceptable to this public. There are pages of grandiose writing, which are imposing; there are ideas in themselves beautiful.

There is the influence of Wagner, to which the composer himself not merely admitted, but eagerly declared that he submitted; an influence heard not only in the character of certain themes, in the instrumentation—though this now seems generally heavy and overladen—and in the general physiognomy of more than a few pages of the score. Such is the climax of the last movement, which formerly recalled the last scene in "The Rhinegold," but recalls it much less now that Mr. Stransky has left but a fragment of it. It is strange to read that the adagio movement has been declared to be the finest of all symphonic adagios. It has unquestionably passages that make an impression by their weight and sonority, but the movement is not sustained on a high level of interest. The scherzo is singularly heavy-footed, but its trio keeps the listener's interest perhaps longer than any other section of the work.

Mr. Stransky conducted with all the zest that has usually been put into performances of Bruckner by his advocates. The orchestra was increased by the additional instruments required, including the four horns that alternate with the "Bayreuth tubas" borrowed by Bruckner from Wagner's scores. The performance had been carefully prepared. But it was clear that if Bruckner ever had a day, or the possibility of a day, with this public, it is past. Even his best no longer impresses.

The other orchestral numbers were Saint-Saëns's "Danse Macabre" and Berlioz's setting of the "Rakoczy" march. The soloist was Miss Greta Masson, a new comer, who sang the florid air "Charmant Oiseau" with flute obbligato from Félicien David's "La Perle du Brésil," and songs with orchestral accompaniment by Richard Hageman, Walter Kramer, and Mrs. H. H. A. Beach. Her command of vocal coloratura was hardly sufficient to make the operatic air brilliant; and brilliancy is its sole excuse for being.

"La Forza del Destino."

Verdi's "La Forza del Destino," one of the old-time operas brought back to life last season to help fill the void in the operatic repertory caused by the war, was given at the Metropolitan Opera House last evening for the first time this season. The opera is not accounted by Verdi's biographers one of the successful ones in the long list of his productions, but the biographers had not cast an eye over the interior of the Metropolitan Opera House last evening, nor upon its exterior all the afternoon preceding the performance. The queue of would-be ticket purchasers extended in a long line into the neighboring avenue; and in the evening the house was filled as full as it can be filled, after many applicants had been refused. The conclusion is irresistible that "La Forza del Destino," as it is now presented at the opera, is a huge success, from some points of view, at least, and these points of view are likely to result in giving the eager throngs opportunities to hear "La Forza del Destino" in the rest of the season.

The production enlists, of course, first and foremost Mr. Caruso, for whom the opera was provided and who has several opportunities to shine and to sing in his most characteristic manner and fullest robustness. Mr. Amato, who this year takes the part of Don Carlos, given to Mr. de Luca last season, also has opportunities, and availed himself of them in a voice that gave satisfaction to many of his admirers. The two likewise have a couple of duets, also of robust character, that are much appreciated, and Miss Ponselle has a number of effective airs, and a whole act to herself with Mr. Chalmers.

It must be said that much of this music seems to be singularly devoid of vitality, real beauty and real significance. Nevertheless, it is written for stirring effect, which is not lacking in the performance; and, indeed, a plausible case might be made out for "La Forza del Destino" as in some respects a better opera than "Un Ballo in Maschera," which has had a life certificate of several seasons' standing at the Metropolitan.

Changes in the cast from that of last season included, besides Mr. Amato, Mme. Delaunois as Preziosilla, taking the places of Miss Gentle and Miss Braslau successively; and Miss Egener as Curra, a part last season given to Miss Mattfeld. The chorus has some important numbers and gave a good account of them, and Mr. Papi conducted. There was abundant applause, naturally.

J. Campbell McInnes, Baritone, Sings

J. Campbell McInnes, a baritone of the rough diamond sort, who served with the British Air Forces in the war, and whose simple, manly style, together with a voice of naturally rich quality, commanded him on first hearing, made his début yesterday at Aeolian Hall. In his unhackneyed program were Purcell's "Morning" and "Evening Hymn," and the "Four Serious Songs" of Brahms, for which he had no sufficient range of emotional expression. His tone was marred by tremolo, his diction weak, yet the prime beauty of voice counted for much in Bruneau's "Les Pieds Nus," recited with parenthetical half whispers, and only here and there a piano chord from the accompanist, Mr. Noble. Hahn's brief monotone, "D'Une Prison," and some lighter airs and ballads were much applauded.

A Special Sale of 1000 pairs at $9.75

Regularly $12.75

You naturally ask, "Why the $3 saving? Why sell an All-Leather shoe at a price that most stores ask for a composition shoe?" The answer is that these particular 1000 pairs should have been here when our new department was opened. But they were delayed. We didn't have to take them at this time. And certainly we wouldn't have taken them to put in our regular stock so well on in the season. So we decided to pass them on to you minus a profit but plus a small percentage for the bare handling. Thus they are yours for $9.75 a pair while they last, instead of $12.75 which they're worth.

THE COOLIDGE BOOM.

Governor COOLIDGE is to be Massachusetts's Favorite Son at the next Republican National Convention. Senator LODGE's declaration in his favor puts that beyond doubt. Despite a good deal of foolish and unwarranted talk, Mr. LODGE has never been a candidate for President. Whether or not he is of Presidential stature, he is not of the stature of candidates, and he has too much sense to miss the fact. His worst enemy could never charge Mr. LODGE with guiding his public actions by any such ambition.

The declaration of the newly organized American Party in favor of COOLIDGE and HANSON as a ticket is a pious aspiration, but not politics. The making of tickets agreeable to the makers is one of the favorite amusements of the year preceding a Presidential election. So far as we recollect, it has never amounted to anything. The ticket is never nominated en bloc. The Presidential candidate is selected, and when that dominant issue is out of the way the convention turns to the Vice Presidential nomination and is governed entirely by expediency. It often picks a defeated candidate for the Presidential nomination, with the view of placating his perhaps depressed followers, and also with a careful eye to the question whether his State is doubtful or sure. There is no reason for supposing that the custom will be departed from now, and still less for believing that ticket-makers will have any more standing or success than they have ever had. One nomination at a time is enough to worry about, according to all political precedents, and the Vice Presidency takes care of itself without much regard to issues.

As for Governor COOLIDGE, it does not often happen, and it may be said never to happen in the Republican Party, that one bold stroke makes a Presidential nominee. Mr. COOLIDGE's Presidential boom is based solely on the indubitable fact that this year, when government and law were challenged, he proved himself a man and an American. It was a splendid thing to do, but it was only one thing. The Republican Party always—the Democratic Party nearly always—requires a longer record than that. The Lincoln-Douglas debates, it is often said, made a President of LINCOLN. But LINCOLN was before the public for more reasons than that, and he also came from a section which it was necessary for the Republicans to carry and doubtful if they would carry; besides which, the leading candidate against him was disqualified politically and sure to carry the ticket to defeat. That case is no precedent. The nearest is a Democratic one, the nomination of MR. BRYAN in 1900 because of his success in defeating the spokesman of the Gold Democrats in a forensic battle. It is not a precedent that Republicans have ever followed. Men of one deed are not now likely to capture a convention of either party. Mr. COOLIDGE must increase and expand his already good record before he can make a successful appeal for nomination.

One thing a Coolidge boom might accomplish, and it is possible that Mr. LODGE has not overlooked that possibility. General WOOD's boom was of New England origin. He was born over the border from Massachusetts. If he appeared in the convention with a solid, or nearly solid, block of New England States, it might prove influential, the more so as he is unquestionably strong in the West. But if the greatest of New England States should appear with a Favorite Son, it might not do the Favorite Son any good, but it would do WOOD more or less harm. The other day the Washington correspondent of THE TIMES informed us that the Old Guard was seeking a way to head off WOOD's growing boom. Mr. COOLIDGE may not have thought of this, but perhaps Mr. LODGE has.

SENATOR M'NARY.

Some time ago The Oregon Journal polled the vote of its readers in regard to the ratification of the League of Nations covenant. More than twenty-eight thousand voted for ratification. Only one hundred and seventy-three were recorded in opposition. So far as the general feeling of Oregonians can be judged from this vote, the State is for ratification in the proportion of 162 to 1. Various other proofs of Oregon's friendliness to the covenant without any reservations calculated and intended, like those of Senator LODGE, to denature and destroy it have been given. The strong independence of political thought in Oregon, of which The Portland Oregonian has long been a notable example, nationally known, has manifested itself decisively in regard to this vital question.

The mass of Oregon Republicans, like the mass of Oregon Democrats, longs for a permanent guarantee of the peace of the world, is ready for the United States to assume a larger international responsibility, wishes, in fact, that the United States should not shirk a new and great duty and obligation. Among the Oregon Republicans, long accustomed to look at public matters with an eye single to their merits and a forgetfulness of narrowly partisan considerations, the strange course of the Senate Republicans in "playing politics" with the League of Nations has been unpopular and even almost unintelligible. At first Senator MCNARY was inclined to represent the opinion of his constituents. In the end he yielded to the orders of Senator LODGE and the straitest sect of Republican Pharisees.

The Oregon Journal tells Senator MCNARY that he "will have to explain to the people of Oregon why he surrendered to Senator LODGE. They will want to know why, at the last, he was driven into camp to vote politics primary to peace. When he returns home, as he soon will, his constituents will expect him to explain his position." He will find it a hard task to make any plausible explanation. He is one of many Republican Senators to whom the "home folks" have some disagreeable truths to tell.

THE GREEKS IN SMYRNA.

Mr. GRASTY's dispatch from Marseilles in yesterday's TIMES conveys the first report of a "secret treaty" by which, in 1917, Mr. LLOYD GEORGE promised to Mr. VENIZELOS "a slice of Anatolia, about one-third the size of France"—that is to say, somewhat more than a third of all Anatolia. This promise was "oral if not written." There are scattered communities of Greeks throughout all Anatolia, but the districts where they are numerous—and their territorial claims, with much justice, go somewhat further than the districts where they are in a majority—do not amount to a third of the entire territory. This was done in 1917, "when the adhesion of Greece to the allied cause was indispensable."

This strange narrative is brought to France, it would seem, by "people who have arrived from Constantinople." Whether these people are Turkish, Italian, American, or French does not appear; but their picture of events in Asia Minor since the Greeks landed at Smyrna indicates a certain bias against the Greeks. The Greeks, according to this story, sent a whole division to Smyrna, instead of a few troops; they have pushed out into the hinterland and "devastated the beautiful valley of the Maeander, the garden spot of Turkey"; and as a result there has been a fierce and cruel war ever since.

It is a fact that the Greeks landed at Smyrna in force; they had to land, as the Conference recognized, because the Turks were becoming restive and there were dangers of serious outrages against the Christians. The Greeks of the Aegean coast suffered only less than the Armenians at the hands of the Turks from 1914 to 1916; thousands were massacred and thousands more deported. Naturally, after Turkey had surrendered, a Greece which had fought on the side of the victors did not care to see repetitions of these outrages at her own doors.

A division landed at Smyrna, instead of a few troops, because there was good reason to believe that the Turks would make trouble. They did. Processions of Greek troops and civilian residents were fired upon by the Turks, and there was fighting which ended, after several hundred casualties, in the restoration of order by the Greek troops. It was a situation such as would have occurred had the Germans in Metz fired upon the French army of occupation entering during the armistice.

The Turks are reluctant to let go of Smyrna and the surrounding territory. MUSTAPHA KEMAL's army at Iconium has not come into action yet, but there has been guerrilla fighting in the area occupied by the Greeks. Of this area much is preponderantly Greek in population, in the rest the Greeks form a minority, but are the principal progressive element and are rapidly increasing in numbers and wealth—or were before the war. Even hostile investigation has made it clear that the areas of Greek settlement three thousand years ago are surely destined to be Greek again, though in some of them the Turks may for a time have a preponderance.

As a matter of fact, the maximum territorial claims of Greece at the Peace Conference covered about one-fifth, not one-third, of Anatolia. In this territory the population was, roughly, a million Greeks and two million Turks. The Turk has had time enough to prove his capacity for civilization as we understand it, and has been found wanting. The Greek has shown his abilities. There will doubtless be fighting, not very serious but long continued, if the Turks are asked to give up any Anatolian provinces to the Greeks; but the world has to decide whether the Turks or the Greeks are more entitled to confidence, more likely to give a worthy account of their stewardship.

The pro-Turkish sympathies of the refugees from Constantinople who bring this story of a secret treaty which may have been only a verbal promise are pretty plain. That treaty is supposed to have covered more than Greece ever demanded at the Peace Conference; would a State supported by Mr. LLOYD GEORGE's promise have cut its demands almost in two? Mr. LLOYD GEORGE is supposed to have made the promise "when the adhesion of Greece to the allied cause was indispensable." The adhesion of Venizelist Greece to the allied cause was never in doubt. A price was offered to CONSTANTINE in January, 1915; a price which he refused. That offer included Cyprus, and if Mr. LLOYD GEORGE were making promises he might well have repeated that offer. The whole tale has much the appearance of a Levantine romance, which may have for its basis nothing more than a British promise to support the Greek claim on those parts of Anatolia where the Greeks are, numerically or intellectually, the dominant race.

BIRTH RELEASE.

Professor PINARD, who announces a campaign in the Chamber of Deputies in behalf of larger French families, may be "an authority on maternity," but he will scarcely pass as an expert in feminine psychology. He says that the woman who considers maternity a duty is "unfortunately the exception." It is true that among the many women nowadays who do not have children there are some who say that they do not consider it a duty. But a woman's age is not the only subject upon which her depositions are unreliable. The duty of childbearing is as deeply ingrained in her nature as the duty of amounting to something is ingrained in a man's. Both are primordial instincts. If they are denied, the unfortunate subject surrounds the fact with a mesh of mental shifts and evasions, the chief end of which is to deceive himself. But the workings of an emotional complex are the last thing that should mislead any real authority on women.

In France as elsewhere the decrease in the birth rate is a direct result of the so-called industrial revolution. When productive industry centred in the household a wife could pay her way in spinning and weaving, baking and brewing, and still bear numerous children. The children themselves did chores and so made their keep. Maternity was as normal and natural economically as it was emotionally; and it had been so from long before the dawn of history. The factory system took industry out of the household; and with it went other maternal duties, such as teaching and skilled nursing, which are now a severe tax upon the family purse. In the old and literal sense of the word, a wife is no longer a helpmeet. She doubles the strain on her husband's earning power, and if she has three or four children she trebles it. Childless women who understand these things say nothing. Those who do not understand them, or much of anything else, mask their chagrin under a pretense of advanced opinion.

Professor PINARD recognizes that there is an economic element in the situation; but the shortcoming of his realization is indicated by the fact that he hopes to find a remedy in the law. "The State has a duty to aid" parents to bring up their children. It may have, but the problem of doing so efficiently is of the utmost complexity and difficulty. To people living on the margin of existence a maternity benefit may be made effectual, though it has not yet succeeded very well in actual practice. But even such a sum as would be a godsend on the margin of existence would be a bagatelle to people in the middle stations of life. It is among the moderately well-to-do that the decline of births is most conspicuous and the loss to society most irremediable. People on the verge of destitution still multiply with the age-old fecundity, but those whose abilities and energies have raised them into the spheres of education and enlightened living find that, without efforts and self-sacrifices little short of heroic, they cannot give the world its much needed increase of their kind.

The true problem of population is thus not birth control but birth release, and a selective birth release. Before the war it had already begun to take this form. Since the armistice the situation has been vastly aggravated by the advanced cost of living and the injustice with which it has fallen upon the salaried brain worker. Enlightenment in such matters comes slowly, and progress is of necessity even more retarded; but it is a saying as true as it is old that a problem clearly stated is half solved.

THE BULGARIAN TREATY.

Despite the agitation raised on behalf of Bulgaria by people who ought to have known better, the Bulgarians have signed at Neuilly the treaty of peace imposed upon them. Premier STAMBULIYSKY, the same who warned FERDINAND when he went into the war that it was likely to cost him his head, and who spent some time in jail in consequence, took the responsibility in the name of his country. Serbia and Rumania did not sign—not from any reluctance, it appears, but as a penalty applied by the Peace Conference because they had refused to sign the treaty with Austria with its guarantees for racial minorities.

Like some other treaties, it is not ideal, but the best that could be obtained. In many ways, indeed, it is extraordinarily favorable to Bulgaria. An indemnity of $445,000,000 is exacted, but Bulgaria is released from her war debt to Germany, which was considerably larger than that. By the German treaty Germany resigned this claim to the Allies, but whether they will demand payment by Bulgaria is exceedingly doubtful.

Bulgaria loses the parts of Western Thrace that she held after the Balkan wars, but is promised an economic outlet to the Aegean. What will be done with Thrace, Turkish and Bulgarian, is yet to be seen, and there is plentiful opportunity for Bulgarian intrigue and adventures by comitadji bands in these disputed territories. Bulgaria is to disarm and to restore stolen property, but the success in obtaining these ends during the armistice has been so limited as to make it unwise to place any too great hopes on their fulfillment afterward.

The Strumitza district of Macedonia, from which Bulgarian troops and raiders had easy access to the Saloniki railroad, is ceded to Serbia—a measure of strategic protection which was eminently desirable in view of the Bulgarian raids on the railroad before their Government entered the war. Serbia also receives some districts on the western frontier of Bulgaria which she might have had at the Congress of Berlin if Russia had not insisted on keeping as much territory as possible for a Bulgaria which was expected to be virtually a Russian protectorate. The inhabitants are of a mixed type, perhaps more Serb than Bulgar, but much Bulgarized by forty years of Bulgarian nationality.

Bulgaria's friends have claimed much to which she had no right. They have hoped to save the Dobrudja, conquered by the Bulgars during the war and the subject of much dispute last year among Bulgaria, Turkey, and Germany. Bulgaria has perhaps a fair claim to the southernmost part of this region—the district between Silistria and the sea which she lost in 1913. She still hopes, if not to save Macedonia, to make her rivals' possession of it insecure. There are undoubtedly a good many Macedonians who feel as Bulgarians. But it is impossible to make any concessions to Bulgaria as a step toward lasting peace; concessions have appeared only to inflame her the more. Any favoritism to Bulgarian Macedonians who live among Greek and Serbian Macedonians would be interpreted as encouragement to Bulgarian aspirations to all Macedonia, and to the frontier on three seas which enthusiastic Bulgars thought they had won in the Spring of 1918. So any concession in the Dobrudja would merely encourage Bulgarian aspirations to those northern parts of the district in which the Bulgarian population is negligible. The prospect of enduring peace in the Balkans is not a great deal brighter today than it has been in the past; but it is difficult to see how it can be materially improved as long as the Bulgars are the Bulgars.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Visitor from the Skies.

As the falling of a large meteorite would account for the loud noises and brilliant flashes of light that were heard and seen Wednesday night by great numbers of people living within fifty miles or so of the southern end of Lake Michigan, and as no other explanation of them has been offered or suggested, it can safely be assumed that they were not otherwise produced. That the planetary fragment went into the water and probably never can be examined is to be regretted, of course. On the other hand, as the region thereabout is thickly populated, a change in the meteorite's course by a few degrees might have brought it down in a town, with disastrous consequences. As there is no reason for supposing that this missile from the skies differed in composition from the many others that have been studied, probably no real information has been lost.

All the available information about these bodies, and there is now a good deal of it, is enough to establish with a close approach to certainty the belief that no substance hitherto unknown to mineralogists will ever be brought to the earth in this way. At any rate, none peculiar to meteorites of this class, or to any one meteorite, ever has been discovered. Of the terrestrial elements, about one-third of the whole list, and all of them common ones, have been identified as contained in meteorites, but some of the elements thus found were in combinations into which they are not known naturally to have grouped themselves in the conditions existing here.

In other words, as was to have been expected, the composition of the exploded or shattered little planet whose fragments occasionally come near enough to be deflected from their course around the sun was practically the same as that of the earth, and this more than hints that the same thing is true of the other planets in our system. But deduction thence as to other systems would be dangerous.

A Danger Far from Terrifying.

As meteorites are falling not infrequently all through the year, and about as often in one region as another in all parts of the earth, it is obvious that at any moment any one of us might be hit by one of them. But the danger of meeting this unpleasant ending seems to be too small to measure. The records contain only a single case, and that not well authenticated, of a man thus killed in India a long time ago, and the failure of a ship or two ever to reach any port has been ascribed to the same cause on no authority at all. Of narrow escapes from such a death concerning which there can be no doubt there have been something less than a dozen.

Only large meteorites, or the pieces of those that explode just before they come to rest, ever reach the earth. The others—the "shooting stars" to be seen every night—are volatilized in passing through the upper atmosphere and come down only as unnoticed dust.

In ancient times these stones of such mysterious origin were viewed with reverence, and several of them, when imagination could see in them something of human or animal shape, became objects of worship. The Diana of the Ephesians and the Venus of Cyprus are supposed to have been such "statues," and the "black stone" at Mecca is another.

The largest of all known meteorites is the one brought back from Greenland by Admiral PEARY and now in our Museum of Natural History. It weighs over 36 tons. It must have made not a little commotion when it fell—if there was any one there to see it.

Their Chance to Show Their Wisdom.

A highly commendable impulse was the one which moved the members of the Municipal Art Society to suggest that, before any decision is made as to what form New York's War Memorial shall take, the opinions of the returned soldiers should be sought. The interest in the matter of the men who did the fighting is at least as great as that of anybody else, and, unless they are consulted, not improbably there will be made, here as elsewhere—not far away either—a selection of a design that for one reason or another will prove displeasing, or even distinctly repugnant, to the World War veterans.

But though the soldiers certainly should be consulted, if the soldiers themselves have more wisdom than certain officials who could be named they will express their advice in very general terms and carefully refrain both from suggesting actual designs or from assuming to choose from designs suggested. That is no more the work of soldiers than it is of municipal officials—it is the work of experts in the domain of art.

Probably the very greatest service the soldiers could render as regards the War Memorial would be strongly to advise that the whole question be left to a carefully constituted committee of sculptors and other artists, all of established reputation. No men in the world know better than those with army experience the worth of training and special knowledge as the means of attaining good results. They are equally well informed as to the hopelessness of attaining such results by the exercise of excellent intentions alone.

Lady Astor Enters the House.

While it probably would be something of an exaggeration to say that England's troubles are over, or even that they are measurably lightened, by the election of a woman to Parliament, yet the event is one of very appreciable importance to that country and of much more than appreciable interest to the United States.

Lady ASTOR's brilliant victory over one strong rival, and another put up to serve the usual purpose of hopeless candidates, marks the recognition that woman's aspirations and privileges have broadened and risen with the new times, and that her opportunities to show another kind of social value than those always ascribed to her have been correspondingly enlarged. On the other hand, this election is a sufficient answer to the charge that anti-American prejudice survives in effectual form among the British.

For the purposes of her political antagonists, Lady ASTOR's American birth kept her the American she used to be, but she won in spite of it. That, doubtless, is because she made a fine, brave, fair fight for a seat in the historic House of Commons because she did not take herself too seriously, and because she did take herself seriously enough.

That she will not set the Thames on fire as a lawmaker is probable as well as desirable. That she will justify the choice of her constituents can easily be believed.

Business Man or Army Man.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have a suggestion to offer which is probably not original, but for just what it is worth. In your paper of this morning I noticed an item, "Schwab Sees Good in Labor Troubles," and in the article following the name of General Leonard Wood was mentioned as a prospective Presidential candidate.

Mr. Wood is a fine fellow and might have my vote, but it occurs to me to suggest the name of Charles M. Schwab, a business man, a man who has made good, I believe, in every sense of the word, for our next President. I am under the impression that, after arriving at a logical conclusion on conditions as they exist today, one would give preference to a real business man rather than an army man.

CHARLES E. HORNER.
New York, Nov. 26, 1919.

THE PASSING OF THE VINE.

Sing with me the Song of Linus—
Not as it was sung of yore;
For the vinestock droops untended,
And the grape is glad no more!

You, on hill slopes nearest sunset,
You who dressed and watched your vines,
Sweet green flower, and fulling clusters,
And in season pressed your wines.

Comes a blight upon those vineyards,
Laying waste your thrifty care;
And the unseen guardian-genii
Fling lament upon the air!

Yes, a blight upon your vineyards—
Blight upon our harmless mirth;
At the breath of the Forbidders
Time-old joys have flown this earth!

The Forbidders have—forbidden
That which was their brothers' right;
They have risen and withholden
That which yields them no delight!

The Forbidders—we discern them,
Unappeased, their manes still,
Who the Pilgrim hither followed—
Pilgrim of a gentler will.

Lo, not twice shall sturdy Britain,
Heart of oaken fibre knit,
Bow her down to bigot judgment,
And to Roundhead sway submit!

Us alone could the Forbidders
After them in fetters draw,
When they bound a sleeping Samson—
When they, lawless, made a law!

Sing with me the Song of Linus,
Join your mourning voice with mine,
You that loved your pleasant vineyards,
Sing the Passing of the Vine.

CRUSH DISLOYALTY, GEN. WOOD URGES

He Demands a "Halt to Treason Masquerading Under Free Speech."

PRAISES KANSAS GOVERNOR

Declares Allen "Assumes Responsibility Without Counting the Votes Concerned."

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 28.—Major General Leonard Wood, speaking at the City Club here today, made a forceful plea for Americanism, urging the deportation of alien agitators who, he said, were causing most of the domestic unrest.

"Deport these so-called Americans who preach treason openly," General Wood demanded. "Call a halt to treason masquerading under free speech."

The General urged a settlement of the strife between capital and labor.

"We must stop their fight," he said. "Public opinion rules a country. A strike is a blow at the public, but labor must be insured a square deal. We must establish co-operation between capital and labor. We must rid labor of treasonable leaders by deporting them and, equally imperative, we must remove the conditions around labor which give rise to just complaints."

Referring to immigration, the General declared that this country had not been careful enough in examining the mentality of its immigrants. He referred to the motto of Theodore Roosevelt, which he gave as "one flag, one duty, one loyalty," and the reference brought applause.

Efforts by some persons in the crowd to get an expression concerning his possible candidacy for the presidential nomination brought only a smile from the General.

"Now that wars are over—unless we lose more consuls," General Wood said, "our problems are those of readjustment. The millions of service men have been assimilated in the industrial world.

"At Gary I saw uniforms among the mobs. When I called the wearers out they told me invariably that they were present to restrain the others. 'We are strikers, but first we are Americans,' they said always.

"The real issue today is whether we shall have a republic or monarchy. You know and I know we will have law and order and this country will be run by Americans. The measure of Americanism is found in ideals. A small element cannot hold back 95 per cent. of our people."

General Wood praised the American Legion, telling what it did in Omaha.

"The service men will be a dominant factor in this country, not politically, I hope, but for law and order, good government and loyal ideals," he said. "We can't do too much to support the legion.

"There are problems in the South that must and can be solved readily," he said.

Next he referred to the Kansas coal situation, saying:

"Fortunately, Kansas has a Governor who assumes responsibility without counting the votes concerned."

The reference to Governor Allen brought an ovation.

"I want to give labor a square deal and establish industrial justice," General Wood said. "American labor is essentially loyal. The pernicious influence is from the alien, unassimilated element. The time has come to deport that element that is here to tear down our institutions.

"If the laws are inefficient or insufficient, let's obtain legislation to put out the thieving actively to break up our Government."

He quoted this remark, made by an old man in West Virginia: "S. O. S. should now mean, shoot 'em or ship 'em."

"The I. W. W. are like plague-infected rats," the General said. "At Omaha they drugged the crowd with booze. They led at Chicago and Gary, too.

"We cannot pay labor more than it earns. The high cost of living can be decreased only by increasing production, not by laws. There should be no autocracy of capital, but just as emphatically, I say, there can be no autocracy of labor."

HARDING MEETS FOLLOWERS

Declines Statement on Attitude Toward Presidential Nomination.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 28.—United States Senator Warren G. Harding met his followers here today, but refused to make any definite statement as to his intentions with respect to the Presidency. The State Central and Advisory Committees called on him at his hotel after a business session.

Colonel William Cooper Proctor of Cincinnati, who has declared for the candidacy of General Leonard Wood, called upon Senator Harding, but the result of their conference was not made public.

The committee meeting was but lightly attended, the known Wood advocates being absent. There is in the making propaganda to get county committees to indorse Harding before he makes a statement, and it is indicated that today's session really settled nothing with respect to the position of Ohio.

"PUSSYFOOT" IS BETTER.

Passes a Comfortable Night Following Removal of His Eye.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—William E. ("Pussyfoot") Johnson, the American prohibition worker, whose right eye was removed last night, spent a comfortable night and, with the exception of the effect of the anaesthetic administered for the operation, was feeling well this morning.

Surgeons said today that the operation, which was necessitated by an injury to Mr. Johnson's eye on Nov. 13, when he was roughly handled by a crowd of students, was a success.

As a token of admiration for "pluck, courage, and unfailing good nature," the Evening News has opened a testimonial for Mr. Johnson with a subscription of £100.

The newspaper says that money will not compensate for the loss of his eye and the suffering that Mr. Johnson has endured, but a tribute of practical sympathy from many thousands of London people will be some acknowledgment "that on this side of the water we admire a white man."

TO REIMBURSE BELGIUM.

Germany Agrees to Redeem 6,000,000,000 Marks Issued During War.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 28.—An agreement has been arrived at between the Belgian and German Governments whereby Germany during a period of twenty years will redeem 6,000,000,000 marks which were issued by the Germans in the occupied territories.

The marks will be exchanged for Treasury bonds producing 5 per cent. interest. By the agreement Belgium is assured complete reimbursement.

King Honors Olympic's Captain.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The King yesterday bestowed knighthood on Captain Bertram Hayes, who commanded the Olympic throughout the war. The Olympic became a transport in the second year of the war and made four trips to Mudros with troops. Later she was engaged in bringing American and Canadian troops across the Atlantic. The Olympic never was caught by German submarines, but she ran down the German U-boat U-103 off The Lizard.

NOTE ON SOLDIER DEAD.

France Again Informed of Wishes of American People.

PARIS, Nov. 28.—Efforts to return the bodies of American soldiers soon are being continued, regardless of the officially expressed attitude of the French Government against permitting American exhumations before the same privilege is accorded French families. The American Embassy has presented to the Foreign Office a note from Washington setting forth the desire of the American people to have their dead in their own country as soon as possible.

Brig. Gen. W. D. Connor, commander of the American troops in France, recently held a meeting with the French authorities to discuss the procedure in exhumations when the time comes for removal of the bodies. Despite the French official attitude, it is said to be the feeling in some French quarters that it would be difficult to refuse the Americans if pressure were exerted. It is pointed out that the French have more than a million bodies of their own which would require much time to remove, that the Americans are far ahead of the French in grouping and identifying their bodies, and that the number of American dead is small compared with either the British or French.

The Belgians are so near to France that it is believed they have less reason to urge their wishes. The present situation is that the Government decree continues the former millitary prohibition against removal of the dead of any nationality from the "war zone," where nearly 50,000 Americans are buried. There is no law or decree preventing the removal of nearly 20,000 American dead from the "interior zone," but the red tape involved in getting the authorization of Mayors and department Prefects in each individual case makes it necessary to devise a plan to get authorization from the Government if the 20,000 Americans are to be removed from the interior zone.

The proposed law to postpone exhumations, probably until January, 1922, would, in effect, prohibit the removal of the bodies from either the war or interior zones. One article of this law, which the last Chamber of Deputies did not reach, provides exceptions in the case of any previous agreement with France's allies.

Thus far the American negotiations have been limited to general representations covering all the American dead. If later negotiations should result in the French releasing American dead in the interior, it is admitted this would make it much easier to urge that the remainder of the exhumations be permitted.

The present American Bureau of Graves Registration will be taken over soon by Colonel Harry F. Rethers, recently named mortuary officer for Europe, who is now in London. He will replace Colonel Kremer, who is returning to the United States early in December.

ANNOUNCES FINANCE GROUP.

R. S. Hawes Names Bankers to Take Up European Problem.

Richard S. Hawes, President of the American Bankers' Association, yesterday gave out the list of bankers, grouped according to Federal Reserve Districts, who have been chosen to represent the association on the National Committee of European Finance, which was appointed as a result of the recent International Trade Conference at Atlantic City. At the Atlantic City conference a special committee on credit and finance was appointed and that body determined on the formation of a larger committee to be representative of both finance and industry. Mr. Hawes, in a statement issued last night, said that the resistance to disease was lowest and the mortality rates were highest among the organizations in which hookworm disease was most prevalent."

Part of the document is devoted to a discussion of the bad effect of Oerum's ease on the birth rate in infected areas, and, turning to a discussion of the prevalence of the infection, says:

"An idea of the extensive prevalence of the disease within the infected zone may be gained from the following statements: In sixteen foreign countries measures for the relief and control of the disease were terminated during 1918 in 124 rural areas having an average population of 2 097. In three-fourths of these areas, more than sixty of every hundred persons examined were found to be infected. In [illegible] as the infection rate was between 90 and 100 per cent.; in nineteen between 80 and 90 per cent.; in twenty-four between 70 and 80 per cent., and in twenty-nine between 60 and 70 per cent.

"In only one area—the canton of San Domingo, in Costa Rica—was a rate lower than 20 per cent. recorded. Here only 0.2 per cent. of the inhabitants were found to be infected. This low infection rate is ascribed by the director to the fact that all of the people are well-to-do and [illegible] some im[illegible] adequate medical service at hand.

"The sanitary authorities believe that more than 30 000 000 of the 45,000,000 inhabitants of Bengal proper are infected and are undertaking a systematic attack."

As evidence that a reduction of morbidity follows hookworm campaigns the report cites that following sanitation and treatment only [illegible] admitted to the hospital of an orphanage in Trinidad, though there had been a monthly average of forty admissions for four years.

In areas of British Guiana, where operations against the disease were in progress during 1914 and 1915, the number of patients admitted to a hospital in the following year was 31.5 per cent. lower than in 1914, while in a rural district where there had been no campaign the decrease in cases was only 6.5 per cent. On seven estates in [illegible] co was a 44 per cent. decrease in sickness calls during four months of 1917, following treatment of the laborers, compared with the same months of 1916.

LANSING REASSURES JEWS.

Their Situation Abroad Improved, Says Message to Col. Cutler.

The Committee on Protest Against the Massacre of Jews in the Ukrain and other lands, of which Morris Rothenberg is Chairman, yesterday made public the following telegram from Secretary Lansing to Colonel Harry Cutler, Chairman of the Jewish Welfare Board:

"Colonel Harry Cutler, New York City.

"Replying to your recent inquiry on the subject, you are informed that no information in the possession of the Department of State indicates that, while there is much lawlessness among certain regions in Southwestern Russia, arising from the civil war there in progress, and that Jews are massacred at times by irresponsible leaders, there is nevertheless a systematic effort on the part of responsible leaders to restrain their effort from excesses. It is believed that there has recently been a considerable improvement in the general situation. The situation of the Jews and others in the regions in question is receiving the careful and systematic attention of this Government, and every possible means will be adopted to relieve their distress. An American Consul General, accompanied by an adequate staff, is being sent to Odessa, and it is hoped that through his efforts further information will be obtained concerning the general conditions and the situation of particular persons. The Department of State offers its assistance to any organization desiring to send the people in the regions in question relief furnished by their relatives in the United States. It is suggested that for the sake of efficiency anything of this nature which may be undertaken be concentrated so far as possible in the hands of a single organization. ROBERT LANSING,
"Secretary of State."

DAY'S GIFTS FOR HOSPITALS.

Drive Nears End with Only Three-fourths of Needed Million in Sight.

A $5,000 subscription from Percy Rockefeller and ten new members of the $1,000 Minimum Club were reported yesterday in the United Hospital Fund campaign.

The campaign, which is the combined effort of forty-six of New York's non-municipal hospitals to raise $1,000,000, will close next Wednesday with a luncheon at the Waldorf. Only three-fourths of this sum has been subscribed to date, and, unless the entire amount is obtained, it will be necessary for many of the individual hospitals to make campaigns for funds, as these forty-six institutions face a total deficit of nearly $3,000,000 because of the free cases handled during the last year.

CONDEMNS PARIS FASHIONS.

Cardinal Avette Also Objects to Immodest Dances.

PARIS, Nov. 28.—Cardinal Avette, Archbishop of Paris, today issued a pastoral letter protesting against the immodest toilettes of women and indecent dances, saying that Christian women and girls ought to abstain from such dressing and such amusements. The Cardinal affirms that these dances are exotic by origin and by name. Presumably he refers to certain American dances which have become the fashion in Paris in recent months.

HOOKWORM A BRAKE ON WORLD PROGRESS

Rockefeller Foundation Describes Subtle Economic, Social, and Moral Destruction.

MILLIONS FEEL ITS BLIGHT

One Hundred Per Cent. of Population in Some Regions Affected—Results of Treatment.

The terrible ravages of hookworm disease are described in the second chapter of the annual report of the Rockefeller Foundation, which at the same time tells of its prevalence in a zone which includes many of the southern United States.

"Hookworm infection works subtly through long periods of time," the report says. "Its cumulative effects are handed down from generation to generation. The disease destroys economic efficiency and social development, on the one hand, the while it undermines physical and mental health on the other. It is a menace and an obstacle to all that makes for civilization. As a handmaiden of poverty, a handicap of youth, an associate of crime and degeneracy, a destroyer of energy and vitality, it stands in the very forefront of diseases.

"Its effects express themselves in stunted physical and mental growth, blighted health and efficiency, retarded economic progress, and general degeneracy and decay. Labor is impaired, home standards are lowered, mental development is inhibited, and there is a tendency for the human machine to wear out before its time. Wherever treatment is systematically carried out and followed by rigorous control of further infection, marked improvement in health and general capacity results.

"Hookworm disease saps the strength by such imperceptible stages that usually the patient himself does not sense any change in his physical condition from day to day, until his powers of resistance eventually become so lowered that the germs of tuberculosis, of pneumonia, of typhoid fever, or of some other acute infectious disease find favorable lodgment and all too frequently a fatal outcome results. Statistics show that the mortality rate of hookworm is greatly exceeded by the rates of the more spectacular diseases. But by its steady sapping of the strength of millions of people, continued without interruption over many generations, hookworm disease causes human misery and suffering of a much more severe character than its low death rate would lead one to expect."

The report cites results of the 1918 influenza epidemic in Ceylon as evidence that hookworm infection is a predisposing factor in certain diseases, adding in a discussion of this point:

"Similarly, Major Kofoid of the United States Army Medical Service reports that the hospital statistics and sickness records of 24,[illegible] men at Camp Bowie during the period from October, 1917, to May, 1918, indicated that the resistance to disease was lowest and the mortality rates were highest among the organizations in which hookworm disease was most prevalent."

Part of the document is devoted to a discussion of the bad effect of Oerum's ease on the birth rate in infected areas, and, turning to a discussion of the prevalence of the infection, says:

"An idea of the extensive prevalence of the disease within the infected zone may be gained from the following statements: In sixteen foreign countries measures for the relief and control of the disease were terminated during 1918 in 124 rural areas having an average population of 2 097. GREET DEBUTANTES AT DANCES AND TEAS

Miss Beatrice L. Byrne Presented to 700 Guests at Ball at Ritz-Carlton.

MISS FLAGLER INTRODUCED

Misses Aline K. Tiedemann and Janet Croll Are Also Among the Day's Buds.

Mrs. James Byrne of 270 Park Avenue gave a large dance last evening at the Ritz-Carlton to introduce her third daughter, Miss Beatrice L. Byrne. The ballroom suite was taken for the entertainment, the seated supper being served in the adjoining restaurant. Mrs. Byrne and the debutante and Miss Shiela Byrne, both in white and silver, received near the ballroom entrance.

Several dinners preceded the dance. The Misses Byrne were guests of the dinner Mrs. A. Leo Everett gave at the Colony Club, and Mrs. Hamilton Fish Armstrong, formerly Miss Helen Byrne, gave a dinner at her residence, 55 West Fifty-fifth Street, her guests being young married people, who were Mr. and Mrs. Geraldyn Redmond, Mr. and Mrs. Harford W. H. Powel, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Osborn, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Osborn, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Morgan, and also the Misses Frances Webster, Eleanor Marquand, Gretchen Damrosch, Leslie Murray, Violet G. King, Priscilla Bartlett, Edith Morgan. Mrs. Edward Van Inger gave a dinner of forty covers for her daughter, Miss Katherine Van Inger, who came out last year, and a number of last year's buds as well as this season's debutantes.

Some 700 invitations were sent out for the ball, and among the young girls accepting were the Misses Juliet Barclay, Leila Burden, Renee Carhart, Mary Flagler, Olive Gawtry, Katharine Harding, Alice Davison, Helen Hitchcock, Sylvia Hillhouse, Nancy Jay, Constance Jennings, Eunice James, Betty Jackson, Leila Emery, Sophie Duer, Julia de Forest, Eleanor Cromwell, Mary Hurd, Margaret Kahn, Barbara Kissel, Margaret Krech, Pauline Lincoln, Mary Marcuund, Mary Lockwood, Helen Moran, Harriet McKim, Ruth Ogden, Elie Parsons, Emily Pierson, Harriett Pratt, Katharine Post, Adelaide Rhinelander, Mildred Rogers, Eleanor Whitehouse, Laura Page, Grace Crossman, Mary Sanford, Mabel Satterlee, Louise V. Schieffelin, Grace Talbot, Grace Vanderbilt, Flora Whitney.

Mrs. Harry Harkness Flagler introduced her daughter, Miss Mary Harkness Flagler, yesterday afternoon at tea, and Mrs. James S. Croll of Flushing gave a tea to introduce Miss Janet Croll, the reception being followed by a theatre party and a supper after it at the Ritz-Carlton.

Mrs. Henry P. Tiedemann of 830 Park Avenue introduced her débutante daughter, Miss Aline K. Tiedemann, at a tea dance at the St. Regis. It was followed by a party to the play and later a supper at the Ritz-Carlton. The tea dance was in the Marie Antoinette room of the St. Regis, gay with roses, and Mrs. Tiedemann and the débutante had receiving with them the Misses Katheryne T. Slayback, Helen Tiedemann, Florence M. Clendenin, and Dorothy Thompson. The dancing was in the marble ballroom.

Mrs. William Carlton Shanley of the San Remo entertained last evening for her débutante daughter, Miss Grace Bayley Shanley, at a supper and dance at the St. Regis. Miss Shanley came out last Wednesday at a tea at the San Remo.

ENGAGEMENTS.

Dr. Eugene J. Callahan and Mrs. Callahan of West New Brighton, S. I., announced yesterday at a tea held at their residence the engagement of their only daughter, Miss Laura Lyttleton Callahan to Ralph G. Coad, a son of the late John F. Coad, a banker of Omaha, Neb. Mr. Coad is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and of the Columbia Law School. He served during the war as a Captain in the Aviation Corps. Miss Callahan was a member of the Staten Island Motor Corps. The wedding is being planned for February and Mr. Coad will take his bride to live in Omaha.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick R. Chamberlain of 987 Central Avenue announced yesterday the engagement of their daughter, Miss Juliet Robeson Chamberlain, to Lieutenant Charles Lennon Miller, a son of William L. Miller of Altoona, Pa. Lieutenant Miller is a Pennsylvania State College graduate, class of 1917, and the same year enlisted in the United States Coast Artillery and was made aerial observer in the French Army. He received the Croix de Guerre and the medal of the Legion of Honor. He is now at the United States Base Hospital, Fox Hills, S. I., under treatment for wounds.

EXPLOSION KILLS ONE ON PRESIDENT GRANT

Another Assistant Engineer Injured When Acetylene Torch Blows Up on Troopship.

BOSTON, Nov. 28.—One man was killed and another severely injured late today when an acetylene torch exploded in the engine room of the steamer President Grant, bound from New York to Brest with United States troops aboard, according to a wireless message to the navy yard here tonight.

The dead man is L. G. Tellgrine, first assistant engineer, and the injured is W. T. O'Connor, Jr., third assistant engineer. The steamer suffered no material damage. It was 365 miles east of New York at the time.

Distress calls from the transatlantic liner first announced that there had been a boiler explosion aboard, but no details were given nor was any statement made as to injuries. The position of the President Grant was given as latitude 40.18 north, longitude 64.36 west. The steamer is bound from New York to Brest.

A later wireless message said the steamship would need no assistance.

A wireless message was received late yesterday afternoon at the Port of Embarkation, Hoboken, stating that there had been an explosion on board the U. S. transport President Grant, but it gave no details as to the nature of the accident. The message added that the explosion occurred in latitude 40.18 north and 64.36 west, and that no assistance was needed.

The President Grant left New York on Nov. 26 for Brest with 500 soldiers on their way to the occupied territory at Coblenz to fill up units. About one-third of the number were re-enlisted men who had previously seen service overseas. The troops were under the command of Major Queensbury of the regular army.

There were also on board a number of civilian passengers, including thirty-five of the delegates to the International Trade Conference, which was held at Atlantic City last month.

NEW SERVICE TO BERMUDA.

Arrangements Making for Semi-Weekly Sailings.

Increased service between New York and Bermuda and further development of that British colony for American and Canadian tourists are being planned by Furness, Withy & Co., a British shipping company at 34 Whitehall Street. The plans include semi-weekly passenger service, to be started next month.

Sir Frederick Lewis, Chairman of the company, who has been in America for several weeks arranging the new project, outlined the plans yesterday. Bermuda, he said, offered a field for tourists that has never been fully exploited.

Two steamships, the Fort Victoria of 14,000 tons, and the Fort Hamilton of 11,000 tons, are to be put on the Bermuda run. Furness, Withy & Co. have acquired the business of the New York-Bermuda passenger service of the Quebec Steamship Company. The ships are capable of from fifteen to sixteen knots, and the run will take from forty-five to forty-eight hours. Large refrigerating chambers are being installed in both boats for perishable freight.

A large hotel and an eighteen-hole golf course are also planned by the company. The golf course will be ready within a year, it was said yesterday, but it will be two years or longer before the hotel is built.

The first trip under the new schedule will start from this city on Dec. 7.

WEDS HIS MOTHER-IN-LAW.

Bride's Age on Certificate 44, on Marriage License 52.

The certificate of marriage of John B. Broer, a carpet cleaner of 416 Seventy-sixth Street, and Mrs. Kate Koester Schoerling, his mother-in-law, of the same address, was received yesterday at the City Clerk's office in Jersey City. The couple were married by the Rev. Orman M. West, pastor of the Hadding Methodist-Episcopal Church, at the parsonage of the church, 242 Montgomery Street, on Nov. 22. The witnesses were N. D. West and Mrs. Nancy E. West, both of Middlebury, N. Y., in the marriage certificate the ages of both the bride and bridegroom are given as 44. In the application for the marriage license the bride gave her age as 52.

The marriage certificate does not give the relationship of the couple, but in the application for the marriage license they stated they were mother-in-law and son-in-law. The marriage license was obtained on Nov. 19 and Clerk Mauchett said Broer told him that Mrs. Schoerling had been a mother to his two children and they wanted to be married and have the ceremony quietly performed.

Miss Smith Marries Capt. Frasier.

Announcement has just been received of the marriage of Miss Evelyn Byrd Smith, youngest daughter of Mrs. Oscar Emmet Smith and the late O. E. Smith, to Captain Harmon Hunt Frasier. The ceremony took place on Thanksgiving Day at the bride's home, Westwyn Plantation, Marion Junction, Ala. The bride, who is well known in this city, where she spent many months with her sister, Mrs. Lewis B. Woodruff of 14 East Sixty-eighth Street, is also a sister of Mrs. Walter Kobbe, 2d, of New York. Her mother gave her in marriage, and she was attended by Miss Alleen Mackenzie as maid of honor and by Mrs. Rutherford Houston Spessard as matron of honor. Stanhope Earle Frasier was his brother's best man. It was a small wedding, as the bride's family is in mourning. The bridegroom was a Captain in the artillery service during the war and saw service overseas.

Ballentyne-Feigenspan.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Lewis Bacon Ballantyne, a son of Mrs. Frances Bacon Ballantyne of South Orange, N. J., and Miss Eleanor Feigenspan of Newark, on Tuesday, Nov. 25, at the bride's home. Mr. Ballantyne was Commander of the Headquarters Troop of the 29th Division.

Mrs. Gedney Weds Brother-in-Law.

Mrs. Harlette Foster Gedney of Rye, N. Y., was married yesterday at her home to her brother-in-law, Charles Glover Gedney, by the Rev. James MacMillan. The bride's first husband, owner of The Rye Chronicle, died in October, 1918, of influenza, and his wife edited the paper for nearly a year.

In Honor of Miss Susan Brandeis.

An entertainment will be held tonight in honor of Miss Susan Brandeis, daughter of Justice Louis D. Brandeis, at the University Settlement, by Zion-ist District No. 2, Justice Brandeis being Honorary President of the Zionist organization.

EAGER TO PURCHASE THE HAPSBURG ART

Syndicate Formed Which Is Ready to Offer Austria $50,000,000.

ALLIES MAY HAVE CLAIM

Wonderful Tapestry, Antiques, and Jewels from the Palaces of Austrian Emperors.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 28.—A. Phillips of this city, just home from Vienna, is acting for a syndicate which has prepared to buy the wonderful tapestry, precious metalwork, and other objects of art which were collected in the palaces of the late Austrian Emperors. These collections may well be valued at more than £10,000,000. American and French syndicates are also in the negotiations.

"Many of the antiques and jewels are without equal," said Mr. Phillips, in an interview. "The point for consideration is this—whether if the British syndicate completes the purchase Great Britain and the Allies will consider these possessions of the Hapsburg Emperors inside or outside of the scope of the claims made upon Austria by the Peace Treaty. When the Emperor fled his personal possessions were confiscated. The contents of the palaces are, of course, in a way the possessions of Austria, and as such the Allies may consider they have some claims upon them as compensation or reparation. On the other hand the present Austrian Government is prepared to earmark the money received for this transaction for feeding the starving people of Austria. We are anxious to buy these objects of art if the British Government will assure us the deal will be recognised.

"There are tapestries georgeous beyond description, and pictures and silverware by the hundredweight."

ERZBERGER IN WRANGLE IN GERMAN ASSEMBLY

He Denounces Prussianism in Violent Exchanges with Conservatives.

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—There were violent scenes and wordy warfare in the National Assembly yesterday between Matthias Erzberger, Vice Premier and Minister of Finance, and the parties of the Right.

In a debate on taxation Assemblyman Bueringer complained of the centralization tendency of the bill under discussion. Herr Erzberger said, amid an uproar:

"We combat all separation movements in the empire. Prussia for centuries pursued a policy of violence."

After more noise Herr Erzberger said: "You ought to be in a lunatic asylum. We combat all measures of violence. If you on the right do not recognize this then this is the height of hypocrisy."

The Rightists cried: "You are the greatest hypocrite." Amid renewed commotion Herr Erzberger declared: "You learned nothing and forgot nothing. The old Prussian State ruled with brutality and violence."

GIVE 'APPLE PIE PANTOMIME'

Young Girls in Dances Suggestive of the Season at Harvest Moon.

Two events of social interest were held last night, including the Harvest Home dance, held at the Waldorf-Astoria for the benefit of the American Committee for Devastated France, and the Officers' reception and dance given by the Pershing Club, at the Hotel Plaza.

Special dances by the younger set, including some of the season's debutantes, were well received by the large assembly at the Harvest Home dance. The new film, "The Heritage of France," was shown, and Mlle. Zelina de Maclot sang a group of songs. Mrs. Edward Ringwood Hewitt was Chairman of the dance.

The dances were suggestive of the season, and were called "An Apple Pie Pantomime." Miss Constance Jennings appeare das the Scarecrow, and Miss Kitty Kimball and her sister, Miss Dolly Kimball, appeared in a Nut and Pippin dance. In the Crow dance were the Misses Victorine Kellogg, Betty Chisolm, Dorothy Clapp, Grace Hendrick, Emily Burchell and Ruth Wade.

The Misses Margaret Burton, Katharine Sharpe, Peggy Wallace, and Edith Simmons were in the Beet dance, and the Misses Beatrice and Margaret Starr, Katharine Post, and Marion Hodenpyl in the Carrot dance, and the Misses Edith McCoon and Mary Appleton in the Mushroom dance.

The Misses Katharine Porter, Hope Lincoln, Harriet Pratt, Eleanor Landon, Dorothy Seymour, Amy Sparks, Caroline Mitchell, Betsy Flagg, Helen La Fetra, Elise Hughes, Isabel McPherson, and Marion Carpenter took part in a dance as asparagus, peas, and lettuce, while the Misses Julia Quaintance, Katharine Hutchins, and Maria Cook appeared in the Corn dance. All the girls appeared later in a French folk dance.

Can't Understand Einstein.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The London Times in an editorial this morning on an explanation by Dr. Albert Einstein of his theory of relativity confesses that it cannot follow the details and implications of the new theory with complete certainty, and points out that even Einstein himself finds no little difficulty in making their meaning clear.

"So far as we can follow it," says The Times, "the chief result appears to be that gravitation, hitherto regarded as an absolute proposition, becomes relative. The simple majesty of the square of the distance has ceased to retain its isolated splendor as an expression of conformity between abstract thought and observation of the fabric of the universe."

Gov. Smith's Mother Much Better.

Governor Alfred E. Smith, who has been in almost constant attendance at the bedside of his mother, seriously ill for nearly three weeks at 9 Middagh Street, Brooklyn, said yesterday that Mrs. Smith was much better.

"She had four hours' sleep Thursday night, and, although she is not yet out of danger, we hope for her recovery soon." The family physician, Dr. John H. Reb, also said that his patient was showing progress.

Maude Powell Better.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 28.—Maude Powell, the violinist, who was stricken during a performance here last night, was better this morning, although not out of danger, according to attending physicians at Barnes Hospital.

Dr. G. Canby Robinson, in a bulletin issued later in the day, added:

"Mme. Powell is distinctly better than she was during the night. The attack that seized her was brought about by an acute gastric condition. A surgical operation is not contemplated."

WEST POINT AND ANNAPOLIS GRIDIRON RIVALS TO CLASH AT POLO GROUNDS TODAY

ARMY MEETS NAVY IN BATTLE TODAY

Elevens at Top Form for Clash at Polo Grounds, Which Closes Gridiron Season.

CLOSE CONTEST EXPECTED

Wagers on Outcome Made at Even Money—Service Men Gather for Spectacle from Far and Near.

The curtain will be rung down on the football season of 1919 when the Army and the Navy meet at the Polo Grounds this afternoon at 2 o'clock. This annual clash of Uncle Sam's two great service schools, interrupted during the last two years by America's participation in the war, is much more than a mere football game. It is a spectacle of national significance, unique in the annals of sport. For this event the flower of America's military and naval forces assemble each year, taking intense interest in the struggle on the gridiron.

The blaze of color that comes with any great gathering of uniforms flashes forth more emphatically today than on any other purely peaceful occasion. The cadets of both academies will be out in full force, marching to the field behind their bands, and later banked on opposite side of the field in solid masses of gray and blue. There will be the traditional mascots on the sidelines, the Army mule and the Navy goat.

As for the players themselves, this is the day they have been waiting for all season, the day beside which nothing else counts. Ever since early October they have been taking part in preliminary contests on their own fields at West Point and Annapolis, never touching foot to a foreign gridiron, and between games getting what practice they could outside the hours demanded by regulations. Hemmed in by far more restrictions than the average college teams, they nevertheless have developed a brand of football that can compete on even terms with the best that America can offer. The Army-Navy game may be considered primarily a spectacle, but it is sure to be a splendid exhibition of the most popular of college sports as well.

Trepidation was caused last night in many thousands of bosoms by the dire prophecy of the Weather Bureau that rain would probably be present at the game in wholly unnecessary quantities. The athletes themselves are not so worried over the prediction as are the eager partisans who will gather and who dislike the idea of anything so drab and depressing as rain interfering with such a spectacle as this annual encounter of the two great service school elevens.

First Battle Waged in 1890.

It was back in 1890 that the Service Schools began their football arguments, and there have been few breaks in the series since then. Originally it was planned to stage the games alternately at West Point and Annapolis, but this was found impractical because of the long trip which it imposed upon the visiting contenders. It is said that for those early games the uniforms of the Army players were made by the hands of the officers' wives. The days of elaborate defense armor had not yet arrived.

In the search for a neutral spot, approximately half way between the rival schools, Philadelphia was hit upon, and for many years Franklin Field was the scene of the battle. In 1900 Princeton was tried as a site, because of its alleged geographical superiority, but the little college town found itself unable to handle the huge crowds of spectators, and was glad to return the honor to Philadelphia. Eventually, however, as the spectacular details grew beyond all imagined proportions, the scene shifted once more, and this time necessarily to New York, where it has remained ever since.

Of the twenty-one games played so far the Army has won eleven, the Navy nine, and one, in 1905, was a tie. In total points scored the Army leads by 251 to 146. The Navy's last victory was in 1912, the West Pointers winning for four successive years before the war, largely through the individual efforts of the famous Elmer Oliphant.

On the records of the current season the Army team would again seem to be the stronger, although there has been no opportunity to make a direct comparison by scores. West Point's only defeats have been at the hands of Syracuse, one of the leading Eastern elevens, and Notre Dame, a worthy representative of the West. Among her victories was one over Boston College, the team that beat Yale.

Navy's Huge Total of Points.

The Navy, on the other hand, lost to Georgetown, but otherwise ran up the record scoring total for the season against a rather weak list of opponents. The huge score of 121 to 0 against Colby marked the highest number of points scored by any team in a single game this year. Coach Dobie has the reputation of developing high-scoring teams, and it remains to be seen whether the West Point cadets can diagnose the variety and cleverness of his plays. If the breaks favor the midshipmen it is quite possible that they may spring something truly spectacular. In any case, according to the season's general record, the Navy should be favored to win, if only because its eleven might seem to have the worst of it on paper. Whatever happens, so far as the football is concerned, this Army-Navy game is sure to be a wonderful fight, for not one of those cadets has a moment's thought of sparing himself in the slightest degree. In the grandstands today, moreover, there will be thousands who, through active service in the army or navy, have definitely allied themselves with one side or the other, so that more real partisanship may be expected than ever before.

Both of the contending teams took up their headquarters in New York yesterday, the Army at the Astor Hotel, the Navy at the Commodore. The latter held morning practice at the Polo Grounds, running through signals, kicking, catching, and passing. The midshipmen found the gridiron in good condition, although there were slippery spots from recent rains, which will probably be considerably worse today as the result of last night's bad weather. The Army took its turn at practice in the afternoon, and both teams were pronounced fit for the fray.

Uniforms Everywhere.

With both of the contending teams in town, New York filled up rapidly yesterday with uniformed representatives of both branches of the service, and with football fans in general. At the hotels, it was said that all records were being broken for the sudden rush of a visiting population.

Cabinet members, Senators, Representatives, diplomats, and high-ranking officers of both services began to arrive in the city late yesterday afternoon, and by the theatre hour the hotel lobbies were almost as common as the eagles Broadway, in the vicinity of the Hotel Astor, the single and double silver stars of brigade and division commanders were almost as common as in eagle and leaves of colonels and majors, while the Navy people congregated at the Hotel Commodore, where the headquarters for the sailor eleven were opened Thursday.

Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels was one of the first to arrive in the city, his party registering at the Commodore before dinner. Coach Dobie's squad of blue-clad jack tars has no more enthusiastic a supporter than Secretary Daniels, who will see the game this afternoon from lower field stands on the Navy side. His party will occupy boxes 10B 11A, and 11B, and will include Mrs. Daniels, Frank Danie a, and his aid Lieut. Commander C. B. Mayo. Rear Admiral Edward Simpson and wife arrived last night from Baltimore, and Rear Admiral Osterhaus, who will be the guest today of W. A. Foster of Brooklyn, in the latter's box, also joined the colony of Navy partisans.

Mrs. Wilson Is Expected.

Adjoining boxes in Sections 9 and 10 have been reserved for the President's use, and in his absence it is probable that Mrs. Wilson, the President's daughters, and Secretary Joseph A. Tumulty and family will occupy the reservations. Another set of Presidential boxes has been reserved on the Army side of the field.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, will occupy Box 7A, and adjoining his box will be that of Rear Admiral A. H. Scales, Superintendent of Annapolis, who has Boxes 8A, 8B, and 7B. Captain W. C. Cluverius, U. S. N., commandant of midshipmen, will have his party in Boxes 6A and 6B. Vice Admiral Hilary P. Jones will have Box 5B and Vice Admiral Henry B. Wilson, Commander in Chief of the Atlantic Fleet, will be in 12A. The commandant of the Naval District of New York, Rear Admiral Glennon, will have Box 3A. Directors of the New York Yacht Club will be in Box 13, and a party of Brazilian naval officers have been assigned 15A.

Last night it was announced at the West Point headquarters that practically all of the boxes had been taken. Reservations have been made for the President's party and for the Cabinet members. Secretary of Commerce William C. Redfield will have Box 12 in Section C of the upper stand and Attorney General Palmer will be close by in No. 3. Secretary of Interior Franklin Knight Lane will have 14 and Bernard Baruch will have 15. The next in line will be for the use of Medlet Crowell, Assistant Secretary of War.

General J. J. Pershing and party will be located in Box 17, upper stand, and adjoining him in Numbers 18, 19, and 20 will be General Peyton C. March Chief of Staff. Secretary of War Baker and party will arrive this morning and will occupy three boxes, 21, 22, and 23. Major Gen. Leonard Wood and Lieut. Gen. Bullard will watch the gridiron battle from Boxes 27 and 28.

Cadets and Middies in Force.

One thousand midshipmen are due this morning from Annapolis. They will be moved up the North River to 157th Street on barges, and will then march in formation to the Polo Grounds, headed by their band. A dinner dance in honor of the Navy is scheduled at the Commodore this evening.

The West Point cadets will arrive at High Bridge Station, on the New York Central, shortly before game time, and will also march directly to the grounds. After the game they will return immediately to the military academy.

Special benches have been built at the Polo Grounds for forty wounded soldiers and sailors. Permission was obtained for the privilege from both West Point and Annapolis football coaches, and arrangements were made by John B. Foster, Secretary of the New York Baseball Club, to have the War Camp Community Service bring the crippled men in from the hospitals. This organization will bring the men into New York in buses, escort them to the game and provide a dinner after the afternoon's fray.

What betting was going on yesterday was mostly at even money. With Dobie still insisting that West Point ought to win, Navy men were inclined to ask for odds, but usually the bettors came to a fifty-fifty agreement before any money was actually put up. At the army headquarters the statement was officially made last night that "it would be ill-advised to lay odds against the Navy team, since they have for two years enjoyed the coaching of Gilmour Dobie, whereas the Army has had only one season of coaching."

A unique bet has been made between the cadets and the midshipmen on the outcome of the game. The cadets have proposed, and the midshipmen have accepted, that the blanket that graces the back of the mule, the Army's mascot, which is done up in gorgeous black and gold colors, shall be wagered against the blue and gold affair which the Navy goat wears today as he trots up and down the sidelines.

In general, however, New York cares little today about scores, bets, past or future performances. It hopes for moderately favorable weather, and beyond that it is content to know that the Army and Navy are in town once more. Forty-five thousand people will crowd into the Polo Grounds this afternoon, and much more than that many more will wish they were present when the big spectacle begins.

QUIET SENDOFF FOR CADETS.

West Point Considers Its Team Has an Even Chance.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 28.—It was a rather quiet demonstration which marked the departure of the Army football squad for New York this morning, where the Army eleven will face the Navy at the Polo Grounds tomorrow afternoon. The corps of cadets was not excused from regular duties or recitations to see the team off, but after an early breakfast the cadets gathered and sang the famous "Good Night, Navy" farewell and added a "five straight" yell for good measure.

Admitting that the chances of winning are no better than even at best, army folks are satisfied that the soldiers will give a good account of themselves. Tomorrow morning three special trains over the New York Central will carry the cadets, band and field music, officers and civilian residents of the post and vicinity to the metropolis.

MIDSHIPMEN READY FOR ARMY CONTEST

Regiment Will Arrive Here Early This Afternoon and March to Polo Grounds.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 28.—Anticipation of the big football game in New York tomorrow has taken the place of every other thought at the Naval Academy and in Annapolis. The notes of revielle will sound at half-past 3 tomorrow morning, and the first train will be on its way to New York at 5, the other three trains following at ten-minute intervals.

Commander G. H. Bowdey will have command of the regiment, and the battalions will be under the commands of Lieut. Commanders Joseph R. Morrison, Rufus King, W. S. Davidson, and W. D. Killiduff.

All Annapolis is confident the team will give a good account of itself, and the midshipmen are ready to give the players all the moral and vocal support they can.

The midshipmen will go from Jersey City to 157th Street by ferry, luncheon being served on board. From there they will march to the Polo Grounds, where Paul E. Pihl, midshipman commander, will take charge. After the game there will be liberty until half-past 9 Sunday morning, when the regiment will assemble in front of the Pennsylvania Station.

The first train will pull out at 10 o'clock. The special carrying the football party will be the last to leave, and the midshipmen will be at the King George Street gate of the Academy to receive them when they arrive.

The midshipmen will stop at the Hotel Commodore and the Hotel McAlpin, the latter entertaining only those belonging to the 15th, 16th and 18th Companies.

The Academy Band will stop at the Hotel Martinique. The regulations of the Academy will govern the midshipmen during the trip. The facts refute the belief that the navy team is young and green. Woodruff and Clark are the youngest, their ages being 19; Murray, Cruse, and Walters are 20; Denfield, Larson, King, and Clark, 21, and Captain Ewin and Willke, 22. It is the second or third year on the squad for every regular member of the team, and some of them had previous football experience.

CATHOLIC COLLEGES MEET.

Boston and Georgetown Are Primed for Today's Gridiron Battle.

When Boston College meets Georgetown at Braves Field, Boston, this afternoon, in the only prominent Eastern football game of the day outside that between the Army and Navy, the prize for victory will be the Catholic collegiate championship of the East. Both teams have been putting the finishing touches to their season's work behind closed gates this week, the Boston eleven practicing on Braves Field.

Both teams have made impressive records for the season, but their results have been obtained by different methods. Georgetown has clung largely to old-style football. The Washingtonians have won their victories over Southern and Western teams by good-sized scores, for the most part. Their most conspicuous performances were their defeat of the Navy, 6 to 0, and of Washington and Lee, 27 to 0. They lost but two games—to Detroit by the narrow margin of 13 to 16, and by 0 to 27 to Georgia Tech, which incidentally was beaten by W. and L. In Maloney, quarter back, Flaven, Maley and Leighty, backs, Georgetown has a backfield of marked ability in line-plunging.

Boston College, on the other hand, is lighter and depends upon a more open attack. This is the style of play that caught Yale napping, and that defeated Holy Cross by a score of 9 to 7. Boston College's class is shown, even in its defeats, by Harvard, 9 to 0; Penn State, 13 to 0, and by Rutgers, 13 to 7. Fitzpatrick and Urban have had notable success with the forward pass, and Fitzpatrick's punting ability is a main reliance of the team. The followers of the Old Gold and Maroon expect a victory in spite of the impressive record of their opponents.

Of Boston's injured men Sheehan, tackle, and McElaney and Scanlan, backs, are expected to get into today's game. Morrisey, veteran guard, who has been out of the play most of the season through injuries, will also probably play part of the game. Ted Madden, the diminutive back, is likely to appear part of the time, at least, in the half back position opposite Captain Fitzpatrick. Phil Corrigan will direct the play of the eleven.

CYCLISTS TO RACE TONIGHT.

Six-Day Race Entrants Will Compete in Sprints.

The indoor sprint and motor-paced bicycle championship races will take place tonight at Madison Square Garden as a prelude to the annual six-day race, which starts at midnight to-morrow. Ray Eaton, 1919 sprint champion, will meet Alfred Goullet and Arthur Spencer in the feature attraction tonight, a $1,000 match race in mile heats, the winner of two heats to carry off the honors. Clarence Carman, motor-paced champion, will defend his title against George Chapman, Oscar Egg, and Maurice Brocco. This race will be run in five-mile heats in pairs.

The International Derby will bring together all the foreign and American riders, the first two men in each heat going into the semi-finals and the three winners of the semi-finals racing in the grand final for the $500 prize. All the star riders in the six-day race will meet in a ten-mile open event, the leader of each lap winning $1 and the leader of each mile $5, while the first six to finish will divide $500.

The big wooden saucer will be completed today for the riders to work out on. The fourteen foreigners entered in the race moved in from Sheepshead Bay yesterday with their trainers, and all are in tip-top condition for the long grind. They are confident of taking across the ocean the first money of the $30,000 to be awarded, having as many stars in the contest as the American riders. Alfred Goullet and Eddie Madden, Harry Kaiser and Ray Eaton, and Reggie McNamara and Jake Magin appear to be the favorite teams among the American entries, while Marcel Dupuy and Oscar Egg, Alphonse Spiessens and Marcel Buysse and Maurice Brocco and Francesco Verri are the favorite combinations of the European riders.

The teams entered, with their affiliations, are as follows:

Goullet and Madden, American team; Dupuy and Egg, French and Swiss team; Magin and McNamara, Australian-American team; Eaton and Kaiser, Little Old New York team; Buysse and Spiessens, Belgian team; Brocco and Verri, Italian team; Charlon and Tiberghien, French and Belgian team; Hill and Drobach, Boston team; Hanley and Lawrence, California team; A. Spencer and Chapman, Canadian-American team; Carman and Lang, Long Island team; Weber and Keller, Newark team; Bello and Thomas, Italian-American team; Arets and Deyl, French team; Coburn and Kopsky, New Jersey team.

Boxing at New York A. C.

Mike McTigue, local middleweight boxer, and Johnny Howard of Bayonne, N. J., will clash in a six-round bout this evening at the New York A. C. This contest will be one of a series arranged by the Mercury Foot officials for members of the organization. Under the terms of the match both boxers have agreed to weigh in at 158 pounds before the bout. Two other six-round matches and a series of four-round bouts will complete the card of professional boxing. In the preliminaries a number of boxers who formerly competed as amateurs, but who have turned professional, will perform against worthy rivals.

COLUMBIA OUTLOOK FOR 1920 FOOTBALL

Nine Regulars of This Year's Eleven May Be Available—To Elect Captain Monday.

The Columbia student body, apparently still stunned by the Blue and White's sensational stand against Brown on Thanksgiving Day, held only a very quiet celebration yesterday, most of the students scattering to their homes for the holidays. When classes are resumed on Monday the 1919 football season will be brought to an end with the usual ceremonies, which will include probably a student mass meeting, an informal parade and the official disbanding of the eleven. The latter will meet on Monday afternoon to have a photograph taken and will elect a Captain for next year at that time. Jack Kleninger, centre, and Ralph Forsyth, left guard, are the two candidates most prominently mentioned.

Fred Dawson, whose resignation as coach of football, baseball and basket ball came as a great surprise to Morningside Heights, will leave for the West on Tuesday. His resignation will be accepted by the University Committee on Athletics at a meeting on Tuesday, and his successor at basket ball will be selected at that time. For the present several Blue and White stars, among them "Kid" Benson, Dan Meenan, Ed. Burghard and Charlie Lee, will lend a hand at coaching the five. There is no clue to the identity of the new coach, although Harry Fisher, who coached Columbia teams for a long stretch of years, and Carl Merner, freshman basket ball coach, are among those mentioned.

Andy Coakley is almost certain to succeed Dawson at baseball. Coakley had already been appointed assistant coach of the nine and, because of his popularity at Columbia and his success as a baseball mentor, he seems the logical choice for the position of head coach.

Rumors that Columbia would protest Brown's sole touchdown and would produce as evidence a photograph proving that M. Sweeney was beyond the 10-yard zone when he caught the forward pass behind the goal line were dispelled yesterday by L. C. Danielson, Graduate Manager of Athletics at Columbia. He said that such a photograph did not exist and if it did the Blue and White would not use it in a protest. The final score apparently is satisfactory to everybody on Morningside.

Only two players on this year's Varsity eleven are certain to leave the university next Spring. They are Sam Whinstely, right end, and Tommy Farrell, halfback. Captain Kennedy, although technically a member of the senior class, lost a year in war service and will not receive a degree in June. Charlie Shaw will enter the Engineering School and may be eligible under the new rules that will govern football with the lifting of the five-year ban next season.

The line will be intact and will be reinforced by the addition of Fargo, Varsity centre last year, who failed in his studies this year. The freshman eleven will contribute at least four promising youngsters, including Mulligan, the best tackle that has reported at South Field in many years. Eddie Quigley and Thornton, both now on the disabled list, will be back at college, as will Applebaum, Moszezinski, Eccles and a quartet of backs from the present freshman team.

PENN MEN JOIN PRO RANKS.

Faculty Opposes New Activities of Wray, Little, Miller, and Derr.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28.—Four University of Pennsylvania football players will play with an Ohio professional football team tomorrow. They are Lud Wray, centre; Lou Little, right tackle; "Heine" Miller, right end; and Ben Derr, half back. The men have already signed contracts and will play in the same positions as on the University of Pennsylvania eleven. Robey Light, full back, also received an offer, but didn't accept, because of his studies.

The faculty at Pennsylvania is said to be opposed to the athletes joining the professional ranks, but as the Red and Blue season is over, the football committee has no authority to prevent the men from taking such a step.

The only way in which the committee can take action against the players is to withhold their degrees when they are graduated in February on the ground that their conduct has been detrimental to the best interests of the university.

GOULD VANQUISHES FAIRS.

Court Tennis Champion Concludes Practice for Kinsella Match.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28.—Jay Gould, the world's court tennis champion, and Walter Kinsella, the professional champion, played their last practice matches at the Racquet Club today, preliminary to the series for the open championship of the country, which will begin at the Racquet Club next Tuesday.

Gould met Punch, Fairs of England and won from the professional in three straight sets, 6—3 and 6—4. Gould played brilliantly throughout and Fairs never had a chance, although he managed to get one more game in each set as they progressed.

Kinsella, allowing Jock Soutar 15, defeated the world's racquet champion two sets out of three. Soutar, whose game is improving steadily, captured the first set, 6—4, but lost, the next two, 6—4, 6—5.

The two experts will do no more practicing until the match and both have prepared so well that they show not the slightest indication of having gone stale.

The greatest interest is taken in the outcome of the match, which will be played next Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. Philadelphians, almost to a man, are wagering that Gould will win the championship, while the New York and Boston tennis enthusiasts are backing Kinsella. Every seat for the series has been sold.

SHANNON TO PLAY GATES.

Will Meet in Final Round Today of Pinehurst Golf Tourney.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 28.—R. C. Shannon, 2d, of Brockport, winner of the recent Carolina tournament, and Franklin Gates of the Moore County Club will meet in the final of the Autumn golf tournament here tomorrow.

Shannon played against Dr. J. S. Brown of Montclair in today's semi-final round and won by 2 and 1. Gates, who was opposed by Howard G. Phillips, another Moore County Club golfer, had a hard uphill fight on his hands. He was 4 down at the eighth, but won seven of the remaining nine holes of the match, the contest ending at the seventeenth with Gates 3 up.

Dr. C. H. Gardner, the medalist, was defeated by T. S. Fuller of Ardsley, who will meet Donald Parson of Youngstown for the chief consolation trophy.

The summaries:

SEMI-FINAL ROUND—F. P. Gates, Moore County, defeated H. G. Phillips, Moore County, 3 and 2; R. C. Shannon 2d, Brockport, defeated Dr. J. S. Brown, Montclair, 2 and 1.

BEATEN EIGHT—T. S. Fuller, Ardsley, defeated Dr. C. H. Gardner, Rhode Island, 2 and 1; Donald Parson, Youngstown, won from F. S. Danforth, North Fork, by default.

To Manage Harvard Hockey Team.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 28.—William H. Claflin, Jr., of Boston, captain of the Harvard hockey team in 1915, was appointed manager of this year's seven today.

SAYS YALE MUST CHANGE.

Alumni Weekly Declares Team Played Out-of-Date Football.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 28.—The Yale Alumni Weekly has made a clean breast of its conviction that the Eli eleven the past season played out-of-date football. The Weekly said about as much after Yale's defeat by Boston College, but was hushed into silence by undergraduate communications to The Yale Daily News, which accused The Weekly of being unduly critical of Varsity teams. In its Thanksgiving issue, which proved a lament for the loss of the Princeton and Harvard games, The Weekly, in the following editorial, calls on the coaches for a change:

"The old, traditional hammer and tongs football, in which Yale's name was paramount on the gridiron for generations of Yale players, has gone by the board, not to return. Open play, represented by the forward pass, is the new order of things on the football field, and Yale must accept the change, however difficult it is for her mentors, who have been brought up on the old system. Yale has learned this lesson, we hope.

"The Yale team, up to the limit of its knowledge and preparation for emergencies, conducted itself on the finest of traditional athletic models. There was no falling off in its fighting spirit, nor in its undergraduate backing. The team deserved a better record than its opponents permitted it to make. We offer our congratulations to both Princeton and Harvard, and propose a better season next year for Yale."

EAST AURORA VS. FLUSHING.

High School Eleven from Middle West to Make Eastern Trip.

Flushing High School's football eleven, regarded as the strongest scholastic team in the metropolitan district, will clash with the East Aurora High School of Illinois team on the Long Islanders' gridiron on Dec. 6. The announcement of this important intersectional game was made yesterday by Dr. John Haley Clark, Principal of Flushing H. S.

The East Aurora eleven challenged Flushing as the leading team in the vicinity of New York, and with the challenge, sent a request that a guarantee be given that the teams would clash in a return game at East Aurora next year. Dr. Clark accepted the challenge, but was unable to guarantee that his schoolboys would return the compliment next year. The Flushing schedule closed with the game against Central H. S. of Binghamton, N. Y. Thanksgiving Day, but because St. Paul's School canceled its scheduled game against the Long Islanders Dr. Clark permitted the arrangement of the coming clash, inasmuch as the Flushing team will be participating in its eighth game, the number provided for in the original schedule.

242 YARDS FOR RODGERS.

More Ground Gained by W. Va. Captain Than by Whole W. & J. Team.

Special to The New York Times.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 28.—West Virginia's clean-cut victory over Washington and Jefferson here yesterday stamped the Mountaineers easily as one of the leading teams of the year, and Captain Rodgers's goal from touchdown brought his total points up to 144, far in the lead of his nearest competitor. King is next on the Mountaineer team with 30 points.

Rodgers did yesterday what he had done in every important engagement this year—he gained as much ground individually as the whole opposing team gained. Rodgers rushed the ball sixty-two yards, returned punts sixty-four yards and threw passes for 116, a total of 242 yards, while the whole W. and J. team gained only 193 yards by rushing, passing and returning kicks.

The great work of Harrick and Bailey in the line also was the subject of much interest here today.

HAVERFORD TROUNCES YALE

Quaker Soccer Eleven Wins, 2 to 0, by Good Work In Second Half.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 28.—Outplaying Yale completely in the second half, the Haverford College soccer eleven today defeated Yale 2 to 0. Poor shooting cost the visitors several chances to score during the first half, although they forced the play.

In opening the second half, Haverford rushed the ball to the Yale goal where in a scrimmage directly in front of the netting Hallett pushed it across for the opening score. Fifteen minutes later McKinley drove a difficult side shot for the second and final score. Captain Osler's goal play for Haverford was the feature of the game. For Yale Moffatt and Coburn played cleverly. The lineup:

HAVERFORD (2).		YALE (0).

FREAK SHOT ENDS GAME.

Downs Defeats Lewis at Snooker on a Peculiar Play.

Dame Fortune presented Willie Downs with a game at Doyle's Academy last night in the snooker pool tournament for the championship of the American Amateur Billiard Association. Nat Lewis was the victim and the final score was 123 to 116. It was one of the most peculiar breaks that has ever happened in a snooker tourney. In the third frame Downs was leading by a score of 120 to 90. Lewis took his turn at the table and made eight points. He then played safe. Downs failed to count and Lewis made a run of 18, his best effort of the evening.

From a difficult position Lewis played the black ball and pocketed it. The black ball counts seven, making his total 123. However, it was such an extremely hard shot that Lewis played it so that if he missed he would leave Downs safe. His cue ball had enough speed to roll the length of the table immediately in its path was the brown ball. The cue ball kissed off this and "died" had enough force left to trickle into a pocket, causing Lewis to not only lose the seven points he had made by pocketing the black ball, but to forfeit seven points to Downs, which gave the latter two more points than he needed to win the game.

In the three-cushion tournament, Charley Adair virtually eliminated George La Rue by defeating the latter, 25 to 19. La Rue started the tournament like the proverbial "house afire" and won his first three games, but he lost his next two.

STEINBUGLER IS WINNER.

Defeats Servatius in Class C Balkline Billiard Tournament.

Playing consistent billiards, Robert Steinbugler defeated Louis Servatius at the National Recreation Academy in Brooklyn last night by a score of 150 to 73. It was a game in the Class C 18.2 balkline tournament for the metropolitan championship of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players. Steinbugler was never in danger. He jumped into the lead early and held it throughout. A remarkable thing about the playing of the winner was the fact that he made a better average last night than when he made his run of 52 points recently, although his best effort against Servatius netted him only 17 buttons. This attests to the consistency of his playing in his most recent effort. He averaged 5 5-29.

Servatius was never in the running. He could do nothing with the ivories, and his best run was a cluster of 12. He averaged 2 17-23. On the other hand, Steinbugler was steady. There were few innings when he failed to count.

GREATEST U. S. TEAM TO ENTER OLYMPICS

Justice Weeks Divulges America's Plans—Gustavus T. Kirby Elected President.

The greatest collection of athletes who ever were the United States emblem in Olympic competition will carry the colors of Uncle Sam on their stout breasts in the Seventh Olympiad at Antwerp, Belgium, next year. This was declared last night by Justice Bartow S. Weeks, a member of the Executive Committee of the American Olympic Committee, when the latter body gathered at the New York A. C. to take the first official step towards preparing Uncle Sam's hordes of invaders for the revival of the world's greatest athletic classic.

Justice Weeks made his declaration as part of his speech at the dinner which preceded the Executive Committee meeting. Colonel Robert M. Thompson, retiring President of the American Olympic Committee, following the opening speech of Lieut. Col. Leon Osterrieth of Belgium, members of the International Executive Committee, had requested that Justice Weeks give Colonel Osterrieth some idea of the details which the American committee had under consideration.

"I don't really know if I should tell Belgium the secret of our country's athletic preparations," replied Justice Weeks, with the trace of a smile playing about his lips, "but I will say we are going to send over the strongest team that has ever represented the United States and I'm sure the team will return victorious."

The remarks, opening Justice Weeks's address to the assembled delegates, were followed by a laugh by the officials, but there was a world of significance in his prophecy. It showed, perhaps better than anything else that has yet been said or done about the forthcoming Olympic Games revival, just the frame of mind of the athletic leaders on this side of the water. Justice Weeks himself smiled as he replied to Colonel Thompson, but, at the same time he knew he was reflecting the attitude of the great American athletic army.

Details to Be Arranged Later.

The exact size of the team or any details of its make-up were not forthcoming. The meeting was strictly a closed one, called for the primary purpose of marshalling the executives of the nation's athletic activities so that the opening business, the work of organization, could be accomplished. Election of officers furnished the principal business. It was announced when the meeting disbanded late last night that the committee had decided to defer further action to a later meeting. No date for this is set.

Gustavus Townie Kirby of the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America will direct the work of constructing an American team for the renewal of the classic which was interrupted by the war. Mr. Kirby was elected President of the American Olympic Committee to succeed Colonel Robert M. Thompson, who resigned. Colonel Thompson was elected an honorary Vice President, together with William H. Taft. President Wilson was elected Honorary President. Frederick W. Rubien, Secretary Treasurer of the Amateur Athletic Union, was elected Secretary to succeed Justice Bartow S. Weeks, who filled the vacancy caused by the death of the late James E. Sullivan, former A. A. U. leader. Mr. Weeks resigned. Julian B. Curtiss, who has acted as Treasurer of the American Olympic Committee, was again selected to that office.

New Committeemen Elected.

The following new members of the Executive Committee of the American Olympic Committee were elected: Henry Breckinridge, former Assistant Secretary of War; Samuel J. Dallas, President of the A. A. U.; Dr. Graeme M. Hammond, President of the New York A. C.; Romeyn Berry, I. C. A. A. A. A.; Frederick R. Fortmeyer, National Association of Amateur Oarsmen; Richard F. Kelsey, National Cycling Association; Colonel Randolph Manning, George T. Adee, Reginald H. Sayre, Colonel Libby, National Rifle Association; Major Elliott V. Graves, and Commander Harrison Lanning, U. S. N. The old members of the committee who were requested to serve again were Colonel Thompson, Edward E. Babb of Boston Matthew P. Halpin, New York A. C.; Everett C. Brown, Chicago; Captain Joseph B. Maccabe, Justice Weeks, Allison V. Armour, and Professor William M. Sloane. Messrs. Weeks, Armour, and Sloane are also members of the International Olympic Committee.

Resolutions of regret on the resignations of Colonel Thompson and Justice Weeks were introduced by Reginald Sayre and Romeyn Berry, respectively, both resolutions lauding and thanking the retiring officials for their indefatigable efforts in behalf of the nation's athletic activities and expressing the hope that both officials would continue to assist the committee in its efforts in the future.

Lieut. Col. Leon Osterrieth, Chief of the Belgian Military Mission to the United States, Director General of the Exhibitions, President of the Committee on Fetes and Reception and member of the Executive Committee of the Seventh Olympiad to be held at Antwerp in 1920 addressed the officials at the end of the dinner which preceded the meeting. He said he was looking forward to having a large and important representation of Americans at the Olympic games. The Belgian official discussed the trickery of the German, Austrian and Russian delegates in betraying their promise to vote for Belgium as the scene of the 1917 Olympiad in order that Budapest might attract the classic, which was interrupted by the war. Lieut. Col. Osterrieth declared he was a medium through which was expressed the enthusiasm with which Belgium welcomed the United States in the war and with which Belgium will welcome America's athletes next year, and ended by giving assurances that the American team would be well taken care of.

Those Who Attended Meeting.

The complete list of officials who attended the meeting follows:

Lieut. Col. Osterrieth, Henry Breckinridge, Hon. James Gustave Whiteley, Belgian Consul at Baltimore; Colonel Thompson, Professor Sloane, Allison V. Armour, Justice Weeks, Julian B. Curtiss, Major Harold M. Raynor and Elliott V. Graves, U. S. A.; Dr. Graeme M. Hammond and Dr. Reginald Sayre, United States Revolver Association; Henry P. Burke and Frederick R. Fortmeyer, National Association of Amateur Oarsmen; Peter J. Peel and Dr. Randolph Manning, United States Soccer Football Association; Samuel J. Dallas and Frederick W. Rubien, Hugh Baxter, Matthew P. Halpin and Captain Joseph B. Maccabe, Amateur Athletic Union; Gustavus Towne Kirby, Roland C. Fenner and Romeyn Berry, Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America; W. Scott O'Connor and Captain George H. Breed, Amateur Fencers' League of America; Warren G. Howe, Western Conference Collegiate Association; Paul B. Williams and Julian S. Myrick, United States National Lawn Tennis Association; Edward P. Mathewson and Jay Clark, American Trapshooting Association, and W. H. Page.

TO INTERPRET POOL RULES.

Participants in Pocket Billiard Title Tourney Meet Tomorrow.

The ten players, who are entered in the national pocket billiard tournament to be held in Philadelphia starting Monday afternoon, the referee, Charley Peterson; the manager, R. B. Benjamin, and Charles P. Miller, representing the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company of New York, will meet in Philadelphia tomorrow to discuss the rules and interpret them, so that the ruling of the referee cannot be questioned. As in the balkline tournament in this city and the three-cushion tournament in Cleveland, there will be no appeal from his rulings.

MARCH URGES ARMY TO ENCOURAGE POLO

Chief of Staff Desires Game Be Played to Improve Horsemanship in Service.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—General March, as Chief of Staff, today announced the desire of the War Department that polo should be one of the games to be encouraged and developed throughout the army. To accomplish the aims for which this game is fostered in the service, the development of horsemanship, skill and daring on the part of officers and enlisted men, commanding officers have been ordered to utilize all means at their command to further the interests of this port.

TWIN CITY PURSE AT BOWIE IS MEDIUM FOR OPHELIA'S SIXTH STRAIGHT SUCCESS IN MARYLAND

OPHELIA CAPTURES ANOTHER AT BOWIE

Mrs. Davis's Filly Adds Sixth Maryland Victory to String by Taking Twin City Purse.

DAY OF CLOSE FINISHES

Three of the Events Are Won by Inches — The Decision Beats Out Tetley by a Nose.

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 28.—With only one more day of racing here, Mrs. J. E. Davis's Ophelia is now quite certain to merge the most consistent performer and best stake winner of the meeting. This fleet three-year-old daughter of Senseless is at present in grand form and has had little difficulty in defeating the best horses that have been sent to the post against her, despite the weight penalties she has been obliged to accept.

In continuing her new string of successive victories Ophelia captured the Twin City Purse today. This was her fifth victory during the meeting and her sixth since coming to Maryland. She had won four straight before being defeated by Slippery Elm recently, and she has now won two in a row since that defeat.

There were only three starters in the Twin City Purse, Tom McTaggart and Duchess Lace offering the opposition to the fleet victor. Tom McTaggart has been a steady winner here also, but today he was outclassed. Ophelia won with great ease, and after leading all the way had an advantage of four lengths at the finish of the mile and a sixteenth test. Tom McTaggart was second, the same number of lengths in front of Duchess Lace.

Ophelia, which is a remarkably fast breaker, had an outside post position today, but when the barrier went up she was hustled to the front by Hamilton and had so much more early speed than the others that she gained the rail position at the first turn and forced the others to go around her. Hamilton kept her under slight restraint, but permitted her to set the pace, and in the back stretch she drew away to a lead of three lengths. This was due in some measure to the fact that Johnson also had Tom McTaggart under restraint for the first six furlongs. Duchess Lace was outrun from the start, and to make it more difficult for her she ran wide entering the stretch, though she was badly beaten at the time.

Draws Away Easily.

Johnson let Tom McTaggart have his head as he was making the turn into the stretch, and there was at once a fine battle between the two leaders. Tom McTaggart began to move up swiftly. He cut the lead down to a length and a half, and it appeared he might catch the leader. But when Hamilton saw his rival moving up he nudged Ophelia and she stepped out again to draw away so easily that the race ceased to be a contest an eighth of a mile from home. Ophelia had it all her own way, though Tom McTaggart was doing his best and had easily disposed of the other starter.

This was another day of close finishes, and at least three of the events on the card were decided by inches. One of the best of these was seen in the Bowie Consolation, at a mile and seventy yards, when The Decision got up just in time to get his nose under the wire in front of Tetley, with King John third, only a head back of the second horse.

Tetley seemed to be the best in the race, but, after breaking slowly, was forced to go to the outside all the way, and with better racing luck should have won. As it was, The Decision, showing an improvement over recent form, set the pace for the greater part of the journey, and was only out of the lead for a short distance, when Sundial II. made a bid and was in front by a neck at the last turn. Meantime, Tetley had found his racing legs and began to move up, and when Sundial began to tire in the stretch Tetley came with a rush. The Decision had gone out in front again by this time, but Tetley moved up so fast that he could have won in a few more strides. King John finished stoutly, and was so close up with the other two that a blanket would have covered all three as they went over the finish line.

Elected II. had a rough journey in this race. He was leading when Tetley crossed over in front of him and bumped him so badly that Pierce was thrown. The jockey was not injured and there was no disqualification by the judges.

Cinderella Wins by a Nose.

W. R. Coe's Cinderella, a sensation among the two-year-old fillies early in the racing season, but which was out of training for a long time, gave a flash of her best speed today in the Marlboro Purse at five and a half furlongs and was another that gained a close decision. She defeated Gallagher by the narrow margin of a nose, while Cock o' the Roost was third. Cinderella showed plenty of early speed but she was tiring near the end and it was all Fairbrother could do to keep her going to the finish to stall off the rush of Gallagher. Gallagher was second most of the way and when he turned into the stretch, nearly two lengths back of the leader, he made a fine effort, gradually closing in on the winner until only inches separated them at the finish. Cock o' the Roost ran a good race but never threatened the winner seriously. There was some bumping shortly after the start and Red Domino was shuffled back, but the others among the nine starters were outrun all the way.

The Dosoris Stable's Crumpsall gained the other close decision in the sixth race when he defeated Mormon Elder by a nose. Crumpsall came through on the inside turning into the stretch, but after gaining the lead had to be ridden hard to last as Mormon Elder, which had gone wide throughout the running, moved up with a rush and was wearing the winner down. He would have been the winner with ten feet more to go. Lucius was third after being badly outrun in the early part of the race.

CHIEF ROMPS HOME TO AN EASY VICTORY.

Leads Closest Contender by 12 Lengths in Feature at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 28.—M. J. Murphy's Chief, which, though a four-year-old, did not come to the races until this year, continued here today the string of successes which he started on the Eastern tracks in midsummer. He had a surprise for local race-goers, for he romped in a winner in the feature of the day at a mile, finishing twelve lengths in front of his nearest rival and at a quotation of 5 to 1. So little was known of him here that he was made the third choice in a race that had only four starters.

Flyaway, which ran under the colors of J. L. Solomon, was made the choice and was well played, but at the end was struggling hard to save second from Mistress Polly, gaining the position by only a head.

Trusty, the other starter, set the early pace, while Chief was always close up. After going half a mile Chief suddenly moved up with a spurt, and, passing his field, drew away with such ridiculous ease that he was soon five lengths in front and gaining with every stride. Flyaway was hard urged, but Chief was so full of running that he just galloped and made his rivals appear cheap. The race ceased to be a contest at the head of the stretch, and as the Chief galloped over the finish line Flyaway and Mistress Polly fought it out for second, providing the only thrill in the race. Trusty tired in the stretch and was badly beaten.

The track was heavy today, but the weather was clear and another good-sized crowd was in attendance. The racers made slow time ploughing through the mud, but the program provided some good contests.

A field of good two-year-olds went to the post in the juvenile event of the day, and this five-furlong sprint went to Midia, owned by Keusteriler & Rexinger, the winner scoring an easy victory over Little Sandy and Double Van. Midia was always well up and at the head of the stretch moved up and won by four lengths. Little Sandy came with a rush at the finish, but he had been so badly outrun in the early part that he could not get up to the leader.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE—For three-year-olds and upward, maidens; five and a half furlongs.

Horse.	Wt.	Jockey.	Odds.	Fin.
War Garden	115	Regan	8-5	3-5	1
Midia	107	Kelsay	3-1	1-2	2
Little Sandy	112	Tullett	2-1	even	3
Double Dan	112	Troxler	even	even	4

Time—1:11 2-5. Bessie Atkin, Lloyd George, Coronado, Fox Choice, Polygamist, Rappahannock, and Harry Rudder also ran.

SECOND RACE—Claiming, for two-year-olds; five furlongs. Midia, 107 pounds (Coltiletti), 12 to 5, even, and 2 to 5, first; Little Sandy, 112 (Tullett), 2 to 1 and even, second; Double Dan, 112 (Troxler), even, third. Time—1:00. Battle Mountain, Classes the Way, Canolon, Dandy Van, and Viva Cuba also ran.

THIRD RACE—Claiming, for three-year-olds and upward; five and a half furlongs. General, 114 pounds (Groth), 3 to 1, 6 to 5, and 8 to 5, first; Thomas P. McMahon, 105 (Duggan), 6 to 1 and 3 to 1, second; Choirmaster, 111 (J. Davis), 2 to 1, third. Time—1:12. Sal George, James F. Cummings, Milda, Dahinda, Lady Eileen, Little Princess, Indian Spring, Al Pierce, Bertodano, Sandy Lad, and Cadillac also ran.

FOURTH RACE—Claiming, for three-year-olds and upward; one mile and seventy yards. King Neptune, 111 pounds (Burke), 4 to 5, 1 to 5, and 1 to 5, first; Yowell, 111 (McIntyre), 5 to 2, and even, second; Audry K., 103 (Helnish), 5 to 2, third. Time—1:55 2-5. Shamrock Green, W. H. Buckner, Tours, and Senator James also ran.

FIFTH RACE—For three-years-olds and upward; one mile. Chief, 109 pounds (Kirschbaum), 5 to 1, 7 to 5, and out, first; Flyaway, 101 (Canfield), 7 to 5, second; Mistress Polly, 118 (Carroll), third. Time—1:47 1-5. Trusty also ran.

SIXTH RACE—For three-year-olds and upward, claiming; six furlongs. Redland, 115 pounds (Warrington), 3 to 5, 1 to 3, and out, first; Kolsky, 107 (Ponce), 7 to 2, 2 to 5, and 2 to 1, second; Gold Vale, 105 (Colletti), 3 to 1, third. Time—1:18 2-5. Little String, Karphage, Astraea, Sluth, and Flapper also ran.

SEVENTH RACE—For three-year-olds and upward, claiming; one mile and seventy yards. Astec, 111 pounds (Howard), 7 to 2, 2 to 5, and 3 to 5, first; Miss Filly, 113 (Burke), 4 to 1 and 7 to 5, second; C. Stone, 111 (Lunsford), 3 to 1, third. Time—1:54 1-5. Gibbons Easily Defeats King.

CALGARY, Alberta, Nov. 28.—Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul, easily defeated Mickey King, Australian light-heavyweight, in their fifteen-round match here last night. The St. Paul boxer showed decisive superiority in every round.

HAVANA WINNERS PAY GOOD PRICES

Perfect Lady, at 6 to 1, Leads Juveniles Home—Goldstone Is First at 15 to 1.

HAVANA, Cuba, Nov. 28.—The favorites fared rather badly here today, the second day of racing at Oriental Park. Though no sensational long shots came over the winners generally paid good prices. The card opened with a victory for Perfect Lady in a sprint for two-year-olds, the winner being quoted at 6 to 1. This was followed by victories at 10 to 1 and 15 to 1.

Jockey Morrisey put up a good ride on Perfect Lady and got her home in front of Grey Rump and Lenora P. in the five-furlong sprint. In the next event Betterton came down in front at 10 to 1, defeating Walter Mack and Shoddy handily. In the fourth race Goldstone won at 15 to 1. This was a six-furlong dash for three-year-olds, the winner defeating Dainty Lady, which had been heavily played, and Miss Ivan, among others.

The Primero Purse, the feature on the card, at a mile and twenty yards, went to Cromwell, which interrupted the run of luck against the public choices. He took the measure of Iolite and Hubub, among others.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE—For two-year-olds; five furlongs. Perfect Lady, 112 pounds, 6 to 1, 5 to 2, and 6 to 5, first; Grey Rump, 113, 6 to 5 and 3 to 5, second; Lenora P., 112, 4 to 1, third. Time—1:01 2-5. YANKEES' MANAGER PLANNING TRADES

Miller Huggins Arrives Here and Says He Hopes to Strengthen the Club by Deals.

Manager Miller Huggins of the Yankees came to town yesterday and made it plain that he is not going to let the grass grow under his feet in assembling his baseball club for next season. Huggins plans to spend a few days here getting next year's contracts in shape to send out to the players after the first of the year. He will then set out to visit several minor league club owners in the Middle West, and get several new players to take on the training trip to Jacksonville.

The Yankee manager had planned to meet several minor league officials in Chicago at the American League meeting on Dec. 10, but now that the Board of Directors has called the meeting for this city, Huggins will investigate the baseball market before the meeting here. Huggins said yesterday that he was planning some deals, which is taken to mean that some of the players who were regulars last season may be used in trades for new material.

Huggins said yesterday that he didn't take much stock in the stories that Duffy Lewis and Frank Baker had retired. These players announce their retirement each season. Baker's case, of course, is doubtful, but it is believed that Lewis will again be seen in the Yankee lineup. With both Baker and Lewis the call of baseball has always been stronger than their desire to retire from the game.

Even at the close of last season Baker did not retire to his Maryland farm, but went on a barnstorming trip with Charley Herzog's team, and Herzog says that in many games Baker's share was at times as low as $8. When a $10,000 a year baseball player will play for $8 a game, it can be seen that the lure of the game is exceptionally strong.

Huggins's most difficult problem since coming to New York has been the outfield. Until he obtained Duffy Lewis the Yanks did not have a very dependable hitter in the outgardens, and it is Huggins's ambition to land a couple of good outfielders before another season rolls around.

Manager Huggins is very optimistic about the outlook of the Yanks for next season, and the only sad story that he had to disclose yesterday was that his new automobile had been stolen in Cincinnati. Huggins bought the car at the close of last season and drove out to Redland to the world's series. He has been driving the car all Fall. He left it standing in front of a store in Cincinnati recently and when he came out it was gone.

The story has been revived that there will be a change in the National League circuit next season, and that the St. Louis franchise may be transferred to Toronto. A prominent official in the National League said yesterday that the story was absurd, and that there wasn't a possibility of any change in the circuit.

This same official pointed out that to transfer a major league franchise would require a majority vote of the sixteen clubs in the two major leagues, and that such a vote would be impossible. The St. Louis club had a good season last year, and is a ball club which is going through a period of reconstruction. The Cardinals will play much better ball next season and the numerous St. Louis stockholders are very well satisfied with the club's achievements last season.

Zbyszko to Train in Maine.

Wladek Zbyszko, the Polish wrestler, leaves today for his camp at Old Orchard, Me., where he will make final preparations for his struggle with Joe Stecher, at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory, on Monday evening, Dec. 1. According to the arrangements for the event, the men will struggle until one of them pins the other to the mat. In case of no fall, the spectators will receive their money back.

Brooklyn City Railroad Asks Court to Stay Order Abolishing Double Charge.

COMPANY LOSES $300 DAILY

Amounts Too Small to Warrant Suits Against Passengers Refusing to Pay a Dime.

Argument will be heard in the Supreme Court Tuesday on an application by the Brooklyn City Railroad Company for a stay delaying the operation of the order of the Public Service Commission directing the company to cease charging a double fare on the Flatbush Avenue line until the proceedings under the writ of certiorari obtained by the company are disposed of. The application was signed yesterday by Justice Delehanty.

The company explains in the application that the abandonment of the second fare charge means an "absolute irreparable daily loss of about $300 which it could not afterward collect" because the amounts would be too small to warrant the expenses of legal proceedings. The application says that the company is willing to deposit in any bank designated by the court a sufficient amount of money to insure the redemption of the rebate tickets issued.

"In addition to operating expenses and taxes," the application reads, "the company is obligated to pay interest upon the first consolidated mortgage of 5 per cent. bonds the sum of $300,000 a year, and interest upon the refunding 4 per cent. bonds the sum of $37,000 a year. If the company is permitted to charge the additional fares it is possible with the greatest economy and efficiency of operation that the company, in addition to paying its operating expenses, maintenance, and taxes, will be able to pay the interest on its bonded indebtedness out of revenue received from operation."

According to the application the company expects an additional revenue of $100,000 a year, if it is permitted by the courts to charge the second fare, but if the courts rule that the second fare charge is illegal and must not be imposed the deficits, according to the company, will soon assume alarming proportions. A copy of the papers was served late yesterday on Terence Farley, counsel to the Public Service Commission.

The November Kings County Grand Jury, which was to have been discharged yesterday, was continued as a special Grand Jury by County Court Judge Mitchell May, in Brooklyn, at the request of District Attorney Harry E. Lewis. Mr. Lewis would neither deny or affirm a report that he intended to have the Grand Jury conduct an investigation into the tardy compliance by the Brooklyn City Railroad Company with the order of the Public Service Commission compelling it to charge but one fare on the Flatbush Avenue line.

Grover A. Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, received permission from the Board of Estimate yesterday to continue the operation of the various bus lines until Jan. 1 and to place seven more bus lines in operation. The new lines will run in Flatlands, Borough Park, Sheepshead Bay, Bay Parkway, and will parallel three crosstown lines in South Brooklyn.

Tide Water Oil Earns $23.79 a Share

The Tide Water Oil Company for the first nine months of this year reports a net income, after charges and Federal taxes, of $7,873,805, or the equivalent of $23.79 a share on the capital stock. This compares with $7,846,504, or $24.59 a share, during the corresponding period of last year. The total business amounted to $34,522,670, a gain of nearly $4,000,000 over the 1918 figures for nine months. The company has charged off $2,334,164 for depreciation and set aside $1,988,132 for Federal taxes. The profit and loss surplus now stands at $17,863,554.

The commission announces for Dec. 23 an examination for mechanical engineer, qualified in internal-combustion engine work. Vacancies in the Bureau of Standards, Department of Commerce, at $3,000 to $3,600 a year, will be filled from this examination. For the existing vacancies male eligibles are desired. The duties will be to initiate and conduct experimental research work in connection with development of gasoline engines, particularly high-speed aviation engines, with special reference to problems of carburetion and utilization of heavy fuels, indicator measurements, and radiator and cooling systems. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on elementary engineering education, 20; post-graduate work and general engineering experience, 40; publications or thesis on some phase of internal-combustion engine performance, 40. Applicants must have graduated in mechanical engineering from a college or university of recognized standing. In addition, they must have had at least ten years' experience, subsequent to graduation, in actual practice of the profession of mechanical engineering or in teaching mechanical engineering in a college or university of recognized standing. At least three years of the required experience must have been in such a capacity as to demonstrate ability to meet and direct men. Applicants will be admitted to the examination regardless of their age, but at the request of a department making appointment certification will be made of eligibles who are within reasonable age limits.

THE WEATHER.

The Arizona disturbance of the last few days has about disappeared and pressure has risen considerably over that section.

It has, however, fallen decidedly elsewhere except in the Atlantic States, with principal centres of depression over Northwest Arkansas and Southern Saskatchewan.

The weather remains generally cloudy except in the extreme Southwest with continued snows and rains over the interior districts and on the North Pacific Coast.

As a rule, except in the Atlantic States, temperatures have risen but they are still from 10 to 35 degrees below the season average in the plains States, the Rocky Mountain and plateau regions.

Unsettled weather will continue Saturday and Sunday east of the Mississippi River with rains and snows over the Northern and rains over the Southern districts.

It will be somewhat warmer Saturday and Sunday night in the Atlantic States and colder Sunday in the East Gulf States and the Ohio valley.

Disturbance over Northwest Arkansas moving north-northeast with apparent rapid increase in intensity, caution advised Lake Michigan until further advices Saturday morning.

Winds off Atlantic Coast: North of Sandy Hook, moderate to fresh northeast winds, cloudy weather; Sandy Hook to Hatteras, fresh northeast and east winds, cloudy weather, rain by Saturday night; Hatteras to Florida Straits, moderate northeast and east winds, cloudy weather, rain by Saturday night except on the South Florida Coast; East Gulf Coast, moderate north and northeast winds over south portion with fair weather, moderate to fresh southeast to south winds over north portion with rain; West Gulf Coast, moderate shifting winds becoming northerly and fresh, rain and colder; disturbances over Northwest Kansas moving north, northeast.

Education Notes.

The New York City Principals' Association will hold a meeting at the Park Avenue Hotel, Manhattan, on the evening of Dec. 6. There will be discussion of the rating of teachers, and promotions to higher rank, examining of teachers, and child welfare. Recommendations on this subject are to be made to the Board of Superintendents. A dinner at 6 P. M. will precede the meeting.

A course in intensive bookkeeping is to be given at the Commercial Building of the City College, Twenty-third Street and Lexington Avenue, for a period of six weeks, beginning Dec. 8. The course consists of two sessions per week, this being given Mondays and Fridays from 7:30 to 9:18 P. M. The registration for this class may be made in Room 207, A, any evening up to and including Dec. 8.

Teachers' pensions, the Attorney General has decided, are not subject to the State income tax, but teachers' salaries are.

Hunter College will present on Dec. 24 "The Shadow," by Howard Mumford Jones and "The Six Who Pass While the Lentils Boil," by Stuart Walker.

Who Is Responsible For Smashing the Treaty?

Jubilation reigned in some quarters when the Senate's emphatic rejection of the Treaty of Versailles came as a sensational climax of one of the most bitterly fought political battles in our history. It may have been a victory, and the destroyers of the Treaty and the League of Nations "may exult in their triumph," but, retorts the Springfield Republican (Ind.), "they will go into history having constructed nothing and selfishly leaving the world to its darkness and woe." Opposing this view the New York Sun declares that "there never was anything more wrong, more ridiculous, more preposterous, than to maintain that the war was going on and must go on until the United States Senate and the American people consented to swallow Mr. Wilson's pernicious League of Nations." In fixing the responsibility, the pro-League Rochester Times-Union (Ind.) says that "the United States Senate under the bankrupt leadership of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge has killed the Peace Treaty," but Republican papers like the Philadelphia North American and the New York Tribune lay the responsibility for the failure of the Treaty at the President's own door, in effect charging him with "infanticide."

Under the heading "The Rejection of the Treaty" THE LITERARY DIGEST, this week—November 29th—prints as its leading article a summary of public opinion in the United States as expressed in newspapers of all shades of opinion. The article covers every phase of the controversy over the Treaty and makes very clear how the country regards the Senate's action.

SERVICES GET BRITISH CUP.

Sir Harry Britta'n Presents Souvenir to Arr y and Navy.

Sir Harry Brittain, founder and Chairman of the American Officers' Club in London, presented to the army and navy yesterday an ancient English silver loving cup as "a souvenir of happy memories" from himself and those who acted as hosts to American officers in London during the war. The presentation was made at a luncheon given at India House by R. A. C. Smith, and the occasion was also a farewell meeting for Sir Harry, who sails for England on the Mauretania today. Maj. Gen. David C. Shanks accepted the gift for the Secretary of War and Rear Admiral James E. Glennon for the navy. A letter from General Pershing was read.

Secretary Baker said in his letter of acceptance: "When the Secretary of the Navy and I have worked out the best plan for making this souvenir the joint possession of the two services I shall be happy to communicate our determination to you." It was suggested yesterday that the cup be put up as an athletic trophy to be competed for annually by teams from West Point and Annapolis.

The loving cup was made in 1772 by Parker & Wakelin, goldsmiths to the Prince of Wales. Among those who spoke at the lunch were Mr. Smith, Cyrus H. K. Curtis of Philadelphia, Frank Munsey and Colonel J. B. Mitchell, who was American Provost Marshal in London during the war.

WOOL DEMAND DECLINES.

Business in Finer Grades Reported —Foreign Markets Strong.

BOSTON, Nov. 28.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say: "The demand for wool diminished this week, although many houses reported fair business in the finer grades and some further business in three-eighths at firm prices, with fine staple domestic wools occasionally dearer.

"The foreign markets are all very strong.

"The manufacturing situation is very strong and the combers and spinners report their clients extremely anxious to secure further allotments of tops and yarns."

They Tried to Save Money.

Quite a few Southern retailers of shoes are peeved because manufacturers of this merchandise did not let them put over a little game that would doubtless have saved them considerable money later on. These retailers, who ordinarily could not be hired to order high shoes for Spring delivery, were not only willing but anxious to take them this year. In fact, some of them insisted that the salesmen include high shoes in their orders for Spring shipment under threat of diverted business. Salesmen thus threatened did as they were asked, only to have high shoes cut out of the orders as they were confirmed by the manufacturers. The reason was that the retailers were full of warnings that shoes for next Fall would have to be still more expensive, and in buying high shoes for Spring delivery they figured they could beat the advance. The only catch was that their scheme was too plain.

COMMODITIES PRICES

The Changes in Them Were Not Very Pronounced This Week.

Revisions in wholesale commodities prices, as reflected by Dun's list, lacked much of the sensational nature this week that has characterized them recently. While the proportion of advances and declines was about the same as last week, there were fewer changes among the more important things, especially foodstuffs. The general list showed a total of sixty-five revisions this week, of which thirty-nine were advances, against seventy-two last week with forty-two advances.

The following list gives the minimum wholesale prices quoted on selected standard commodities. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for last week, as well as the corresponding week a year ago:

For the first time in many weeks the local market for provisions was bare of changes. At Chicago, however, things were different. Live sheep and mess pork did not change there, but lower prices were quoted for live hogs and short ribs and higher ones for live beef and Middle Western lard. The changes in the dairy products were also fewer than have been usual in recent weeks. The best grade of butter moved up a cent a pound, but the under grades did not change. No revisions were noted in cheese, and the same was true of nearby fancy eggs. The best Western eggs, however, advanced 6 cents a dozen for the week, which put them 8 cents a dozen above the corresponding 1918 price.

The list for dried fruits was bare of changes, but in the listed fresh ones higher prices were quoted on both fancy and common apples. In the vegetables list fancy Scotch peas declined, but higher prices were got for red kidney beans. Cabbage advanced $1 per 100 heads, and there was a rise of 50 cents a bag in onions. Potatoes did not change. Revisions in tea prices were missing, but both No. 7 Rio and No. 4 Santos coffee were nominally lower. In the spices a rise in mace was offset by declines in white and in black Singapore pepper.

Corn declined, but oats, rye and malting barley went up. Thirteen of the sixteen changes in drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs and oils were advances, among the few features being the further rise in menthol. It is now up to $13 a pound. Six of the ten listed varieties of hides declined, this being a continuance of the softening of values in this merchandise which began several weeks ago. Last week's declines in leather were repeated, but judged by last year's standards prices are still high. Three varieties of shoe leather were included in the grades that declined this week.

Further advances in certain pig iron, as well as in some of the billets and refined iron bars at Pittsburgh, took place but the increases were not so numerous as last week. Tin and spelter among the minor metals advanced, the declines taking place in lake and electrolytic copper, and lead. In the naval stores resin and turpentine were lower. The miscellaneous revisions included advances in Chinese and Japanese raw silks, hemp, print paper and tallow, and a decline in Brazilian crude rubber.

The week's activities in the textiles were marked by a considerably stronger feeling developed in unfinished cotton goods, so much so that in many instances sharp recoveries from the breaks of last week took place and the recent high levels of the market here were again approached. Trading in burlaps was practically without feature, with prices nominally unchanged at the close.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday....5¾ per cent. for the best names
Wednesday....5¾ per cent. for the best names
The quotations are for six months' paper.

Heavy Jewelry Buying for Export.

The jewelry department of the Bush Terminal Sales Building has been especially active during the last ten weeks, particularly from the export demand. All lines have been purchased, and an average of the total orders placed shows no preference for one line over another. Foreign buyers have registered from Spain, Holland, Australia, the Panama Republic, South America, India, and Morocco. Canada also has sent a large delegation.

Might Help Dress Goods Supply.

The suggestion made by a leading dressmaker that one reason for the shortage of dress goods is that the demand is restricted to too few fabrics, is considered a good one in the garment trade. It is quite likely that, following the counsel of this man, the manufacturers may decide to use a few other varieties of material rather than to keep their purchases down entirely to tricotines and serges. One of the fabrics that is very well thought of at the present time is the hairline stripe, and it is believed that goods of this character from now on will be bought in larger quantities.

Advances Every Week.

The executive of a large clothing house yesterday drew attention to a slip of paper on which were written several groups of figures. In explanation he said that this was a weekly report of advances paid to his employes. "Not a week goes by," he said, "that we don't have to make increases in some branch or other of our factory. While some of these advances are small, they all count up. This week's charge is a small one, but it amounts to over $3,000 a year."

Silks a Little Better.

From the standpoint of inquiry and production the silk trade has picked up during the week. While there have not been so many buyers in the market, those who were here have been purchasing more freely than in several weeks past. There is also a tendency on the part of both manufacturers and jobbers to let out merchandise at prices that are more favorably regarded by buyers. This is especially true of the jobbers, it is said, who are inclined to believe that a fair sale is now better than holding out for higher prices.

Gray Goods Prices Strong.

Gray goods prices continued to strengthen here yesterday, and some printcloths sold at the top levels of the recent market. Twenty-three cents was paid for spot 39-inch 68-72s, while spot 38½-inch 64-60s brought 19¼ cents. The latter goods, for delivery in June and July next, sold at 18½ cents. November-December lots of 39-inch 80 squares and 72-76s were disposed of at 20 and 24 cents, respectively. In the sheetings business was done on 37-inch 48-square 4-yard cloths at 21 cents for December delivery. For shipment in that month and through January 5.50-yard sheetings sold for 15¼ cents. Sellers asked 22 cents for near-by 36-inch 4-yard 56-60 sheetings.

The West Wants Hard Coal.

The wind-up of lake navigation, Saward's Journal will say today, is reflected, so far as shipments from the mines are concerned, in a slightly heavier movement over the New York Harbor piers. A still heavier tonnage is being diverted to the line trade throughout the East. The West is calling for increased rail shipments because of the shortage of domestic coal caused by the bituminous strike, but the tonnage going in that direction is only a small part of the total turned from the lakes to other avenues of distribution. Receipts of bituminous coal at tidewater have been on a much lighter scale this week owing to the Railroad Administration requiring mines west of the Alleghany Mountains to ship all or most of their output to western markets.

Fur Sales Are Picking Up.

Manufacturing furriers here report a noticeable improvement in demand of late, following a period of quietness that was such as to cause uneasiness in some quarters of the trade. With the coming of more seasonable weather, however, things have taken a turn for the better. Pessimists who seem to see an indication of continued slowness in the fact that salesmen for several concerns have gone on the road again had their statements discounted yesterday by the assertions of well-posted furriers that that is usually the case with men who are employed by houses which make a specialty of carrying large stocks. Summaries of the business done to date show that the demand for coats has been considerably bigger than that for scarfs, and that the call for single neckpieces has also been large. Sold singly, muffs have not done so well.

Christmas Selling Starts Well.

Thanksgiving over, the demand for Christmas things has set in with a rush here. Most of the local stores were more crowded yesterday than on any other Friday for a long time, and an active business was reported in various kinds of gift merchandise. So large have been purchases of handkerchiefs, neckwear, hosiery and other gifts of this order that the belief is growing that this is going to be a big year for the giving of useful things. This indication, however, apparently had no effect on the crowds seen in the toy departments yesterday. Among the less staple toys that were selling freely were a number of novelty dolls, outfits for the study of very elementary and harmless chemistry, animals that tumble about of their own free will, and a variety of waiter toys. A bigger run was seen on construction and other educational toys is predicted this year.

House Furnishings Featured.

The representative of a furniture house stated yesterday that the present time house furnishings are better featured by retail stores than ever before. He remarked not only on the large amount of window display space given over to this department, but on the expensive pieces usually shown. "The stores are getting now," he said, "so that whenever it is possible they put an article of home furnishing before the public. For instance, I saw yesterday a toy window made up with a large handcarved buffet as one of the props. That is going to extremes, but it strikes me that the stores are beginning to see the possibilities in emphasizing this branch of their business."

BUSINESS NOTES.

Edgar V. M. Goldberg, who for the last two years has been business manager of the Retail Millinery Association of America, has resigned, effective March 1 next. He will be succeeded by Jerome C. Mendel. Mr. Goldberg on the date mentioned will become sales manager and director of advertising for J. H. Blumenthal's Sons, Ltd., Montreal, prominent retailers of men's furnishings and clothing.

Railroad Stocks Lead in Sharp Price Decline—Silver Quotation Drops.

The stock market suffered yesterday from a state of mind which, previously thrown into a condition of uncertainty by the influence of credit restrictions upon speculation, became decidedly depressed by developments over the holiday. The Mexican situation, the refusal of soft coal union leaders to accept a proffered wage increase and charges in respect to the freedom with which revolutionary propaganda could be spread under existing laws in this country reacted unpleasantly upon traders. The Street's pessimism afforded a fertile field for operations on the short side of quotations, and after prices had become unsettled at the start of business there seemed to be a quickening of sales in the way of liquidation. All classes of stocks participated in the decline, although the sharp retreat of railroad shares attracted most attention for the reason that they had been less affected in the recent declining movement than the others. At the end of the day few issues showed even fractional advances and a majority of the more active ones were 2 to 4 points lower than on Wednesday night.

The abrupt weakness of railroad shares was not explained by any event that came to light during business hours and several rumors heard in market gossip lacked real force in accounting for the decline. A story that the President was considering the return of the roads to stockholders next week was bereft of support in quarters where the railway program is known first-hand. Excepting the part played by short sellers, the course of railroad stock trading reflected both the output of speculators who had hoped for constructive legislation before Congress adjourned and by other holders of the shares whose apprehension of a December decline had been increased by the absence of eager buyers of mining and industrial stocks in the last few days. Certainly buying support was lacking yesterday; in fact, professional sellers found such easy action that the query arose in commission houses whether or not the market was not being "oversold." The most substantial declines, some more than 6 points net, occurred in issues either of the specialty class or of that group whose quick rebounds from other periods of decline have supplied the legends of this year's dealings.

Call money became rather scarce in the afternoon, lending additional influence to the factors undermining quotations. With the end of the month financing of dividend and interest payments drawing near, it was not surprising that the money market should stiffen somewhat, even in the face of the current liquidating process in securities. From the opening and renewal rate of 7 per cent., the call loan quotation went to 10 per cent. shortly before the Stock Exchange closed. The heavy outflow of cotton from American ports this week again accounted in part for the day's decline of foreign exchange rates, although a single item in this situation is of only moderate moment in contrast with the many influences at work. Sterling declined 3¼ cents to the pound, the check rate falling back to 4.00½, a figure which forecast another dip under the $4 level. Francs and lire receded parallel with sterling.

The silver market vied with stocks in the precipitancy of its fall. The rate quoted by local silver merchants was 8½ cents to the ounce lower than on Tuesday, yesterday's quotation being $1.29. The London price, which was 75½d per ounce on Wednesday and 74d on Thursday, fell to 72¾d. In view of the remarkable rise of the last fortnight, the reaction seemed largely the product of realizing sales by speculators, coupled with a slackened demand for metal by Far Eastern buyers.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Establishing Losses.

The way for the holder of stocks or bonds to establish losses in preparation for income tax returns has been made a bit harder and perhaps more costly by a ruling of the New York Stock Exchange. Coupled orders, one to sell at a certain price and another to buy back, are henceforth banned. The announcement, which has been sent to all members, reads:

"In the opinion of the Committee of Arrangements an offer to sell, coupled with an offer to buy back at the same or an advanced price, or the reverse, is not in accord with the rules of business permitted on the Stock Exchange."

Under the law dealers in securities are permitted to write off their losses on an inventory adjustment. The public at large has to go through the formality of a sale. It was customary if a holder of securities wished to retain stocks or bonds on which he had a paper loss to give a dual order, one to sell and another to buy back, thereby establishing his loss, but avoiding the pitfall of an appreciable wait which might mean a change in price. Now he must give his selling order and follow with his buying order, and if both were executed at the market he would sell at the bid price and buy at the asked, a difference ranging from a fraction to several points, as the case may be.

A Bear Raid.

Price recessions in yesterday's market were directly attributable to another bear raid which brought out some long stock and created a large short interest. The opening prices showed a decline of from 1 to 2 points, and the bears quickly took advantage of the unfavorable news developments to depress quotations further. Chief among these were the Mexican tangle and the complicated situation with regard to the coal strike. Added to these were intangible rumors of impending difficulties in various fields of endeavor, which always make their appearance in a declining market, just as rumors calculated to inspire confidence appear in a bull market. The selling wave continued almost up to the close. In the last few minutes there was a slight rally, and it was rather astonishing to see how little buying was needed to bring about substantial forward movements.

"A Dividend."

The declaration of a 3½ per cent. dividend on Baldwin Locomotive common stock, the first that has been declared since 1914, emphasized once more the mystery position of Baldwin. The disbursement was characterized as a "dividend." Whether it is one of these "every now and then" or a semi-annual declaration or a quarterly dividend basis for the stock remains for time to tell. Most people were inclined to think that the stock could be considered as on a 7 per cent. annual basis. There were few so rash as to believe that the dividend was to be the forerunner of quarterly payments of 2¼ per cent., which would place the stock on a 14 per cent. annual basis. The dividend announcement buoyed up Baldwin shares for only a few minutes.

Steel Common Under Pressure.

United States Steel shares were under some selling pressure and sold off for a net loss of 1¼ points. At one time the stock was below 102, but rallied sharply just before the close on moderate transactions. The opinion prevails that this stock is going into strong hands.

Money Tighter.

It would be rather difficult to explain just why money rates should have jumped up yesterday afternoon to 10 per cent., after the opening and renewal rate had been made at 7 per cent. The only unusual demand for money at this time is that arising from the fact that Monday will be the last day for payment without penalty of the second half of the city real estate tax, and that demand, it was said yesterday, was hardly great enough to account for any upturn in call rates. The strength of the rate at which the Reserve Bank buys bills one-fourth of 1 per cent. may have had some slight sentimental effect, especially as the action of the Reserve Bank was not generally understood.

A Comedown Expected.

That rates will be easier the early part of next week was the general belief yesterday. The tax money, in whatever amount it may be, will be back in the banks by Monday or Tuesday, and the payment on account of the latest Treasury certificate offering should also make funds more plentiful then. But there is no widespread hope for any lasting improvement in the money situation until after the turn of the year.

"Taking Their Punishment."

Commenting on the extremely heavy exports of cotton, grain, and some other raw materials which have been going out in enormous quantity of late, a banker yesterday gave it as his opinion that Europeans, particularly the British and French, are reconciled to "taking their punishment" so far as raw materials are concerned, and are going ahead with their purchases without much regard for the current rate of foreign exchange. But in the matter of finished goods, he said, there has been a marked falling off in recent exports, and he predicted that there would be a further decline unless something were speedily done to correct the exchange situation.

Lloyd George's Address.

The cabled reports of Lloyd George's address in the House of Commons Thursday, in which the British Premier declared that the United States should contribute dollar credits for the goods needed by Europe, and that "urgent representations" to this effect have been made to the United States Government, evoked comment here yesterday. The understanding of local bankers is that the Government at Washington is opposed to doing anything direct in the way of furnishing dollar credits, but is entirely willing that private bankers should do so. The bankers themselves are not inclined to agree with this idea, contending that the matter is too large for them to handle alone. In some circles yesterday it was thought that strong representations from abroad might change the attitude of Washington and bring the Government into the market as a borrower for purposes of relending to Europe.

The Break in the Rails.

Shortly after the opening yesterday it was evident that the rail shares were pressing on the market, with offerings not confined to the more speculative issues, but fairly well distributed over the group. Later on even the standard issues of companies which are known to be in good financial condition felt the weight of selling, and losses ranged from fractions to more than 5 points. This liquidation was attributed to several factors, among them being the rumor that the roads would be turned back to private control Dec. 1 without remedial legislation; the report which came from the floor itself that German holdings were being liquidated, and that selling to establish losses had been switched to the rails because of their vulnerable position. Among the issues which sold off more than 3 points were Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, Delaware & Hudson, Great Northern preferred, New York Central, Union Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, Missouri Pacific, Kansas City Southern, Reading, St. Paul preferred, and Canadian Pacific.

Interborough October Deficit.

The income account of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company for October shows a deficit after charges amounting to $218,762, a decrease of $325,864 as compared with the corresponding month in last year. Gross for the month increased $681,214, and there was an increase of $497,297 net after taxes, when compared with October, 1918. The deficit after charges was exclusive of accruals under provisions of Contract 3. Some improvement was shown in operating per cent., which dropped to 62.53 from 64.33 in October, 1918.

GOOD MARKET HERE FOR GERMAN BONDS

Imperial War Loans and Securities of Cities Attractive to American Speculators.

BIG PROFIT IN EXCHANGE

French, Italian, and Belgian City Bonds Are Also Largely Dealt In.

The recent arrival in this country of a rather large consignment of European bonds, including many of the German Imperial war issues as well as a number of German municipal securities, has stimulated interest in these bonds considerably, and during the last few days dealings in the German bonds alone have been in the neighborhood of 1,000,000 marks face value, according to bankers who have been specializing in them. There has also been fair activity in French and Italian bonds, both Government and municipal, but in these latter the volume, it is said, has been somewhat lighter than in the German securities.

Bankers who have been handling these European bonds say that the best demand in the last few days has been for the German municipal emissions. The 4½ per cent. bonds of Frankfort, the 5 per cents. of Leipsic, and the 4 per cent. bonds of Berlin, they say, are being eagerly sought by investors here, who expect not only to reap a profit on the enhancement in the price of the bonds, but also a very much larger profit on the foreign exchange operation. As a matter of fact, these German municipals are selling very close to par, so far as the mark price of the bonds is concerned, but when this mark price is translated into terms of American dollars the discount on them becomes very heavy.

The current quotations on the Frankfort bonds is between $45 and $50 per 1,000 marks. The Leipsic bonds, which bear one-half of 1 per cent. higher interest on their face value, sell for a dollar or two more per 1,000 marks, while the Berlin bonds, which are only 4 per cent. securities, sell for slightly less. The difference is very small, at most, and on several occasions during the last week has disappeared entirely.

German Imperial war bonds are also finding a market here. The only bonds of this classification noted in the New York market thus far have been of the first three war loans. This, as explained by one banker who has been handling them, is because of the fact that the bonds of the earlier issues were more commonly circulated in the European neutral countries, and as most of the German bonds received here are those which citizens and subjects of the European neutrals purchased early in the war, mostly before the United States went in, the later issues of German war bonds are more difficult to get.

These German war bonds are now selling for slightly less than the German city bonds. The quotation on German war loan bonds ranges from $33 to $40 per 1,000 marks, and it is said that several millions of the actual bonds are now available in this country. Interest payments, it is understood, are being made on them regularly, and because of this, bankers say that there is little chance of their being repudiated, as by paying the interest the present German Government virtually recognizes the validity of the obligation.

The potential profits on these bonds is enormous. Bonds which now cost anywhere from $35 to $50 for 1,000 marks will be worth many times that price if the German mark ever goes back to anything like its normal parity. The par of German exchange is at 23.8 cents per mark. Thus, for 1,000 marks the parity would be $238. Even if the mark should recover to only 40 or 50 per cent. of its par value the profit on the bonds would still be very large. This profit on exchange, added to whatever enhancement there may be on the bonds themselves, makes the venture attractive to many Americans and bankers here who deal in these securities are preparing to handle a much greater volume than the market now affords.

A good many Americans who desire to gamble in foreign exchange are said to prefer this method of investing in European bonds to the ordinary method of speculating, which consists of buying a bill of exchange on Berlin, say, having it changed into marks there and then depositing the proceeds in a German bank. Under that system, it is thought, there would be very little chance for loss of principal if the funds were deposited in one of the great Berlin banks, but it is not always possible to have the funds thus deposited. If the deposit should happen to get into a small and unreliable institution there is the possibility of the failure of the bank, or some other contingency, which would endanger the whole operation. By buying bonds of a great city or of the empire the chances against damage to principal is thought to be minimized almost to the vanishing point.

Dealings in French municipal bonds and in those of Belgian and Italian cities are also being conducted rather extensively, but probably less so than the operations in German bonds, for as the exchanges of these countries are selling at relatively higher figures, the promise of ultimate gain is less. Also, with regard to the French municipal bonds in particular, the so-called Three Cities bonds, which are available in this market in dollar denomination, have tended to take the fine edge off the demand for internal issues. The Belgian bonds, though, are being pushed by some bankers and a good many of them have already been marketed here. Estimates of the total amount of Belgian municipals run all the way up to 25,000,000 francs, worth at the present rate of exchange, about $3,000,000.

The French "premium bonds," which have a lottery attraction, were said to be in demand recently, but many dealers here fear to handle them because of this feature, as they are not certain how the United States Government authorities will regard lottery bonds. In the past the postal authorities have set their face against all lotteries, and whether a special ruling will be made with regard to the French bonds, or whether they will fall under the official taboo, is still uncertain, and, until it ceases to be, most of the bankers and bond dealers will confine their activities to other classes of bonds.

THE CONDITION OF TRADE.

The trade reviews of the week agree that the continued labor unsettlement in the coal mining industry has served to check business. Holiday buying is reported to be in evidence, and shortages in many lines are apparent. Dun's Review says:

A return to unrestrained productive effort, so much needed to remedy the prevailing short ages of goods and to halt the rising tendencies of prices, has been further delayed by continuance of the bituminous coal mining controversy, and by other disputes that still impede the free processes of output and distribution of commodities. Given more stable industrial conditions, business progress would be measurably stimulated, and even now, with all the obstacles that are being encountered, there is conspicuous activity in many directions. Bank clearings continue to reflect the maintenance of conspicuous activity in many industrial and mercantile lines, the total this week at twenty leading cities in the United States amounting to $6,837,605,403, which represents increases of 27.8 and 54.9 per cent., respectively, over the corresponding weeks in the two immediately preceding years.

Bradstreet's says:

Exceptional activity in trade and firmer prices for commodities find something like a counterbalance in the slower movement of manufacturing industry, confined almost entirely to the West. Explanation of the curtailment visible in Western industry lies in the continued deadlock in the coal strike and the gradual using up of accumulated fuel supplies by mills, furnaces, and factories. Thus, while trade reports testify to active retail buying, enlarging holiday trade, the reports as to ability of Western manufacturers to satisfy demands are becoming encouraging.

IRREGULAR PRICES RULE IN COTTON

Early Quotations Decline, but Market Turns Quickly Upward Before Closing

EXPORTS AGAIN A FEATURE

Total Clearances for the Month to Date 877,061 Bales, Largest on Record.

Further irregularity characterized yesterday's cotton market when it reopened after the holiday. The Liverpool market had scored a good improvement during our closing, and the weather over most of the belt had been distinctly bad, with snow reported in some quarters. But the failure of the negotiators to arrive at some definite conclusion regarding the coal strike and the uncertainty of the stock market more than counterbalanced the bullish factors and at the start, and for some time thereafter, cotton prices fell.

A good part of the early selling originated with the local commission houses and those which also deal in stocks, and as it appeared in much heavier volume than the trade buying the market was forced down rapidly. The opening was soft, and then on the following further decline prices fell 65 to more than 90 points for all months other than December, which withstood the selling better than any other month, and only lost 37 points at the low price of the day. A contributing factor to the selling were the reports of threatened labor trouble in the mill districts around Fall River, where operatives are making fresh wage increase demands.

In the afternoon, when the export clearances were posted and it was shown that the tremendous outward movement was still unchecked, the market began to rally. By this time, too, a good part of the Wall Street and commission house selling had spent itself, and as the trade was still taking contracts the market rose almost as rapidly as it had fallen in the forenoon. Some late crop advices from the South, which showed conditions very unfavorable, also helped in the recovery.

The big exports were again a feature in the day's news. Yesterday's total was 77,098 bales, while on Thursday the total was 41,782 bales, making the total for the week 320,595 bales, a new high record which displaced the previous high of the week before, when 246,058 bales were exported. For the month, with two days missing, the total as reported on the Cotton Exchange sheet, is 877,061 bales, against 341,567 bales for the same period of last year. This large figure is considerably in excess of the monthly high record given in the Census Bureau returns, which is 796,588 bales for October, 1914. As the official figures usually show totals somewhat larger than the unofficial figures, and considering that there are still two days to be heard from, it is not improbable that the official total for November will be in the neighborhood of 950,000 bales.

RESERVE BANK RAISES RATE.

Advances by ¼ Per Cent. Price Offered for Bankers' Acceptances.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank has advanced the rate at which it will purchase bankers' acceptances one-fourth of 1 per cent. The buying rate is now 4½ per cent. for fifteen-day bills and 4¾ per cent. for ninety-day bills, as against the previous rates of 4¼ and 4½ per cent., respectively. The new rates, it is understood, went into effect on Wednesday, but as there was no formal announcement of any alteration in rates on that day the fact did not become generally known until yesterday.

The purpose of the advance, it was said at the Reserve Bank, was to bring the bank's rate "into line" with the open market, where rates have been considerably higher than at the bank for the last three weeks, or ever since the central institution raised the rates at which it will rediscount for member banks. However, the latest increase in the Reserve Bank's buying rate only served to send open market rates higher, and some bankers were of the opinion yesterday that a further increase would be necessary in the very near future if the Reserve Bank is to function as it should.

When the Reserve Bank advanced its rediscount rates last month it allowed its buying rate to remain at the old figures, notwithstanding that practically every dealer in bankers' acceptances insisted that no outside business could be done on that schedule. When the Reserve Bank's rate stood at 4¼ per cent. for fifteen-day bills and at 4½ per cent. for the longer maturities the open market ruled fully ¼ per cent. higher and for many bills was about one-half of 1 per cent. higher.

Since that time the trend in the open market has been distinctly upward, until yesterday the short bills were selling at 4¾ per cent. and the longer bills at 5 to 5⅛ per cent. Thus there is still a considerable "spread" between what the Reserve Bank will pay for prime acceptances and what the open market is willing to pay. Even at the higher figures in the open market, dealers say, there is a great paucity of demand, both among local institutions and those out of town. A few banks up State are said to be in the market for good bills, but the big banks here, which usually constitute the main source of demand, are not buying in anything like their usual quantity. To attract them back into the market, dealers believe, it will be necessary for the rate to advance still further, but the dealers say they can do little, if anything, unless the Reserve Bank follows the market rate more closely than it has been doing.

JUDGE MAY RUN CARS IN TOLEDO

Operating Company States Terms for Accepting Federal Court's Proposal

WOULD ELIMINATE BUSES

During 60 Days of Court Operation Commission Would Draft Plans for Popular Vote.

TOLEDO, Nov. 28.—Toledo still is walking or riding in buses and is likely to continue to do so for several days as the result of a temporary break in the negotiations started in the United States District Court here today.

At a meeting of company and city officials with Judge John M. Killits tonight the company asked more time to consider the proposals of the court for a settlement by temporary restoration of car service and the appointment of a commission by the court. No time was set for another conference and the special meeting of the council, originally called for tomorrow morning, was rescinded by Mayor Schreiber today.

The company did not refuse to accept the court's proposals, but presented these conditions upon which it might bring the cars back:

1. A temporary ordinance granting the right to operate cars and protect the company.
2. A high enough temporary fare for street car service to make a permanent settlement at lower fares attractive to the people.
3. Elimination of bus competition during the interval of temporary service.

Judge Killits proposed that he appoint a commission of ten men, to be approved by the city authorities, and that this commission should work out alternative ordinances, one for a franchise under the cost-plus plan and the other for municipal ownership. These ordinances would go to the people. Sixty days would be allowed for this work and during that time the court would operate the cars, dictating routes and fares.

Semi-official announcement was abroad this afternoon after the arrival of Henry L. Doherty from New York that his company would resume operation on the basis of a ten-cent fare, but no public statement was made.

The special meeting of the council had been called for tomorrow morning to act on the mandatory order of Mayor Cornell Schreiber, asking Judge John M. Killits, United States District Court, to compel the company to resume operation of its cars immediately. Judge Killits said, while he believed the new laws governing the powers of the State Public Utilities Commission covered the situation, he also believed the council should sanction Mayor Schreiber's motion for such an order.

The citizens had a good test of motor bus service today, with the streets filled with slush. Nearly 50 per cent. of the buses were not in operation, and thousands of workmen were unable to reach their factories. The cars have now been off the streets for twenty days.

Rail Rumor Not Believed.

In local railroad quarters the rumor that the railroads would be turned back to private operation on Dec. 1 was characterized as "absurd," in view of the fact that statements for the Administration have been issued in recent months designating Jan. 1, 1920, as the date upon which the Government would relinquish control. In this connection attention was drawn to a statement made by Senator Cummins, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce, on Nov. 4, 1919, following a conference he had had on that date with Walker D. Hines, Director General of Railroads. Mr. Cummins's statement read: "We are informed definitely that the railroads will be returned by the President to the companies on Jan. 1. In that situation, and with the uncertainty about passing much-needed legislation before they are returned, the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce has been in a conference to consider the possibility of taking steps to pass temporary measures to render the transitional period easier."

TO INVESTIGATE OIL RIGHTS.

Assets Realization Company Looking Up Its Texas Properties.

The Assets Realization Company has sent investigators to Texas to inquire into a report that it owns substantial mineral and oil rights on land which it sold in that State. The discovery of these rights came through the statement of a former Vice President of the company, who asserted that it was his belief that the mineral rights had never been sold. No notation to this effect appeared on the books of the company.

A statement put out by the company yesterday reads as follows:

"In connection with the arrangement with one of the former officers of the Assets Realization Company, concerning which announcement has been made, the Assets Realization Company has been furnished with a schedule giving the location of thirteen properties in Donley County and one in Gray County, Texas, consisting of 5,183 acres in which it owns one-fourth of the oil and mineral rights, and five properties in Donley County and three properties in Gray County, totaling 4,390 acres in which it owns one-half of the oil and mineral rights.

"An examination of the records of the Assets Realization Company disclosed the fact that no notations of these reservations were made at the time on the company's books. In view of this disclosure and the fact that the arrangement referred to has now expired, the Assets Realization Company has determined to complete its own investigation as to all of the properties it previously owned and conveyed in Texas as well as one of two other Western States. It has been ascertained so far that the company owned and conveyed 9,573 acres which are located in thirty-four counties in Texas. It is not known to any of the officers of the Assets Realization Company at the present time whether oil and gas actually exist on any of these properties or to what extent any reservations may have been made. Immediate steps will be taken to establish the facts."

N. O. & N. E. Income Below Standard

The report of the New Orleans & Northeastern Railroad Company for 1919 shows a net corporate income of $722,559, which was equivalent to $12.04 a share earned on the $6,000,000 capital stock. In the preceding year $19.75 a share was earned on the stock. The Federal operating account for the year, which was attached to the report, showed that the property failed to earn the standard return guaranteed by the Government by $229,553, which was the Federal operating deficit.

PLAN HOTEL ON SITE OF RUTGERS CHURCH

Presbyterian Congregation Disposes of Property at 73d Street and Broadway.

14-STORY BUILDING TO GO UP

New Structure Will Cost $3,000,000 —Church Built in 1889—Congregation Founded in 1798.

The Rutgers Presbyterian Church property on the southwest corner of Seventy-third Street and Broadway has been purchased by Sheriff David H. Knott and Henry J. Veitch, President of the Hotel St. Andrew Company, as a site for a fourteen-story hotel to cost about $3,000,000.

The property, which has been in the market for some time, was held at about $1,000,000, and is considered one of the best located and most valuable parcels of its size in upper Broadway.

No plans for the future have been formulated as yet by the Trustees of the church.

The property just disposed of adjoins the Hotel St. Andrew on the north, fronting 106.10 feet on Broadway, 100 feet abutting the hotel, 137 feet on Seventy-third Street, with a rear line of 102 feet.

Plans are now being prepared for a 500-room structure that it is said will equal and probably surpass anything ever attempted in this class of modern construction. Contracts will be let at an early date.

While the present church was erected in 1889, the organization is one of the oldest in this city, its one-hundredth anniversary having been celebrated in 1898.

At its foundation the church was known as the Rutgers Street Presbyterian Church. In 1863 the church moved from its old home in Rutgers Street to Madison Avenue and Twenty-ninth Street. In the Fall of 1887 the present site at Broadway and Seventy-third Street was selected and six lots were purchased by the Church Extension Committee for the church. The church property on Madison Avenue was sold for about $126,000, and the lots on Broadway, which cost $93,700, were conveyed to the Trustees of the church.

The cost of the land, church, and chapel at the time of its dedication was about $240,500.

WARNS TAX EVADERS.

Roper to Prosecute All Who Make False Returns.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Warning was given tax evaders by Commissioner Roper of the Internal Revenue Bureau tonight, that those who have falsified or made incorrect returns may expect "to be called upon any day for an accounting." In no case will leniency be shown corporations or individuals who have attempted to defraud the Government, the Commissioner said.

The Government's drive on tax evaders thus far has netted approximately $200,000,000 more than the amount called for by the returns filed early in the year. Mr. Roper said these figures resulted "merely from scratching the surface" of the huge accumulation of tax returns.

Mr. Roper estimated that approximately $500,000,000 would be collected during the year 1920, $200,000,000 of it by June 30, 1920, in addition to $200,000,000 already collected. Since the recent announcement of the findings of the bureau in the case of the Crucible Steel Company, he said, many corporations and individuals have voluntarily presented amended returns.

ISSUES LIQUOR LICENSES.

Rhode Island Town Permits Cover a Year from Dec. 1.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 28—The Town Council of Johnston today granted the applications of a number of citizens for licenses to sell "pure, spirituous, malt, and intoxicating liquors" for one year beginning Dec. 1, and to sell 4 per cent. beer under the provisions of the State act, which declares beverages containing not more than 4 per cent. of alcohol nonintoxicating.

The Town of North Providence is expected to take similar action tomorrow evening, and the application of hundreds of liquor dealers in the cities of Providence and Woonsocket will be acted on by the Boards of Police Commissioners of these two cities next Monday.

The constitutionality of the national prohibition amendment will be tested in the Federal courts as soon as it becomes effective next January by Attorney General Herbert M. Rice, assisted by ex-United States Senator Joseph W. Bailey of Texas. The Legislature last Winter passed a resolution instructing the Attorney General to take such a step.

Revive New Haven Railroad Suit.

The suit of Edwin Adams and other stockholders of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company against former Directors of the company for restitution of funds alleged to have been improperly spent was yesterday restored to the Federal Court calendar by Judge Learned Hand. This means that the suit will finally be called for trial. The motion of Harold Norris and another group of company stockholders for the appointment of a limited receiver to prosecute the Adams suit will be argued on Dec. 11.

CHARGE FEDERATION DEFIES GOVERNMENT

Wholesale Coal Dealers Say Gompers Organization Flouted Nation.

POINTS TO OHIO ACTIVITIES

Miners' Rejection of Garfield Terms Is Also Styled Rebellious.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Charges that agents of the American Federation of Labor have been guilty of "outright defiance of the Government" in their activities in connection with the coal strike were made tonight by the American Wholesale Coal Association, through its Managing Director, George H. Cushing.

The statement reviews the present strike and holds that operators should abide by the Government's decision.

"There can be no mistake about the position in which the coal trade finds itself as the result of the Thanksgiving Day action of the miners in refusing to accept the decision of the United States Fuel Administrator," the statement reads. "The Government—not the coal men—made the decision. The facts upon which that decision rested were collected by the Government. The finding on those facts was binding on all coal men alike—miners as well as operators. If any one refused to abide by those findings he was defying his Government. The operators assented. The miners dissented."

After discussing the course of the recent negotiations, the statement says:

"The decision was, nominally, Dr. Garfield's decision. Actually, it is a decision of the President's Cabinet which, as the matter now stands, the decision of the executive branch of the Government. That is, the decision was by those alone who are charged with the duty of protecting the people. When that decision was reached the operators were powerless against it, unless they wanted to defy the Government. The operators accepted the decision. The Cabinet's decision was reached, the miners were powerless against it; they wanted to defy the Government. They rejected the decision. They chose, therefore, to defy the Government. As indicating that their choice was deliberate, they went to the meeting of the operators on Thursday with their railroad tickets in their pockets. They voted down summarily three proposals to arbitrate.

"This adds tremendously to the gravity of the present situation. The present attitude of the miners is made clear by other facts. On Oct. 15 they issued a strike order which subsequently was declared by the court to be a violation of the Lever law. They were ordered by the court to withdraw that strike call. The withdrawal order was not official because, as promulgated, it lacked the written signature of the Acting President and the seal of the union.

"When the men refused to return to work because the strike order had not been officially recalled certain agents of the Government are said to have tried to persuade the men to resume the production of coal. Last week some machine runners in Ohio actually cut down coal. The miners' union was under an injunction which restrained its officers from in any way conducting the strike. However, it is said freely in Washington that agents of the American Federation of Labor, who were under no such restraining order, persuaded the leaders to refuse to load out the coal. This was outright defiance of the Government. The same attitude is persisted in by the miners' union when they now refuse to abide by the decision of the President's Cabinet. The miners' union, therefore, is in rebellion today against the Federal Government.

"What can be done, or will be done, to meet the situation is now under serious consideration. The first step which logically suggests itself is that the Government should move, through Judge Anderson's court, to compel the miners to appear and show why they are not in contempt of court because the strike order has not been officially withdrawn."

To be Sentenced for "Moonshining."

Hyman Coopersmith of Ridgefield, N. J., who pleaded guilty in the Federal Court last Wednesday to the charge of operating an illicit still, will be sentenced on Monday. The charge against his son, Samuel, arrested in the same raid, was dismissed.

Six Start to Fly to Hampton Roads.

Lieutenant A. S. Deitrich and Ensign W. E. Blackwell, pilots, left the Naval Air Station at Rockaway Point yesterday in an F-5 plane for Hampton Roads with a crew of four men. It was expected that the flight would take four hours.

WOULD GIVE FILIPINOS INDEPENDENCE SOON

Demand of Congress for Stable Government Met, Says Governor General Harrison.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The Filipino people have established the stable Government demanded by Congress as the prerequisite for the granting of their independence, in the opinion of Governor General Harrison of the Philippines, expressed today in his annual report. Governor Harrison reiterated the hope that "early independence will be conceded."

Every American soldier could have been withdrawn from the islands during the war, Governor Harrison said, and the United States could have depended on the Filipino people "to defend the American interests and the prestige of the American flag in the archipelago."

TAX ON BEQUEST DISPUTED.

State Claims Fee on General Carpenter's Legacy to Infirmary.

Whether an infirmary at a county poor farm is a charitable institution under the laws of New York State is a question on which Surrogate Fowler reserved decision yesterday, when it was argued before him on behalf of State Controller Travis and the authorities of Saratoga County.

The will of General Horace W. Carpenter left $50,000 for the tuberculosis hospital and infirmary at the Saratoga poor farm, but it has been taxed $2,750 by the transfer tax appraiser because the Controller contends only gifts to private charitable corporations are exempt from taxation, and that this does not include State, city, and county institutions.

The county authorities contended that the ruling made by the State Controller is unconstitutional, both under the State and Federal Constitutions. In asking for briefs the Surrogate told the attorneys they had raised "a very nice legal point."

Bail to Aid Bellboys' Fund.

In order to replenish the beneficial fund of the New York bell boys, which covers all charges for illness and makes possible the "birth bonus" paid by the fund, a ball will be held at Palm Garden on Tuesday night. The "birth bonus" was established by the uniformed service department of the McAlpin and other Boomer hotels, in 1914, when an epidemic of marriages occurred between the bell boys and the telephone girls. The sum of $50 is paid by the fund toward the expenses at the time of the birth of each child to one of the staff. Thirty-eight payments on this account have been made.

Men's Fine Overcoats

"Made in Our Own Shops"

"How can you do it?" is a question often asked us by other makers.

"We get almost these prices wholesale," they tell us.

There's a very GOOD reason for it. There is only one very modest Best & Co. profit, and YOU save the intermediate profit. That's HOW we do it and that's WHY this is one of the fastest growing men's shops anywhere.
